REFINING OF OIL VAST INDUSTRY IN CHICAGO AREA

Research Here Boon to Age of Speed.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Oil refining has one of its important centers in the Chicago area. Especially is this true of laboratory research in the manufacture of high anti-knock gasoline and high pressure, heat resisting lubricants, without which modern high speed, streamlined transportation would hardly be possible.

For, after all, the engine travels on the "skin of oil," as the phrase is, which keeps its running parts from sticking together.

Although far from being the largest center, the Chicago area contains about 5 per cent of the capacity of the oil refineries in the United States. Plants at Whiting and East Chicago, Ind., and at Joliet and Lemont have a total capacity of 210,700 barrels of crude oil a day, 42 gallons to the barrel. They have a cracking capacity of 142,000 barrels.

In Nearby Indiana Cities.

At Whiting the Standard Oil company has the largest complete crude processing plant and one of the largest cracking plants in the world. Here it refines petroleum piped from wells in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas—three weeks it takes for a barrel of crude oil to move from the mid-continent oil field to the refinery, the stream moving continuously in the pipe line.

At East Chicago the Shell Petroleum corporation is said to have the largest gasoline cracking unit in the world. Here, too, the Sinclair Refining company has a refinery which, in the Chicago area, rates second in capacity to Whiting.

These are the days of the industrial chemists. The producers have their own laboratories, and in addition are other important laboratories. Standard Oil has a staf of 100 scientists, and at Whiting two years ago it developed its propane dewaxing process.

Speed of New Technique.

In this, propane, once burned as a refinery gas, is liquefied under pressure and used to freeze wax out of motor oils, giving a light lubricant which flows at low temperatures. The new process is said to filter wax out of oil 100 times as fast as old methods.

The Universal Oil Products company has a staf of more than 300 scientists, chemists, engineers, and technologists in its research laboratory at Riverside. This company does not manufacture, but is a research organization, licensing processes for use by the refining industry.

To indicate how the Chicago influence reaches out, this company at present is carrying on from Chicago 10 million dollars of design work on cracking equipment in foreign countries. Dr. Gustav Egloff, director of research, says "the sun never sets" on the operations of his organization.

Stimulated by Depression.

The Pure Oil company has laboratories in Chicago in which it carries on fundamental research.

When the depression came all the laboratories got busier than ever. In the 10 years ended in 1930 the number of refinery chemists in the United States trebled, going from 8,891 to 25,274.

The last five years have seen a large growth. It is due largely to new demands put on the oil industry by the designers of engines for high speed automobiles and airplanes, two industries which battled the depression by improving their products and service.

Now the Chicago chemists maintain that 60 to 80 miles an hour cruising speed on the highways, and dinner in Chicago, early breakfast in San Francisco, and four hours to New York by air could not have come about without new types of resistant oil films and anti-knock gasoline. So they cut in for a share of the credit for the modern high speed age.

Effect of Cracking Process.

The cracking process in making gasoline, which was put into commercial operation some 22 years ago, also is held to have done more for conservation of petroleum natural resources than all the statesmanship at Washington during that period.

NATION FACING NEW RELATIONS IN WORLD COURT

Senate May Vote on Entry Today.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Entrance of the United States into the world court, which the senate is expected to vote tomorrow or Tuesday, will represent a new venture for this country in international affairs and signalize perhaps the greatest triumph of "weasel words" since men acquired proficiency in the use of language to conceal thought.

While Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.] and other proponents have been arguing that the United States by joining the court will be furthering world peace, and while Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] and other opponents have been contending that we are about to leap through the back door of the league of nations into all the broils of Europe, comparatively little attention has been paid to the hocus pocus practiced on our principal reservation by the European necromancers.

12 Billion War Bill.

Now you see it and now you don't, as the senate's famous fifth reservation is manipulated by the practiced hands of the shell game artists across the seas who have already relieved Uncle Sam of 12 billion dollars for the privilege of participating in the European game.

Here is the great feat of diplomatic sleight of hand in one reel: The senate decrees that the United States join the world court on the condition that the court will entertain no request for an advisory opinion without the consent of the United States in any matter in which the United States has or claims an interest. The European powers accept that reservation, with the proviso that if the court wants to render an advisory opinion without our consent in a matter which we claim an interest it may do so and we may withdraw from the court, if we like.

The senate foreign relations committee agrees to that interpretation of our reservation with the further reservation that according to our understanding the court "shall not, over an objection by the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

Even Lawyers Uncertain.

As a result of all this hair splitting and thimble rigging even the Philadelphia lawyers are uncertain of the precise whereabouts and state of our great reservation.

All this started back in 1926 when the senate consented to the entrance of the United States into the world court with five reservations. The European powers accepted the first four reservations and the first half of the fifth, and amended the statute of the court to conform therewith. But they didn't like the second half of the fifth reservation conditioning our adherence upon our power to veto an advisory opinion.

Their attitude abundantly confirmed suspicions that they contemplated circumstances in which the court might advise the league of nations regarding action in an American question notwithstanding the objections of the United States. For example, the court might advise the league that it would be justified in taking steps to deprive the United States of control of the Panama canal.

New Formula Produced.

So the European powers set out to perform some legerdemain on our reservation. They assembled an aggregation of past masters in the weaving of the "weasel words" of law and diplomacy. Elihu Root was induced to go over and join the group, which eventually produced what became known as the Root-Hurst formula for the treatment of our reservation.

This formula, which became article V. of a new protocol of accession of the United States to the world court, provided that "with a view to insuring that the court shall not, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest" the league of nations shall notify the United States of any such proposal. Thereupon, "if

THE "RED BATON"

Kaiser Fires Cook; Starts Story of Plot

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DOORN, Netherlands, Jan. 27.—Former Kaiser Wilhelm II. celebrated his 76th birthday in exile here today surrounded by members of his family. Among the visitors were former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm and Crown Princess Cecilie, his only daughter; Duchess Victoria of Brunswick, his only living sister; the landgravine Margarete of Hesse, his brothers, Prince August Wilhelm and Prince Eitel Friedrich, and several grandchildren.

Despite the presence of the usually gay young princes, a cloud of anxiety seemed to hang low over the doorstep of Doorn manor. There are several reasons.

The monarchists, who in former years came in great number to protest their loyalty to the exiled emperor on his birthday, failed to appear. The Hohenzollerns realize that even those loyal to Wilhelm are no longer able to leave Germany, even for a short visit to Doorn, chiefly because of fear of displeasing the Nazi rulers and also because of financial reasons.

Sympathizers Are Wary.

Ever since a year ago, when, at a banquet on the eve of Wilhelm's birthday, old imperial officers were beaten by Nazis and their decorations trampled in the dust, his sympathizers have been stepping warily. The absence of birthday callers was a great disappointment to the former kaiser, who still dreams of the day he will return to the fatherland.

Then, too, there was the incident involving the Hohenzollern cook. The official version is that the cook, a former German soldier, is suffering from a contagious disease contracted in the world war which he had kept a secret for fifteen years. When the illness became known he was removed to a hospital in Germany. The citizens of Doorn declare this does not explain why they have heard Princess Hermine, the former emperor's wife, declare publicly:

"There ought to be a law making it possible to hang a person like the cook."

Plotted Against Wilhelm.

They assert the real reason for the cook's sudden departure is that he was discovered to have been plotting against the former kaiser.

Extra precautions were taken today to insure the safety of Wilhelm and his family. Each person who came to pay his respects to the exiled monarch by signing the visitor's register at the lodge near the entrance gate of castle was watched by extra guards and detectives.

40 VOTE DOOLITTLE 'OUTSTANDING' U. S. AIR PILOT OF TODAY

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Forty members of the Gas-Craft club, all of them ex-service, commercial, and private flyers, voted today on "who is America's outstanding airplane pilot?"

Almost unanimously their choice was Maj. James Doolittle.

Tied for second place were Clyde Pangborn and Wiley Post.

Other results of the poll:

America's safest flyer—William G. Alexander, navy pilot.

Best woman flyer—Amelia Earhart.

Greatest civilian air booster—Will Rogers.

Greatest air hero—Lieut. Frank Luke. [Luke was killed in action during the war after shooting down at least 14 German balloons. His father was given his congressional medal of honor.]

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was rated as one who has done most to advance aviation since the first flight of the Wright brothers.

MYSTERY BLAZE IN CATHEDRAL AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 28 [Monday].—(AP)—All available fire equipment was called early today to fight a blaze of unknown origin in the St. John's cathedral here. The building, on Jackson street near East Wells, close to the downtown district, was considered one of Milwaukee's outstanding landmarks. It was built in 1847 and rededicated in 1853 as the cathedral of the Catholic archbishop of Milwaukee.

A police squad was reported to have turned in the first alarm at about 1:30 a. m. Two more alarms followed.

Fire crews, fighting dense smoke and flames from three sides of the classic structure, broke through a large stained glass window to admit air.

Wearing gas masks, firemen entered the sacristies and sanctuary to remove valuable liturgical vestments and other altar furnishings.

Cat Burrows in Snow to House Family-to-Be

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Four kittens were born in a snow igloo last night. The mother, homeless, burrowed deep in a drift as the kittens were about to be born. A patrolman heard the crying of the new comers. He dug them out. Tonight the family had warmer quarters—the police station.

Three Pennies in Stomach; and One More for 'Interest'

Williamsport, Pa., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Jimmy McIlroy went into the banking business and apparently earned "interest." The family of the 2 year old lad thought he had "deposited" 3 pennies in his stomach. Physicians found four.

Chinese Gives Life as Forfeit for Stam Baby

TSINANFU, Shantung Province, China, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A nameless Chinese prisoner sacrificed his life for little Helen Priscilla Stam, orphaned at the age of 3 months by the murder of her missionary parents, it was disclosed today.

W. J. Hanna of Toronto, an official of the China Inland Missions who brought the child here from Wuhu, Anhwei province, to live with her grandparents, told the story.

After the execution of the Rev. and Mrs. John C. Stam at Miaosheo, southern Anhwei, last December, the communist captors of the Stams were on the point of killing the child to avoid the bother of taking care of it, Hanna said, but a man who had been released by communists only a few hours before from the village prison pleaded for the infant's life.

"Don't harm an innocent thing like this," he urged. "It has done no harm to us."

"Who are you?" a communist officer asked. "Why do you intercede for the baby?"

Begs Baby Be Spared.

The prisoner said he had no connection with "these foreigners," Hanna related, but begged that the baby's life be spared.

"Who will forfeit his life for the child?" the officer asked. The released prisoner volunteerdd and was killed on the spot. The baby was spared and was found after the retreat of the Reds in an abandoned house.

Hanna, who made a thorough investigation of the circumstances of the Stam murder, said this account had been amply authenticated by Chinese witnesses. They said the martyr "gained great heavenly favor."

Hanna declared his investigation showed there was no truth to published insinuations that Mrs. Stam may have been raped by her captors.

China's Most Famous Baby.

Little Helen Priscilla has become China's most famous baby. Like many others, her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Scott, regard her rescue as providential. The infant was spared from death once before, they pointed out, at the time of her birth, which was performed with difficulty by means of a Cæsarean operation.

The baby now has fat, chubby cheeks. She shows keen mental development, noticing and taking sharp interest in people approaching her. Her 10:30 evening meal has been eliminated. She is greatly attached to a Chinese "amah" or nurse, who has been with her since her birth. She wears a pink bonnet knitted by her mother shortly before her death.

State Pledges "Sensations" in Quiz of Bruno

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The renewed cross-examination of Bruno Richard Hauptmann tomorrow morning probably will elicit "sensational developments," Attorney General David T. Wilentz announced at Trenton tonight.

The prosecutor was jubilant on the eve of continuing the questioning of Hauptmann, charged with the murder of the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

"Details as important as the 'boad' incident probably will be brought out," declared the attorney general. He rereferred to his cross-examination of Hauptmann late Friday, when it was revealed that the defendant spelled "boat" with a final "d" in his notation in a notebook just as the word was spelled in the ransom notes.

Expects More Admissions.

"New evidence will be brought out on cross-examination, I am sure," said Wilentz. "I think Hauptmann has broke down to a small extent and I expect to wring more admissions from him tomorrow.

"Hauptmann has been exposed as a cold, calculating man who shows no more emotion when viewing the sleeping suit of the slain baby than when talking in dollars and cents about his financial transactions. He has consummate gall, but he can't help faltering when his contradictions are shown him."

Talking about the state's rebuttal testimony, he remarked that Col. Lindbergh has no desire to resume the stand to strengthen his identification of Hauptmann's voice unless "it becomes necessary."

Condon May Go Back.

"But if the defense goes through with its announced intention of trying to prove that Dr. John F. Condon was a gang leader," he commented with a smile, "Dr. Condon will go back on the stand and have some new things to say. It's a bedtime story, of course, but we will have to refute it."

By no means near a collapse, as reported in some quarters, but decidedly unhappy was Hauptmann as he awaited a renewal of his cross-examination tomorrow morning. He was particularly worried, it was learned, about the four notebooks in which he scribbled some odds and ends many years ago and which are to be produced against him.

These notebooks were found in his home. Hauptmann had obviously forgotten all about them and does not remember their contents. It is the fear that they may contain some other peculiarity of spelling or style similar to the phraseology in the ransom notes that disturbs him, it was said.

Script Looks Like Notes.

One of the books is an account book. Another contains some remarks scribbled in German while Hauptmann was in the German army. Even this script bears a close resemblance to the crude English writing in the ransom notes, prosecution lawyers declared.

There were as usual many rumors during the day. The most popular one was that Hauptmann was prepared to confess because he had been shaken by the cross-examination. This report was not supported either by Hauptmann's attitude on the stand under the fire of the attorney nor by any assertions from his counsel.

VELVET GLOVE CONCEALS IRON HAND OF HUEY

Capital Calm Under Martial Law.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
(Pictures on Back Page.)

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—In the shadow of Huey Long's proud marble capitol, which rises astonishingly out of a countryside of poor shacks and swamps like the magnificent palaces of the maharajahs of India, state troops were camped today to hold this city and parish under domination until Senator Long returns from Washington next Friday to resume the inquiry into the reported assassination plot against himself. Additional troops arrived during the day.

Baton Rouge is now a military district, as New Orleans was during the last election in which Senator Long was interested. Brig. Gen. L. F. Guerre is chief in command, and while citizens are commanded to go about their business as usual, and the iron hand of martial law is concealed under a velvet glove, the military authorities are prepared to act vigorously and firmly as the occasion demands.

There does not appear any further likelihood of a clash between civilians and military, as all congregations of people are forbidden, and two or more, according to the military proclamation, make a crowd if the soldiers decide they are dangerous. "Carrying concealed weapons is forbidden.

People Discuss Frost.

The people moved about their sunny streets as usual this morning. The arrival of the troops and the effects of the recent frost, an amazing thing in these parts, where the strawberries are just coming into bloom, furnished the twin topics of conversation.

The fifteen churches were as well attended as usual, as the military did not consider this under the ban. The skies were blue and cloudless, the air fragrant with spring breezes. The old river flowed by their front doors, carrying driftwood and debris of the flood, lazily as ever.

The only emphatic restriction, aside from crowds and guns, was applied to the press in the following paragraph of the proclamation:

"No publication, either by newspaper, handbill, pamphlet, or otherwise, reflecting in any way upon the state of Louisiana or its officers, or tending to influence the public mind against the state of Louisiana, or its officers, and no article reflecting in any way upon the work of the military authorities will be permitted."

Abandon Prosecution Idea.

It does not appear to be the intention to prosecute or disturb further those 300 members of the Square Deal association who had the temerity to take their guns and try to drill on the airport field yesterday afternoon in the face of martial law. The new proclamation states in regard to these:

"All persons who may heretofore have given aid to, or otherwise supported the lawlessness hitherto existing in this military district, who shall immediately engage in peaceful occupations and a compliance with these regulations, holding no communication of any kind with any lawless person or persons, will not be molested."

"The soldiers ought to take all those people and shoot them," said a kindly looking old German woman, who came to Baton Rouge today for the first time in her life to wander amid the marble splendors of the new capitol.

Huey—Friend of Poor.

To her and to her son, who accompanied her, the story of the plot to kill Senator Long was more terrible than the shooting of a hundred citizens.

"He is the only man that was ever good to the poor," she said. She recalled the assassination of President Lincoln and the attempted shooting of President Roosevelt in Miami as fitting comparisons. She was taken to the throne room of the senator and lovingly patted his head sculptured in the wall. She was taken to the top of the 33 story tower and told the dream of Senator Long to build bridges and roads over lakes and swamps and construct a new series of state buildings along a wide boulevard. It was like the kingdom of heaven to her simple soul.

In the assassination plot the senator has found a new issue which takes the conflict out of the sordid field of politics. During his absence in Washington his military and other aids will be getting new witnesses, watching the accused, and preparing for the hearing next week. What will happen after that no one can tell.

All of the accused officials in the alleged plot deny the testimony of Sidney Songy, former prohibition informer, who told his astonishing story yesterday in the sacred precincts of the hitherto unused Supreme court chambers. A benign mural figure of a woman holding out a page from the book of Psalms to a bewildered people was the presiding atmosphere of this scene.

"Conspirators" Named.

Those accused of having conspired to have Senator Long waylaid in his automobile at Deadman's Curve, on the highway to New Orleans, last Thursday night, were named by Songy, who was one of the conspirators and at the same time in contact with Joe Messina, Senator Long's bodyguard, as District Attorney John Fred Odom of East Baton Rouge; Dallas Gross, who is in the office of Congressman J. Y. Sanders Jr.; Powers Higginbotham, recently displaced as commissioner of streets and parks in Baton Rouge; Fred Parker, formerly deputy sherif of this parish; Sherif Henry Sherburns of Iberville parish; Fred O'Rourke, an employé of the Standard Oil company; Sherif Sidney Debroca of West Baton Rouge parish; Roland Kizer, a Baton Rouge attorney, and Assistant District Attorney Fred Leblanc of Baton Rouge.

Higginbotham, the only one of the group who was to be found yesterday in time for the ex-parte hearing, denied all knowledge of the plot.

From the tower of the capitol the forest of tanks and smokestacks of the Standard Oil refinery, which employs about 6,000 men, and which is the chief industry in Baton Rouge, may be seen. It is to this spot that Senator Long points as the genesis of the trouble. Most of the Square Deal men were, it is said by Long adherents, made up of employés of this company, which has dominated politics for many years and which Senator Long has attacked by putting a 5 cent tax on each barrel of crude oil it receives.

Millions Involved.

This is the chief point for the refining of Mexican and South American oil and it means millions. The threat of the company to lay off its men was what started the armed uprising. In addition, the anti-Long group was supported and fomented by ousted political appointees under the new law giving Long control of the parish jurors, who correspond to county commissioners in patronage.

J. C. Hilton, president of the company, issued a statement terming "incredible" the charges made in the martial law proclamation that "officers and agents of the Standard Oil company" were the "chief leaders of those exercising violence" in Baton Rouge.

"Surely the governor has been misinformed," said Hilton.

"I cannot understand how he actually could believe that any one in a position of authority with this company could be involved in the circumstances which are said to be responsible for the placing of Baton Rouge under martial law."

No More Mobilizations.

"Law and order has been substituted for violence by the Standard Oil company," was the senator's parting blast.

Ernest L. Bourgeois, president of the Square Deal association, said that this organization would not issue any more mobilization notices or calls to arms in connection with the present trouble. He disclaimed responsibility for the acts of citizens in the present situation. The association, he said, would try to function legally as a state-wide unit and not be forced into any muddled premature attempts at force.

"It will act when it knows itself ready and the hour is ripe," he said.

TROOPS REINFORCED

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Senator Huey Long's dictatorship adherents tonight had increased National Guard strength at the seat of their government as the Square Dealers flatly denied responsibility for last night's armed uprising.

Senator Long, en route to Washington with his wife and daughter, was sleeping soundly under the watchful eyes of guards and no one was permitted to disturb him.

In the absence of Ernest J. Bourgeois, president of the Square Deal association, who appeared in the citizens' battle line at the airport yesterday but has not been located since, Chester P. St. Amant, secretary-treasurer, today denied that organization called out the group of armed anti-Long men.

Referring to the whereabouts of Bourgeois, St. Amant said he probably was "out in the state somewhere," and added "he certainly hasn't disappeared."

Mrs. Bourgois said her husband had gone into the country to mobilize forces and decide upon a future course of action. She said she had been in communication with her husband and that she knew where he was but declined to disclose his whereabouts for fear he would be seized by the state militia.

WIFE POSES AS KINGFISH SLEEPS

Mrs. Huey P. Long was glad to pose for photographers yesterday when the senator's train passed through Atlanta on the way to Washington D. C., but Huey stayed in bed to sleep. Mrs. Long is shown with her daughter, Rose. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

COUGHLIN ASKS PLEAS AGAINST WORLD COURT

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Continuing his attack on the world court and reiterating his charges against Norman H. Davis, United States ambassador at large, the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin today urged his listeners to ask their senators to oppose this nation's entry into the tribunal.

"I appeal to every American who loves democracy to stand back of those tried and true senators in their fight to keep America safe for Americans and not the hunting ground of international plutocrats," Father Coughlin said.

He remarked that Davis had asked him to retract his statement that the ambassador at large was associated with the Kreuger-Toll Match corporation.

Father Coughlin then read excerpts from a story which he said appeared in a newspaper announcing the appointment of Davis as chairman of an international committee to compromise claims of the companies of the late Ivar Kreuger.

Senators Are Deluged.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Senators were being deluged tonight with telegrams urging them to vote against the world court resolution. This supposedly is the result of Father Charles E. Coughlin's radio request to his listeners to lodge protest with their senators against approval of the resolution putting the United States into the world court.

U. S. NAVAL BASE IN CANAL ZONE FIRES ALIEN HELP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COCO SOLO, Panama Canal Zone, Jan. 27.—Following orders from Washington, D. C., the 15th naval district is weeding out civilian alien employés. Naval men admit that the movement is in the interest of national defense, but are reluctant to discuss the extent to which the policy is being carried out.

Native as well as West Indian laborers are being retained, but Europeans, as well as persons from the Far East, are being dismissed. Their places are being taken by naval enlisted men. The fleet air base today dismissed fourteen aliens, mainly clerical and technical employés and messengers. Sailors replace them tomorrow.

The naval base in the past has employed many aliens in capacities in which inside information regarding the defenses of the Panama canal was easily obtained. Naval officers said they are seeking to prevent espionage and are guarding against sabotage.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ASKS AMERICAN ADHERENCE TO THE WORLD COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—In an unheralded radio address apparently designed to counteract the effect of Father Coughlin's radio speech earlier in the day, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, tonight made a plea for American adherence to the world court as a means of furthering world peace.

"Is it really the spirit of our country's men and women, young and old, that they are afraid to join the world court?" asked Mrs. Roosevelt. "I cannot believe it! The world war wasted billions of money and many, many human lives. After it we had a short-lived prosperity and since then we have entered the depths of depression. We are finding our way out, but to say that any action which may help to prevent a recurrence of war is of no importance to the people of this country seems to me shortsighted. I remember the war well; I have looked on the acres of cemeteries in other countries where lie our boys and the boys of other nations.

"These dead are the result of war! You may not care what happens in Europe or in Asia, but you feel here at home the result of anything which happens in other parts of the world. We cannot escape the reaction long.

"I have the greatest respect for the honored statesmen who are opposed to our entry into the world court, though I differ from them for the reasons which I have given you. We cannot escape being a part of the world. Therefore, let us make this gesture for peace, and remember there was no world court in 1914 when the great war began. Since we have a world court no nations have been forced into war by a decision of that court and some nations have been kept from what might easily have caused a war by these decisions."

NATION FACING NEW RELATIONS IN WORLD COURT

Senate Due to Vote Today or Tomorrow.

desired, an exchange of views as to whether an interest of the United States is affected shall proceed" between the league and the United States.

U. S. to Be Notified.

The court likewise is to notify the United States of the receipt of any request for an advisory opinion and stay proceedin.,s pending negotiations between the league and the United States.

Any objection by the United States to a request for an advisory opinion is to be given the "same force and effect" as the vote of a member of the league. That is, if the United States were in the minority it could not stop a move for an advisory opinion.

Then comes the final paragraph containing the meat in the cocoanut:

"If, after the exchange of views provided for in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this article, it shall appear that no agreement can be reached and the United States is not prepared to forego its objection, the exercise of the powers of withdrawal provided for in article 8 hereof will follow naturally without any imputation of unfriendliness or unwillingness to coöperate generally for peace and good will."

Alternative Is to Get Out.

It thus falls out that while agreeing in one breath that the court shall not render an advisory opinion in an American question without the consent of the United States, the European powers in another breath say the court may render such an opinion despite our objection, and if we don't like it we can get out of the court. This formula, interpreting away the chief American reservation, the senate now proposes to accept with a reiteration of the reservation.

The opposition thinks that once in the court America would be far more likely to yield on the question of an advisory opinion than to quit the institution. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson in reporting the formula to President Hoover took an opposite view.

The world court advocates argue that the United States could take no more effective step toward the banishment of war than by entering into the tribunal dedicated to the adjudication of international disputes. The opposition contends that as an adjunct of the European dominated league of nations the court is an instrument of political intrigue and injustice and that the participation of the United States therein assures our insolvement sooner or later in the perennial quarrels of Europe.

Robinson Points to Record.

Senator Robinson, leader of the fight for the court in the senate, said that in the twelve years of its existence the court has made a record for impartiality and justice which commends it to the consideration of those devoted to the pursuits of peace.

Senator Borah, leader of the opposition, asserted that he has long advocated a real world court to adjudicate international controversies on the basis of a code of international law. If the present world court were that kind of a court he would favor the participation of the United States therein. But the present world court is a far different institution, he contended. It is, he asserted, an instrumentality of the league of nations, which in its rendering of advisory opinions to the league peforms the function of an attorney general.

Beaten in Holdup, Retired Clothing Merchant Dies

Leopold Markovitz, 61 years old, 7326 Bennett avenue, a retired clothing manufacturer, died at the Michael Reese hospital last night of injuries he received Nov. 27 when he was slugged by three robbers near his home. After knocking him unconscious the men took the few dollars his wallet contained and fled. Markovitz was found lying on the sidewalk by a passerby.

SEES OPPOSITION TO WORLD COURT HURTING G. O. P.

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Nicholas Murray Butler, Columbia university president, said today the Republican party by its opposition to the ratification of the world court protocol is giving the present administration "new strength" and the people "new reasons" why they should not vote the G. O. P. ticket.

Butler, in a public statement, cited the "attitude of many so-called Republican senators toward the ratification of the coming world court protocol" as an illustration of "what is the matter" with the party.

"Their attitude toward a fundamental principle which their own national convention several times endorsed . . . is inexplicable save on the ground that they had neither ideas, principles or courage, nor any concern for the higher interests of the people," he declared.

"If they think for a moment they are embarrassing the administration by opposing this historic Republican policy, they are gravely mistaken. What they are doing is to give the administration new strength and the people new reasons that they should not vote the Republican ticket."

CAPTURES HOLDUP MAN.

Michael Petrick, 2618 Evergreen avenue, a Yellow cab driver, captured one of two men who attempted to rob him at Armitage and Damen avenues yesterday morning and a short time later the police arrested the robber's companion. The prisoners are George Twaragowski, 2132 Canton street, and John Buszynski, 2310 North Hoyne avenue.

A.F. OF L. BOOMING IN MONEY, SIZE WITH NEW DEAL

NIRA Section 7A Proves Gold Mine.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Section 7-A of the NIRA has poured a cool half million dollars or better into the coffers of the American Federation of Labor.

An examination of the labor organization's accounts showed that today.

Revenues which the organized labor burocracy collected from the workingman jumped from $457,900 in the year preceding enactment of NIRA to $1,070,400 in the first year of the Blue Eagle, a gain of $613,000.

The labor union burocracy, headed by President William Green, who draws an annual salary of $12,000, stands out therefore as one of the major cash beneficiaries under New Deal legislation.

Boosts Collective Bargaining.

Almost all of the 134 per cent boost in receipts which the A. F. of L. enjoyed between 1933 and 1934 was due to the coming of the NIRA and its battle scarred section 7-A which stipulates that workers shall be free to organize for collective bargaining. Arguing that is tantamount to a national closed shop, with the A. F. of L. as the only spokesman for workers, union organizers have used the recovery law to round up new members.

A tenfold increase in initiation fees paid to the A. F. of L. between 1933 and 1934 is shown by the accounts. Collections from this source jumped from $26,600 in 1933 to $248,757 in 1934 as the "walking delegates" suddenly found a gold mine in section 7-A.

Membership in the A. F. of L. affiliated unions advanced from 2,126,796 in 1933 to 2,608,011 in 1934, the first year of the Blue Eagle. Each of the 481,000 new members, beside kicking in with his initiation fee, thereafter adds his monthly dues or "tax" to the steady stream of money flowing into the central A. F. of L. burocracy.

Where Money Is Going.

Where this easy money has gone also is shown by the federation's books. By far the largest chunk has gone into the pockets of the unions' walking delegates, the organizers who are out hustling in new paying members or heading a strike. The number of organizers has been increased.

The A. F. of L. has more than trebled the amount of money spent for "organization" in the single year since the coming of the Blue Eagle, its books show. In its balance sheet the item of "organizers'" salaries and organizing expenses jumped from $100,300 in 1933 to $323,900 in 1934.

Although President Green's $12,000 salary is fixed by the A. F. of L. constitution, as is the $10,000 salary of Secretary Frank Morrison, there have been increased wages elsewhere in the labor burocracy. The pay roll of the central staf here in Washington advanced from $113,529 in 1933 to $184,092 in 1934.

Doesn't Cut Staf Salaries.

There have been no blanket salary increases just as the A. F. of L. never cut its burocracy's pay, although the workers who were financing the burocracy were receiving thinner and thinner pay envelopes. The A. F. of L. explains this by saying "it sets an example" to industry.

The A. F. of L. has four chief sources of income, all of which eventually come from the same place, the workingman's pocket. They are:

A regular per capita tax on members.

Compulsory subscriptions to the American Federationist.

A special diversion of the per capita tax for defense purposes.

Initiation fees.

The per capita tax is 35 cents a month for each member in every affiliated union. Of this sum 12½ cents goes into the war chest, or defense fund, and from the remainder also comes a subscription to the American Federationist.

Fees for Initiation.

The initiation fees of the affiliated unions vary from $2 to $15, of which the central A. F. of L. takes 25 per cent, but in no case less than $1.

These four major sources of revenue yielded as follows last year:

Per capita tax, $385,816; American Federationist fund, $239,747; defense fund, $133,615; initiation fees, $248,757. Other miscellaneous receipts brought the total up to $1,070,400.

Collections by the A. F. of L. from the unionization of workers forms only a part of the total union collections. A large part is held out by the affiliated unions to pay their organizating, strike, and pay roll expenses. Officers of those local organizations are believed to be getting a healthy slice of the new melon raised by the NIRA.

THRONG AT AUTO SHOW SHATTERS BOOM ERA MARK

52,000 Attend in Day; Sales Rocketing.

BY HAL FOUST.

Attendance at the 35th annual automobile show yesterday broke boom era records. The official estimate from the management was 52,000, as compared with a previous day's high of 39,000 on the Sunday of the 1929 exhibition. It seemed likely that a quarter of a million will have seen the motor show before the doors of the Coliseum are closed at 11 o'clock next Saturday night.

Sales, too, are up—20 per cent greater than last year, according to A. C. Faeh, manager of the event. A few more days like Saturday and Sunday will persuade the motor executives, in their temporary headquarters in Chicago hotels, to step up production schedules in this manufacturing industry that is the nation's leading consumer of raw materials.

Verifies Optimism for 1935.

This Chicago show, recognized as a fairly accurate barometer of the country's motor market, is verifying previous predictions that the automobile men in 1935 may anticipate at least a 12 per cent sales increase over 1934. Last year production was 45 per cent greater than in 1933 and 100 per cent greater than in 1932.

At least the Chicago trade territory is recording a buying response to the improved products of the car manufacturers. Residents of Chicagoland—Cook county and its nearby neighbors in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana—will spend $97,500,000 this year for 130,000 new cars and trucks, if the 12 per cent increase over last year becomes an eventuality.

243 Millions for Transport!

The best available estimates, based upon last year's national statistics and upon trafic studies and state registration figures, indicate that Chicagoland will pay $112,304,000 for gasoline and oil this year, $10,976,000 for replacement tires, and $23,192,000 for parts, accessories, and service equipment. This is a total of $243,972,000 for automotive transportation without including any of the box car figures for street and highway improvements.

It's a big industry which is launching its 1935 sales campaign at the Coliseum this week, an industry supporting directly and indirectly a tenth of the nation's gainfully employed.

Auto Show Notes

TODAY has been designated as Army and Navy day at the automobile show. Disabled veterans from the Hines Memorial hospital will be guests of the management.

W. C. Cowling, general sales manager for Ford, will speak at a luncheon of the Automotive Booster club this noon at the Auditorium hotel. The Advertising Men's post of the American Legion, at a luncheon at the Bal Tabarin, will have as honor guests the members of the Chicago Automobile Trade association's show committee.

William R. Tracy, general sales manager of the Hudson Motor company, said yesterday that many former automobile dealers, retired voluntarily or otherwise during the bottom of the depression, are returning to the business. The manufacturers' association listed 36,900 dealers in the country last year with 98,293 garages, service stations and repair shops that totaled—after eliminating duplications—105,944 retail outlets.

Francis H. Fenn, 36 years old and a world war veteran of the submarine service, has been appointed general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car corporation to succeed Rufus S. Cole. The announcement was made by William J. McAneeny, president of the corporation.

Augmenting the dealer and service facilities of the Chrysler sales division in Chicagoland, the Chrysler Illinois company, factory branch at 2230 South Michigan avenue, this year is serving the retail as well as the wholesale trade. Fred Johnston, president of the branch, said that increased sales of 1935 models necessitated this additional retail outlet.

BURGLAR IN HOME OF PASTOR LEAPS 2 STORIES; FLEES

The Rev. Elmer V. Haserodt, pastor of the Faith Evangelical Lutheran church at 8300 South Sangamon street, and his family, left their home next door to the church last night to go to a railroad station where the body of Mrs. Haserodt's mother was being sent away for burial. In their absence, Fred Babcock, 8311 South Morgan street, a parishioner, noticed a first floor window in the pastor's house was broken. He telephoned the Gresham police station, and Policemen John O'Meara and Hilding Olson responded. As the policemen started up the stairs, they heard the noise of breaking glass and of some one jumping from an upstairs window. They raced outside, in time to see their quarry disappearing down the street. They fired, and he returned the shots. Babcock said the burglar apparently had been surprised before he stole anything.

GUEST ENDS LIFE WITH A BULLET IN LOOP HOTEL

The body of B. C. Highley, 60 years old, with a bullet through the head, was found last night in a room at the Brevoort hotel, where he had registered a week ago. There was a pistol beside the body and the police said it was evident that Highley had killed himself. In the room was a note suggesting that the telephone number of Attorney Theodore S. Chapman, 1242 Lake Shore drive, be called. Mr. Chapman, whose brother married a sister of Highley, said that the latter had been despondent over ill health. Highley was formerly a traveling salesman, but had not worked for several years. He lived in Highland Park until recently.

CONTEND NATURE SHUFFLES GENES FOR NEW SPECIES

Scientists Make Report on Experiment.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The workings of heredity and evolution were likened today by two scientists to a game of cards in which nature does the shuffling.

Out of this shuffling, the study said, come new arrangements of the genes, tiny cell parts which control heredity, and as a result—new species.

The discovery has a bearing on almost every phase of heredity and evolution from the origin of the human race to the development of new breeds of corn or cotton resistant to disease.

Until now most scientists had believed that new species and hereditary changes in living creatures were produced only by changes within individual genes. But the new work shows that nature shuffles the genes around besides changing individual genes, and both things can cause hereditary changes.

Russian Is Colleague.

It is the work of Prof. H. J. Muller of the University of Texas, now on leave of absence in Russia, and Dr. A. A. Prokofyeva of the Moscow Academy of Sciences, and was made public by the National Academy of Sciences in Washington.

The scholars report that apparently nature sometimes makes new species by this new alignment of genes which reminded the students of bridge or poker.

Not only are species probably created partly in this way at times, but this could account for the appearance of minor hereditary changes—a black-eyed child in a family that has been blue-eyed for many generations, for example.

Genes are tiny, invisible units deep within the cells of the bodies of every living thing, from humans to the simplest forms of plants. They control heredity by carrying from generation to generation such things as color of hair and eyes, stature, bodily build, etc.

Accurate Maps Made.

They are so small that some scientists think they probably are only molecules or small clusters of atoms, but their action is so definite that it is possible to make accurate maps in some cases showing the locations of the genes that control inheritance of many particular bodily characteristics.

Genes usually are believed to be arranged in strings, in sausage-shaped objects known as chromosomes, resembling a row of peas in a pod. The "shuffling" of genes takes place when the "pods" or chromosomes are occasionally broken and the parts shifted into new positions, so that the genes inside are arranged in different order than before.

"WILLIAM TELL" MISSES; GOES TO JAIL AS SLAYER

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Berdell Childers, tavern operator, today stepped from his rôle of a modern William Tell into the East St. Louis jail, accused of the fatal shooting of John C. Stephens.

Police quoted Childers and two witnesses as saying Stephens was killed in a display of marksmanship at a tavern here.

Childers, officers said, boasted to Stephens, "I can shoot your hat off." The boast was challenged, and a bullet tore through Stephens' forehead.

3 BANDITS HOLD UP LOOP DRUG STORE; ESCAPE WITH $200

Three men, one armed with a shotgun, entered the Liggett drug store at 175 West Randolph street late last night and, after lining up the clerks and ten customers, looted a safe and five cash registers and fled with $200. Theodore Besta, the manager, was compelled by the bandits to open the safe.

Ex-Senator Shortridge Has Heart Attack on Street

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Smauel M. Shortridge, 74, former United States senator from California, was stricken today with a heart attack, but rallied quickly. He was leaving to catch a train for his home.

Find Way to Synthesize 2d Vitamin; Aid in Insanity

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Columbia university tonight announced discovery of the chemical formula of vitamin B, the vitamin without which nerves go to pieces. This discovery gives hope of more effective treatment of nerve disorders. Vitamin B is in use experimentally at the Elgin, Ill., State Hospital for the Insane as a remedy for dementia præcox, a widespread form of insanity.

Further Progress Indicated.

The importance of the Columbia discovery lies in the fact that vitamin B soon can be synthesized in pure form, that is artificially produced from the chemicals which compose it.

Until now vitamin B has been available only from foodstuffs such as tomatoes, spinach, legumes, eggs, yeast, and glandular tissues like liver, kidneys. Its extraction was difficult and it has not been obtained entirely pure.

Synthesis will produce the pure vitamin. Science expects to do that in virtually unlimited quantities.

The formula was discovered by Robert R. Williams of Columbia. It is described in the journal of the American Chemical society.

Set down on paper the arrangement of atoms forming this vitamin roughly resembles an airplane towing a huge target for gunnery practice.

Elements of Vitamin B.

The atoms composing it are carbon, nitrogen, hydrogen, oxygen, and sulphur. That fact has been known for a long time. The discovery is how to hook them together so that they will be vitamin B.

Williams learned the secret of this arrangement by extracting a comparatively large quantity of pure vitamin B. He got it from rice polishings. One ton of those polishings produced one-sixth of an ounce of pure vitamin. He has worked on the problem for 20 years.

Williams started in the Philippines, where he was a member of the United States bureau of science. In the far east rice polishings are a great health problem, because the rice eating nations suffer extensively from beri beri, a devastating nervous trouble. The disease there is due to polishing the rice, removing its outer shell, which contains most of its vitamin B.

B is the fourth of six known vitamins to yield to science in unlimited purified form. All this has happened in three years. The still incomplete experiments with the three vitamin predecessors shows what tremendously efficient dietary weapons these purified substances may be.

Vitamin A, isolated as a pure yellow oil at Ohio State university and at Zurich university in Switzerland, is 10,000 times as potent as cod liver oil.

Vitamin D, the "sunshine" vitamin, isolated by Prof. Adolf Windhaus of Berlin, is so strong that three-billionths of a gram of it cures rickets in animals.

Vitamin C, the scurvy preventive, isolated in pure form by Prof. Szent-Gyorgyi in Europe and Dr. C. G. King of the University of Pittsburgh, apparently opens the way to a series of new medical remedies.

These, as reported to scientific gatherings last fall, include cures for hæmphilia, curse of kings, whose blood will not coagulate, and bleaching of skin spots caused by Addison's disease.

Big Task for Future.

There are still two vitamins missing in purified form. One is sometimes called B-2 and sometimes vitamin G. It is one of the most fascinating. Dr. Henry C. Sherman of Columbia university has identified it as probably having some share in longevity, as having something to do with growth. Its lack is one cause of pellagra.

The other rather unknown vitamin is E—which some authorities say is the cause of fertility, human and animal. Vitamin E appears to be so widely distributed that every one gets it. Lately a few authorities have suggested that perhaps not every one gets enough.

BRUCE BLIVEN VISIONS CENSOR FOR U. S. PRESS

Boston, Mass., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Censorship of the American press in 10 to 15 years was predicted today by Bruce Bliven, formerly managing editor of the New York Globe and now editor of the New Republic. He spoke at the Old South forum.

"The press throughout two-thirds of the world," he asserted, "is under complete censorship today. Two-ninths of the world's population has partial censorship, and only one-ninth has the freedom of the press of the United States and Great Britain."

Saying that movements which spread here from Europe usually take from 10 to 15 years before they become effective in this country, Bliven said some degree of press censorship will be felt here before many years.

GERMANY'S POOR TO SHARE IN NAZI HOLIDAY CHEER

Hitler Winds Up Second Year of His Reign.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Nazi régime will inaugurate the third year of its rule next Wednesday by distributing food and coal worth 23,000,000 marks [about $9,200,000].

Jan. 30, anniversary of Adolf Hitler's seizure of power two years ago, has become a national holiday. In accordance with Nazi principle the poorest of the poor are to share in the cheer of the holiday.

Fourteen million food certificates worth one mark each and six million coal certificates for one hundredweight of coal at one and one-half mark apiece will be given out by winter relief organizations headed by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda.

Attain Supreme Power.

In two years the Nazis have attained power beyond their fondest dreams. So long as President Von Hindenburg lived, the mere existence of this venerable symbol of German conservatism acted as a brake upon Nazi azsolutism. Since Aug. 2, when the field marshal-president closed his eyes forever, nothing has stood in the way of the complete realization of Nazi aspirations.

In one part of their program, suppression of the Jews, they have succeeded so quickly and thoroughly that Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior, recently announced the new constitution of the reich, which will probably be ready in another two years, will debar them from the franchise. In other words, such few Jews as are left will then have to pay taxes and live up to other obligations of a citizen, but will be denied the right to vote.

State Lines Abolished.

Another major aspiration of the Nazis was to abolish state lines and centralize all power in the hands of the federal government. In this, too, they have succeeded. As Minister Frick says:

"All ministers of the reich, all statthalters of the reich, all officials, officers, and soldiers, are responsible to Adolf Hitler, and to him alone."

The complete muzzling of public opinion, another Nazi ideal — though clothed in the garb of an "inner freedom"—has been accomplished with a thoroughness equaled perhaps only in soviet Russia, though even in soviet Russia at least the party press is allowed to criticize. German journalists are absolutely at the mercy of Dr. Goebbels' propaganda ministry.

Church Defies Nazis.

But two years of Nazi rule have not been able to bring about the regimentation of the church. The battle between fundamentalists and neopagans is going on more merrily than ever. Also, Rome and Berlin are still fighting over the interpretation of the concordat with the holy see, with little prospect that the Catholic church will yield to the "totalitarian" claim of the Nazis.

NAMED AS PLOTTER

SENATOR URGES QUIZ ON RECENT SHIP DISASTER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Investigation by a special senate committee of all recent ship disasters will be proposed tomorrow by Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], with a view to enacting a more rigid law "to advance safety at sea."

Displeased with the failure of the senate commerce committee to report his resolution for an inquiry into the Morro Castle catastrophe, Wagner said:

"Legislation is being proposed. It cannot be effective legislation until the facts are known. We are still in the valley of doubt about the Morro Castle. We know practically nothing about the Mohawk."

Others also were proposing legislation for safety at sea.

Ten Are Still Missing.

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Search for survivors of the Ward liner Mohawk was abandoned today long after hope had vanished that any could remain alive in the wind-lashed waters off the New Jersey coast.

When the last coast guard cutter was recalled, three nights and two days had passed since the Mohawk sank Thursday night after colliding with the Norwegian freighter Talisman off Sea Girt, N. J.

The bodies of 35 victims have been recovered from the coastal steamer and ten—nine members of the crew and a woman passenger—still are missing.

MEXICO REVEALS REVOLT PLOT; 5 LEADERS JAILED

Agents in U. S. Named as Participants.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Detailed plans naming agents in Mexico and the United States to take part in an armed revolution against the Mexican government were being examined by officials today while five alleged plotters faced trial on charges of sedition.

The plans, according to the official government newspaper El Nacional, had not passed the stage of naming agents before being discovered and aborted by government action.

Five Ordered to Trial.

The five men were allegedly representatives of Gen. Antonio Villareal, defeated presidential candidate in the last elections, and of Jose Vasconcelos, who has been in exile since he lost out in the 1930 presidential elections. The attorney general consigned the five to trial.

The contents of documents seized at the home of one of the plotters and on the person of a railway conductor were not disclosed, but were believed to have involved a number of other persons.

Announcement of discovery of the plot resulted from persistent efforts of friends to discover the whereabouts of a young lawyer, Andres Pedrero, who had been missing several days and finally was located yesterday at police headquarters.

Held On Sedition Charges.

After he was found the government made known that he and others were being held incommunicado on sedition charges.

A dispatch published in the newspaper El Universal today quoted Gen. Juan Almazan, chief of the military zone at Nuevo Leon, as stating all rebel bands operating in that state had been wiped out.

The paper La Prensa said extraordinary precautions taken along the entire border had stopped rebel activities in that section.

Ethelyn Claire Westmore Has a Baby Daughter

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ern Westmore, formerly Ethelyn Claire, film actress, has become the mother of a baby girl, it was learned today. The child was born late yesterday and has been named Ethelyn Louise. The father is known as Hollywood's ace makeup artist.

BLESSING AND THEFT CHARGE AWAIT BRIDE AND CHAUFFEUR MATE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—A paternal blessing and a maternal charge of theft today were awaiting the former Jane Cooke, 20 year old society girl, and George S. Scarlette, her chauffeur-husband, on their return to the Cooke home in nearby Chevy Chase, Md.

The couple, who eloped and were married here Friday and then set off for Winston-Salem, N. C., accompanied by Jane's sister, Anna, were reported on their way back and were expected to arrive tomorrow.

The parents of the girls, Mr. and Mrs. Howard De Walden Cooke, refused to discuss the affair, but Jane's aunt, Mrs. John J. Madigan Jr., with whom the girl had lived until recently, said she knew the father was ready to bestow his blessing on the couple.

Mrs. Cooke found her two daughters, the chauffeur-companion, two dogs, and two family automobiles missing when she awoke yesterday.

Mrs. Madigan said the girls had talked with her by telephone from Winston-Salem and had denied that any of their mother's jewelry was taken.

DEPUTY SHERIF SHOT BY WOMAN IN ROW AT HOME

Edward Libby, 53 years old, a deputy sherif, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded early today at his home, 1335 West Madison street, by Miss Louella Schroeder, 23 years old, 2216 Monroe street, a barber.

Miss Schroeder was still in the place when the police arrived. She claimed the shooting was an accident. Taken to the County hospital, she was confronted by Libby. He said that she had shot him when he informed her the love affair in which they had been engaged was ended. Miss Schroeder denied this and declared that he had threatened a week ago to shoot her.

Physicians at the County hospital said that the condition of Libby, who was struck in the abdomen, was critical.

In December, 1933, Libby shot and killed Thomas Miller, 35 years old, 1750 Monroe street, in a quarrel over a woman.

OLDEST COUNTY EMPLOYE WILL QUIT THIS WEEK

Cornelius Vanderpoel, chief pharmacist at the county hospital since 1894, will retire this week after forty-one years of service, according to an announcement yesterday.

Said to be the oldest employé of Cook county from a standpoint of years of service, Mr. Vanderpoel, now 74 years old, started work at the hospital on Jan. 1, 1894, when it was a small four story structure with a bed capacity of 400.

Since then he has seen the value of the hospital property increase from $400,000 to $4,000,000, its bed capacity from 400 to 3,200, and its pharmaceutical department from one man—himself—to a staff of twelve.

Concerning his years at the hospital there are many legends, but the principal one deals with the way he saved the county $25,000 during the world war. The price of drugs suddenly skyrocketed overnight [carbolic acid, for instance, jumped from 18 cents to $2.25 a pound], and hospitals all over the country were desperate. But not Cook county, for Vanderpoel, anticipating the war demand, had laid in a supply which lasted until after the armistice.

JOBLESS 2 YEARS; FINDS HONESTY BRINGS REWARD

Irwin Ellesen, 2015 North Kildare avenue, a bricklayer, has been unemployed for two years. A few days ago a new baby was born into his family. On his way to the Garfield Park hospital to see his wife and baby, Ellesen found a purse. It belonged to Mrs. Georgia Danielson, 3850 Washington boulevard. It contained $20 and several papers of value only to Mrs. Danielson. Elleson promptly returned it to the owner. Said Mrs. Danielson: "Most men unemployed for two years, with the expense of a new baby, would have taken the money. Not Ellesen. He even refused the reward I tried to give him. He told me he was not yet on relief and still managed to eat. I'm going to make some repairs on my garage and Ellesen will get the job. That will help a little and perhaps some one else will have work for so deserving a man."

Pet Dog Smothers Girl, 7 Months Old, in Her Crib

Norristown, Pa., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The 7 month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Watters was found dead today in her crib, smothered, Coroner R. Ronald Dettre said, by a pet dog.

MARYLAND TO ASK ANTI-CRIME PACT WITH ILLINOIS AID

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Attorney General Herbert R. O'Conor announced today he will ask the Maryland legislature to pass a bill giving Maryland and Illinois joint authority over prisoners paroled from penal institutions for those two states.

O'Conor said further he will sponsor a compact including this provision to permit extraction without hearings or other formalities for those who have violated their paroles. His project would be the first agreement of its kind in this country.

It follows the idea of pacts suggested at the recent anti-crime conference in Washington, O'Conor said, adding the step was requested by George T. Scully, Illinois state superintendent of paroles.

Panama Sends 50 Jobless to Jungle to Hunt for Gold

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 27. — Grubstaked by the government, fifty unemployed men will take to the jungles of the Capida district tomorrow to begin washing for gold in the rivers and streams. If this experiment succeeds, others will be sent to search for gold. The prospectors have been equipped by the Panama Mining corporation. The government will purchase all gold at the prevailing market prices to prevent exploitation by speculators.

FOUNDERS' GROUP OF BROTHERHOOD REPUBLIC FETED

Three lawyers whose first court experience was as original members of the Boys' Brotherhood Republic twenty years ago were again officials at the Republic headquarters last night. Julius Kabaker resumed his boyhood rôle of state's attorney in the Boys' Brotherhood court; Harry Malkin acted again as judge, and Arthur Goldblatt as defense attorney.

The occasion was a reception tendered to sixteen original members of the Republic and their wives. They were first entertained at a reunion at the home of Jack Robbins, 1246 Independence boulevard, the founder of the Republic, and then gathered at the Republic headquarters, 1530 South Hamlin avenue. The usual Sunday night trial was held, that of a boy "citizen" charged with gambling.

Besides the three attorneys the others of the sixteen original members are Herman Altschul, Ralph Lee Goodman, Billy Gordon, Oscar Dulman, Saul Bragin, Albert Winkler, Herman Kelley, Louis Feinberg, Dr. I. Slotsky, Manford Haskell, Irvine Schwartz, Louis Patlak, and Joseph Green.

BUST THAT COLD WIDE OPEN

Don't Merely Check It With Half-Way Measures!

Deal with a cold in earnest. Deal with it in seriousness.

A cold is too fraught with danger to be taken lightly. Many a case of flu and pneumonia has started with nothing more than a "common cold".

Treat a cold for what it is—an internal infection. Therefore, internal treatment.

Treat a cold with a preparation made for colds and not a "cure-all".

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is your answer to a cold.

It is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds and not for all kinds of ailments.

It is internal in effect and it does four important things.

First, it opens the bowels, an important step in overcoming a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

These are the four effects a cold calls for and only in Bromo Quinine do you get them all in the form of a single tablet.

Play safe—make sure! The moment a cold threatens, go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours, until relieved.

Usually that will be in the space of 24 hours. For, that's how fast Bromo Quinine acts when taken promptly.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Ask for it with your mind made up that you're not going to accept a substitute.

JAPAN TO OFFER CHINA UNION IN ECONOMIC BLOC

See Exclusion of America and Europe.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26.—Japanese Minister Akira Ariyoshi, Military Attaché Lieut. Gen. Yoshimichi Suzuki, and Col. Teisho Kagesa, representative of the Kwantung army in Manchuria, departed for Nanking tonight to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The departure of the three high Japanese officials caused a political stir, since it follows the Chahar incident involving further Japanese occupation of Chinese territory. Incidentally today was the third anniversary of the Sino-Japanese "war" of Shanghai.

Reports from Tokio indicate Japan is planning a showdown in numerous outstanding Sino-Japanese issues, particularly the scheme for consolidating the relations of the two countries into a so-called economic bloc. This, if consummated, would be highly prejudicial to commercial relations with America and European nations.

Combat U. S. Silver Policy.

Local Japanese newspapers report Japan is prepared to extend financial assistance to China with the purpose of offsetting the adverse effects of the American silver policy, providing China is willing to enter into close economic relations with Japan.

High Chinese officials refuse to discuss the situation, but privately they admit the possibility, unless outside help is forthcoming, that they may be compelled to enter a "temporary" arrangement with Japan which would amount to China's submission to Japan's claim of military and economic hegemony in Asia.

Dictator Chiang and Premier Wang Ching-wei yesterday telegraphed Gen. Sheng Shih-tsai, governor of Sinkiang province, or Chinese Turkestan, protesting the extension of soviet Russian influence into Sinkiang, involving the employment of soviet Russian advisers and the negotiation of a loan from Russia without obtaining Nanking's prior consent.

Gen. Sheng Shih-tsai recently admitted the employment of advisers in the negotiation of a loan, but he denied the extension of soviet political influence.

Want Chiang Off Fence.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 27.—Japan's policy "of assisting China to regain her stability," as enunciated by Foreign Minister Koki Hirota in the diet last week, is rapidly taking definite shape.

The departure from Shanghai for Nanking of Japanese Minister Akira Ariyoshi and Lieut. Gen. Yoshimichi Suzuki, military attaché of the legation at Shanghai, to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek tomorrow, is regarded as significant.

Lieut. Gen. Suzuki is leaving as a result of a second request by Dictator Chiang in the last ten days, and it is believed he will discuss the question of lending aid in the suppression of communists in Shensi and Honan provinces.

Ariyoshi reportedly will discuss lending economic aid. However, in both cases Japan will insist that Marshal Chiang, who is accused of sitting on the fence, come down on the Japanese side.

Then Japan will meet China half way, both through military and economic aid. The primary condition is the stopping of anti-Japanese agitations and boycotts and getting the Kuomintang [people's directorate] to adopt a more friendly stand.

To what extent Japan is prepared to meet China is not known, but tremendous importance is attached to the forthcoming conferences.

ROBBED OF $300 AT SIGNAL.

Joseph O'Keefe, 40 years old, 432 Oakdale avenue, owner of a tavern at 1000 South Michigan boulevard, was robbed of $309 yesterday morning by two men at a trafic signal at Michigan avenue and Ninth street.

DEAD IN MYSTERY

MRS. LUCRETIA HUGHES.

LAY MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF WIDOW TO HEART ATTACK

Fall Explains Injury to Head, Police Say.

Investigation yesterday tended to discredit the earlier belief that Mrs. Lucretia Hughes, 68 years old, widow and veteran Sunday school teacher, whose body was found late Saturday night in her home at 10320 Emerald avenue, was a victim of murder.

Capt. Michael Grady of the Kensington station, who spent a full 24 hours examining the evidence, said that while he had not abandoned a theory that the widow might have been killed, he felt that there was more reason to believe the elderly recluse had died of heart disease.

Bruises on Her Head.

The body, clad only in undergarments, was found in a bedroom on the second floor. It lay on the floor near a table and near it was a large flower pot. There was a bruise on the right temple of Mrs. Hughes and other bruises on the knees. The original theory was that death had been caused by a blow from the flower pot in the hands of an assailant.

Dr. Albert D. Biggs, coroner's physician who made a post-mortem examination, said yesterday that while the blow on the head appeared to have been the most important factor in death, Mrs. Hughes had hardened arteries and it was possible she could have received all the injuries noted in a fall after an attack of heart disease.

Theory of Police.

One hypothesis of the police it that in falling she jarred the table on which the flower pot rested and caused it to fall and strike her head.

When the police broke into the house all the doors and windows were tightly locked on the inside and there was no disorder anywhere except in the immediate vicinity of the body.

Milk bottles had accumulated in the hallway since Wednesday and it was assumed that death occured that day or on Thursday. Neighbors reported they had not seen Mrs. Hughes since Tuesday.

She was a Sunday school teacher at the Roseland Presbyterian church. The Rev. Willis Townsend, pastor, told Capt. Grady she had expressed a fear she would die of heart disease. Mrs. Hughes was the widow of a telegraph operator and had resided alone in the house, which she owned, for years.

FOUR COLORED CHILDREN DIE IN E. CHICAGO FIRE

Four children, the eldest 10 years old, were burned to death late last night in a fire which swept the basement flat in which they made their home at 2203 Broadway, East Chicago.

The victims were the sons and daughters of Countee Goss, colored, janitor of the building. The flames started in the furnace room adjoining the family's living quarters and spread so rapidly that their escape was cut off. Firemen arrived in time to carry out the mother of the children, who was taken to a hospital severely burned.

Goss was not at home at the time of the fire.

CHINESE REDS IN FLIGHT; LEAVE TRAIL OF RUINS

Women and Old Men Are Only Survivors.

NINGTU, Southern Kiangsi Province, China, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The desolate wreckage of a bloody seven year effort to establish a soviet republic in central China was viewed today by an international party of newspapermen traveling in the heart of the territory recently captured by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Grisly evidences of the long communist occupation of the area were on every side. Burned villages, devastated temples and deserted farms dominated the landscape.

The population seems largely made up of women and old men. Some of the able bodied who fled during the Red occupation are slowly returning, however.

Temple as Execution Spot.

Homes of the wealthy and former municipal offices in this once prosperous city of 200,000 persons, famed as a cultural center of medieval China, have been reduced to shambles of brick and mortar. The gaunt walls of a famous Confucian temple which the Reds used as an execution spot are heavily pitted with bullets. At another spot is an ancient graveyard, the ground littered with skulls and remains of persons who fell under executioners' swords.

Ningtu fell into the hands of the Reds early in 1929, was lost and recaptured again in 1931 and held continually by communists until November, 1934. During the Red occupation it was one of the most important centers of the Chinese soviet, second only to Juichin, 40 miles to the south.

Although authorities have undertaken to obliterate the communist slogans with which the place had been plastered, many still blaze in red paint from the city's walls. "Down with the Japanese," "End suffering and drudgery," and "Expand the Red army" are typical ones.

Desperate for Salt.

The townspeople laconically recalled the food shortage during the years of communist occupation, due mainly to the stringent economic blockade which the government maintained. So desperate was the need for salt that bricks and earth were distilled for the little saltpeter they might contain.

When the Reds retreated they carried off all the foodstuffs they could confiscate, including livestock, leaving the country barren. To fill this shortage, an unending procession of heavily laden wheelbarrows is being pushed over newly built highways from productive regions, while domestic animals in large numbers are being driven into the area.

Gen. Lo Cho-ying, commanding in the area, said at least 100,000 Reds, including women and children, succeeded in escaping from Kiangsi to the westward, but that only a portion of them reached Kweichow.

WOMAN, 84, DIES IN HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Abby Montgomery, 84 years old, 3031 Warren avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital after a long illness. She and her brother, Frank Baker, 82 years old, with whom she lived, were on the relief rolls.

SEEKS LEGAL REDRESS AGAINST MEDIUM WHO FORECAST KIN'S DEATH

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Whether there can be legal redress against a "medium" who predicts a person's death is to be tested shortly in an Oslo court of law in a case involving several well known Norwegians.

Thomas Bonnevie, member of the Norwegian high court, has instigated an examination of the death of his cousin, 70 year old Judge Ludvig Dahl, who was drowned last summer at a bathing beach. Bonnevie claims his cousin's death was not accidental but the result of "a suggestion that he seek death."

Shortly after the death, Bonnevie claims, it became known that Mrs. Ingeborg Koeber, 40, Dahl's daughter, had solemnly predicted that her father's death was imminent at a seance over which she presided as a spiritualist "medium."

Bonnevie accused Mrs. Koeber of "socially destructive activity" and quoted a Norwegian doctor to the effect that "several death prophecies have been fulfilled because the persons in question have centered all their attention on fulfillment of the prophecy." Bonnevie then asked the Norwegian attorney general to have the whole matter investigated by expert psychiatrists. Mrs. Koeber in turn asked the attorney general to institute legal proceedings, offering herself as a witness.

GUILTY FEELING ROLLS CASH INTO U. S. TREASURY

One Applies His Refund to French Debt.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—"Guilty conscience" is an entry that cannot be discovered on the treasury's balance sheet—yet to date it has returned to the government exactly $617,576.41.

The whole story is contained in a file dating back to 1811.

"Unknown persons," who at one time or another defrauded, or imagined they had, the government, are the contributors. Contributions have been made since 1827, with the single exception of 1848. The banner period was in 1916, when $54,923.15 was received by the then secretary, William Gibbs McAdoo, now Democratic senator from California.

"Apply to War Debt."

There is a case of an American tourist, arrested for speeding in southern France, and fined $6.85. He refused to pay and went to jail instead. But he returned to his government, upon his release, the fine, asking that it be applied to the French war debt.

A typical letter from a conscience stirred by religion follows: "Since becoming a Christian I am duly impressed to restore a postage stamp which I used once. It had served its purpose once, but seemed not to have been canceled much, if at all. Nevertheless I used it, as I was at the time very much in need of one.

"I am restoring it four-fold and trust I am forgiven for using it. I haven't been guilty of it any more.

"May the Lord bless each one and save our souls."

"Repays" Ignored Debt.

A one cent stamp came from a person who bought a lead pencil in Buffalo from a Canadian. The penny payment was to take care of the 50 per cent duty on the purchase.

Another letter contained a farthing from a Britisher who was incensed at his country's failure to pay a war debt instalment. The farthing represented his pro rata share of the indebtedness.

REBEL PLOT NIPPED IN URUGUAY; FIFTY PLACED UNDER ARREST

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The government announced today it had thwarted a revolutionary plot scheduled to start this morning in the province of Minas, 60 miles from the capital. Fifty members of opposition parties, chiefly among the Batllist and Nationalist independent groups, were arrested. Some soldiers were seized.

Among those arrested here were three former ministers of the Batllist government and six former deputies. Police announced bombs and arms were found in their homes. Those arrested in Minas province involved nine deputies. A quantity of arms was captured. It was expected that those arrested would be exiled.

Foes of the régime have engaged in sporadic anti-government activities since President Gabriel Terra by a coup in March, 1933, abolished the executive council, which had shared administrative authority with him.

A strong military guard was placed on the Brazilian frontier because it was feared Basilio Munoz, a revolutionist who is in exile in Brazil, might attempt to enter Uruguay and start an uprising.

Leaps from Auto to Bridge Rail and Drowns Self

Ralph Oliver, 38 years old, 9245 South Chicago avenue, leaped from an automobile last night as it was crossing the Indiana Harbor Ship canal at Indianapolis boulevard in East Chicago, climbed to the bridge railing and plunged into the water. His brother, Ray Oliver, driver of the car, summoned the police, but Oliver drowned before help could reach him. The body was recovered. Ray Oliver was unable to give the investigators a plausible motive for his brother's action.

LIBERTY LEAGUE HITS 4 BILLIONS SPENDING POWER

Sees Authority Leading to Dictatorship.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Provisions of the 4 billion 800 million dollar work relief bill, passed by the house and now before the senate, were seen today by the American Liberty league as leading to dictatorship. The league is a nonpartisan group, including John W. Davis and Al Smith in its membership, recently formed to combat radicalism in the national and state governments.

"The powers conferred under the bill are not only unrestricted as to the manner of expenditure of funds but might be used to make a very material change in our form of government," the league stated. "Congress should not countenance a step which tends toward nullification of the division of authority under the constitution among the three coordinate branches of government."

Regarded as New Extreme.

The league sees in the bill a new extreme in the broad grants of power to the President. In an analysis of the bill as passed by the house the league finds that it countenances a step toward "the European type of dictatorship in which the parliamentary body becomes a nonentity."

Congress, according to the league, has virtually abdicated its proper responsibilities in an almost limitless field of legislation. It has given the President complete control of an amount of money greater than the annual cost of the government prior to the depression, without any legislative guidance whatever.

The bill as it stands gives the President power to make rules and regulations for violations of which fines may be imposed. It gives him power to create a vast new burocracy free from civil service and not answerable to congress. Further, it gives power to reorganize governmental machinery.

Uncertainties Feared.

All of these grants of power promise to continue the uncertainties which tend to destroy confidence and retard recovery, according to the league.

The league points that the purposes for which the fund may be spent are "so general in character as to embrace almost any money spending scheme ever devised by the brain of man." In his message the President prescribed seven guiding principles for expenditures.

These were: All work should be useful, compensation should not be large enough to compete with private enterprise, projects should be undertaken upon which a large percentage of labor could be used, preference should be given to self-liquidating projects, projects should compete as little as possible with private enterprise, projects should be planned to secure work for persons now on relief and projects should be located where they would best serve to absorb unemployment.

Prefers Rule by Congress.

"Unfortunately there is no suggestion of these principles in the terms of the bill," the league said. "It would seem to be proper that congress should go at least that far in establishing a policy. Congress should also designate specifically the classes of projects for which funds may be used. It is not necessary nor desirable that congress should actually allocate the money among particular projects or areas."

With respect to the broad powers conferred on the President, the league said: "The specific powers which are vested in the President go beyond the mere spending of money. He may establish and prescribe the duties and functions of new government agencies including public corporations, which are even less subject to control by congress.

"Also he may utilize and prescribe the duties and functions of existing governmental agencies. He may consolidate, redistribute, abolish or transfer the functions or duties and transfer the property and personnel of any governmental agency or utility corporation.

Sees Unlimited Powers.

"The powers of the President with respect to the appointment of governmental officials and employés and the fixing of their salaries are unlimited. He may make appointments without regard to the civil service law. There is no maximum for salaries nor is there any provision for senate confirmation.

"When it is realized that there has been an increase of considerably more than 100,000 employés in the government service under the emergency program before in effect, the possibilities of the creation of a new and powerful burocracy become alarming."

The league made plain its position that it is not opposed to ample provision for relief. It adds, however, that in its belief this may be done without violation of the constitution.

The league also attacked provision of the bill granting the President the right of eminent domain over all real property and the power to fine any one who violates rules and orders under the bill $5,000.

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile accidents are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

DRIVES HIS AUTO UNDER TRUCK; IS BURNED TO DEATH

Crystal Lake Cattle Buyer Fails to See Lights.

Richard B. Anderson, 28 years old, a cattle buyer of Crystal Lake, was fatally burned early yesterday when he apparently failed to see the warning lights and flares of a disabled truck on Route 10 west of Woodstock in McHenry county and drove his automobile under the rear of the truck. Before the truck driver, Sam Goldstein of Chicago, and some men who were watching him could get to Anderson, his machine burst into flames.

Goldstein was changing a wheel of the truck and, in accordance with highway rules, displayed warning lights on the vehicle and roadside flares. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Snow Shoveler Is Killed.

Three trafic fatalities in Cook county yesterday brought the county's 1935 toll to 59. Within the Chicago city limits, automobile deaths since Jan. 1 totaled 45 at 4 p. m. yesterday, and the number o injured 1,057. Yesterday's deaths:

Pietro Paoletta, 50 years old, 824 South Damen avenue, an employé of the Chicago Surface Lines, fatally injured while cleaning snow from car tracks at Cicero avenue and 24th place in Cicero by the machine of Lewis Calavetta, 27 years old, 6759 South Wood street. Charles Greco, 40 years old, 2611 Rice street, working with Paoletta, was seriously hurt. Calavetta, whose car bore 1934 license No. 351-191, was held. He said snow obstructed his vision.

Louis Balazs, 50 years old, 4221 Carroll avenue, was fatally injured when his automobile skidded, then struck a tree at 3713 North Crawford avenue. Valentine Koss, 42 years old, 5033 West 18th street, Cicero, who was riding with him, was seriously hurt. The car bore 1934 license plates No. 364-164.

Daniel Curtin, 48 years old, 949 Madison street, a laborer, died in the County hospital yesterday of injuries incurred Saturday when he was struck by a truck at the rear of 5 West Randolph street. Charles De Jong, 1408 West 14th place, driver of the truck, was not held.

STRUCK BY CAR, MAN, 70, DIES.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—John Kaufman, 70, of Piopolis, Ill., who was struck yesterday by a car driven by Roman Garrison near Dahlgren, died last night in Mount Vernon hospital.

Art Jury to Pick Poster for Modern Home Show

A jury of art experts will meet on Wednesday evening in the Modern Home exposition headquarters at 1 North La Salle street to select the winning design for a poster to be used in advertising the exposition, which will open in the Coliseum on Feb. 16. More than 100 students of commercial art schools, institutes, and academies will compete. The winner will be awarded a prize of $100. The purpose of the exposition is to stimulate a home repair and modernization program in the Chicago area.

PURSE SNATCHER BEING SOUGHT AS WOMAN'S KILLER

A colored man who snatched a woman's purse in the neighborhood of the St. John Catholic school, 5115 South Throop street, ten days ago, was being sought by the Stockyards police last night as a suspect in the murder of Mrs. Anna Urbanek, 52 years old, 5136 South Throop street, who was raped and beaten to death at the rear of the school early yesterday morning. When Mrs. Urbanek, who supported her unemployed son and invalid husband, did not return home at the usual time, her son, John, 27 years old, organized a searching party and her body was found where she had been beaten and attacked.

BUICK'S PERFORMANCE

A General Motors Product Body by Fisher

● After you see the Buicks at the Automobile Show, take one out for a test. Note how solidly it holds the road at any speed, as well as its top of 85 miles an hour. Those are smooth, easy miles for Buick, without strain or distress to you or the car. Half a minute isn't a long time. But in nine seconds less, Buick swishes you from 10 to 60 miles an hour. Watch the speedometer needle during acceleration. The absence of waver or hitch tells you how skilfully 93 horsepower is engineered into Buick. You feel stability and safety under you in Buick—because you've really got them. You ride, too, with a delightful glide, day in and day out and all day long, without tiring—the result of Buick's own engineering of Knee-Action, balanced weight and springing. Finally, this car—with the weight to match its marvelous performance, and with eight cylinders—performs on the economy side, with owners reporting from 15 to 18 miles per gallon. Yes, you can well measure them all by Buick.

Series 40, $793 to $925; Series 50, $1110 to $1230; Series 60, $1375 to $1675; Series 90, $1875 to $2175. List prices at Flint, Mich. All prices subject to change without notice. Special equipment extra. Any Buick can be purchased on the favorable G.M.A.C. terms.

WETTEN PLEDGES A NEW FINANCIAL SETUP FOR CITY

G.O.P. Mayoral Candidate Veteran Party Man.

BY KIRK EARNSHAW.

A "gentleman politician," born to wealth, yet schooled in the rough and tumble politics of the Forty-second ward, is Emil C. Wetten, a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor of Chicago.

If it is possible for a man to exemplify an entire voting district, then Attorney Wetten is the epitome of the old Twenty-First ward, now the Forty-Second—the district that includes the aristocratic Gold Coast and the heavily populated, violent hotbed of politics that lies west of State street.

Wetten was an intimate of Theodore Roosevelt, whose son-in-law, the late Nicholas Longworth, he closely resembles. And he has been the political bedfellow of a former Republican mayor who threatened to "punch King George in the snoot."

Related to Royal Family.

Paradoxically, Wetten can claim direct relationship to the same British ruler whose royal nose was an issue in past mayoralty campaigns. The English crown is worn by a Wetten, the family name having been changed from the German to the English Windsor during the World War.

Emil Wetten was born in Downers Grove, Ill., of German parentage, in 1872 and attended public schools there. He was a student at Lake Forest college and the Kent College of Law, passing the bar examinations before he was old enough to be admitted to the bar. He obtained his law degree at the University of Michigan in 1895 and has practiced, largely in civil and corporation matters, in Chicago ever since.

"I represent no faction or group in the party," Wetten said. "I have taken an active part in politics for thirty years and have spoken in many campaigns. Never have I sought elective office and only once did I receive official recognition."

Backed Vehicle Tax Law.

That was in 1908 when Corporation Counsel Edward Brundage appointed his former Michigan schoolmate first assistant. In that capacity Attorney Wetten obtained passage in the state legislature of the law making possible the city vehicle tax, which has brought $70,000,000 in revenues to the city, and defended the law against attacks in state and federal courts.

Vote fraud investigations in the turbulent Twenty-First ward on several occasions found him involved and charging Democratic opponents with poll irregularities.

In announcing his candidacy and claiming united support from the party, Wetten made public a lengthy program embracing a variety of municipal reforms and a policy of "support the President."

"The two chief aims of my administration would be the recapitalization of the city's funded debt and the solution of the unemployment problem," Wetten said. "We cannot indefinitely expect 'easy money' from Washington. It is up to the city to provide gainful employment suited to the capacities of the unemployed.

Favors Complete Refinancing.

"The financial problem of the city still stands unsolved. Payment of the city's obligations has been sorely shifted to another generation and interest piled upon interest. I favor a complete refinancing of the city's debt to reduce interest charges, and drastic economy and elimination of overlapping governments to reduce current expenses."

Wetten lives at the Seneca hotel with his 23 year old son, Walton, who is studying law. He lived for a number of years at 181 Lake Shore drive and has voted in the Forty-Second ward for more than thirty years.

His Barrington farm, Wetten claims, is a bona fide "dirt farm" and not a country estate. He is a brother of Albert H. Wetten, wealthy real estate broker.

[This is the fourth of a series of sketches on candidates for mayor at the Feb. 26 primary.]

CHESTER DAVIS IS EXPECTED TO QUIT AS CHIEF OF THE AAA

Washington, D. C. Jan. 27.—(AP)—The resignation of Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, at the close of the present session of congress was said today in informed circles to be a probability.

CHESTER DAVIS.

He has been requested frequently in recent months to accept outside positions, and is inclined to seriously consider some of the offers.

The resignations of Clay Williams from the NRA board and James A. Moffett as federal housing administrator in the near future also were regarded as likely.

Davis, however, has said he did not wish to quit until the AAA has progressed further through the emergency period. But he feels that passage by congress of legislation at the present session strengthening the agricultural adjustment act might put the farm administration on secure ground.

SIX SLEEPING IN GARAGE DIE AMID FLAMES

Greenwood Lake, N. Y., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Six persons, including two small children, were burned to death here this morning in a fire which swept the garage in which they were sleeping. The fire was believed to have been caused by a defective oil stove.

The dead are: Artemus S. Beattie, 31, assistant postmaster of Greenwood Lake; Mrs. Ida Beattie, 26, his wife; Oscar Anderson, New York City patrolman; Mrs. Oscar Anderson, 32, his wife; Dorothy Anderson, 2 years old, and George Anderson, 5 years old.

The garage, a wooden two car building, was about 75 feet from the house in which Beattie's father and mother live. The second floor of the garage had been finished off in four small rooms to provide living quarters for young Beattie, his wife, and their 8 year old son, Artemus Jr., who spent last night with his grandparents and thus escaped death.

The Andersons drove here from New York yesterday with their two children and spent the night with the Beatties. It is believed they left a small oil stove burning when they retired.

Shoot Boy, 15, Breaking Into Flat; Recover Gems

Lawrence Dellino, 15 years old, 1127 George street, was shot in the right leg last night as he was fleeing from a police squad which approached as he and a companion were breaking into a flat at 2849 Berteau avenue. The youth who was with Dellino escaped. The squad leader, Sergt. Henry Strengel, took Dellino to the Bridewell hospital and then went to his home, where he took possession of some jewelry the prisoner admitted he had taken in other burglaries.

TOMORROW LAST CHANCE FOR VOTE REGISTRATIONS

Polls Will Open to Qualify Feb. 26 Ballots.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Tomorrow is intermediate registration day for the mayoralty primary and aldermanic election of Feb. 26. All polling places in Chicago will be open from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

It is also likely to be the only chance for unregistered voters to get their names on the polling lists for the April 2 election without going to the city hall offices of the election commissioners.

This situation arises because there is pending before the general assembly a bill to save the taxpayers of Chicago more than $400,000 by the elimination of the usual intermediate registration before the April election, which, if it were held this year would fall on March 19. The city votes for mayor, city clerk and city treasurer at the April election, which is also the runoff aldermanic election in wards in which no candidate gets a majority in the Feb. 26 primary.

Already Passed by House.

Mayor Kelly sponsored the registration elimination bill and it was passed by the house of representatives last week by more than the two-thirds vote required for immediate enactment. Springfield reports are that it will be passed by the senate this week in the same overwhelming manner.

In proposing the plan, Mayor Kelly pointed out that there was no danger of disfranchisement. The city election act provides in connection with an election for which a registration is not required that qualified electors may register at the city hall just as they would in the precincts. This year the period for this form of registration would extend from March 1 to March 13 inclusive, approximately two weeks, but the qualified elector not now on the books who fails to register in his home precinct tomorrow would have to spend some time downtown in order to be placed on the registry for April 2.

For that reason, election officials are urging that all unregistered electors take advantage of tomorrow's registration in all polling places. As this is an intermediate and not a general registration, the voter whose name is on the books correctly now need not register at this time.

Are You Qualified?

Those who must register are those who have just met the residence qualifications, who have moved since their last registration, have come of age or have been naturalized and have not yet registered.

Republicans fear that with no big contest in their party for the mayoralty nomination party members will not turn out tomorrow, but others say that aldermanic contests involving Republicans will go far toward offsetting the lack of interest in the big race.

Other important dates in connection with the primaries and election are coming along rapidly now. Today is the last day for the filing of objections to aldermanic petitions with the election board. Next Friday, Feb. 1 is the first day for the filing of independent and "new party" petitions of mayor, city clerk and city treasurer with the election board. Feb. 6 is the last day for the withdrawal of aldermanic petitions. The primaries and the first aldermanic election fall on Feb. 26.

FOREPAUGH-SELLS CIRCUS NAME TO BE REVIVED IN SPRING

Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 27.—(AP)—A circus title, known all over the country a half century ago and representing a combination of pioneer circus managements, is being dusted off here and will appear on billboards this spring and summer for the first time in about twenty-five years.

It is the "Forepaugh-Sells Brothers circus" title; which is being added to the equally well known Hagenbeck-Wallace title to form the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Brothers combined circus.

Sam W. Gumpertz, general manager for the Ringling circus interests, said the old company is being revived and combined with the Hagenbeck-Wallace show to give the latter, primarily a wild animal show, more attractions. He said it was part of a general program of business expansion based on a belief that things are better throughout the nation.

Adam Forepaugh, founder of the show which bore his name, was known to the American amusement world back in the early eighties.

BRIDGES HOLD UP TRAFIC 143 WORK DAYS DURING 1934

Downtown bridges caused delay for vehicles and pedestrians equaling 143½ eight hour days during 1934 while commercial and pleasure craft moved in the Chicago river, according to the annual report of Harbormaster William J. Lynch.

This delay was seven and one-half days greater than that recorded in 1933, and while it meant even additional inconvenience for land trafic, it demonstrates a large increase in Chicago shipping, Mr. Lynch pointed out.

The sixteen downtown bridges were raised a total of 20,136 times during 1934, an increase of 1,396 over 1933, and the largest total since 1931, when they were opened 24,613 times.

The average time the various spans were open during the year was 3.43 minutes.

The following table shows the number of times each of the bridges was opened during 1934 in comparison with the preceding two years, and also the average number of minutes that land trafic was delayed last year whenever a span was raised:

Bridges—	1932.	1933.	1934.	Avg. min.
Michigan	996	1,068	1,116	4
Wabash	969	1,029	1,101	4.4
State	1,568	1,337	1,706	3.5
Dearborn	1,003	1,091	1,177	3.3

	18,279	18,470	20,136	3.43

The cost of operating all the 54 bridges in the city, including those on the Calumet river, was $315,278, an increase of $23,041 over 1933.

Chinese Officials Visit City on Tour of World

Gen. T. O. Chiang, a Chinese artillery commander, who has been on a year's good will tour of the world, arrived in Chicago yesterday en route to China. Accompanying him was Capt. P. Y. Ho of the Chinese legation in Paris. They were met at the Stevens hotel by Robert T. K. Kah, consul general in Chicago. Tomorrow Gen. Chiang will be joined by Gen. Y. U. Fei-Peng of the Chinese ministry of commerce, and a survey of transportation methods in and around Chicago will be made.

ADMITS PLACING LEGS OF WOMAN IN LANE; FACES MURDER COUNT

Laurel, Miss., Jan. 27.—(AP)—County Attorney Jack Deavours announced today that Ouida Keeton, 30, had admitted to officers that she "carried" a pair of human legs, hacked from the torso of a white woman and wrapped in sacks, to a woodland lane where they were found by a hunter.

Deavours also quoted her as expressing the belief her mother, Mrs. Daisy Keeton, with whom she lived and who has been missing from her home here for a week, was dead. She did not reveal where she obtained the legs or whose legs they were.

"Miss Keeton," said the county attorney, "will be charged with first degree murder just as soon as we can get around to it."

Search of the Keeton home revealed bloodstains on the bathroom door. Deavours also said stains were found in Miss Keeton's automobile.

Leaps to Death in Canal as Car Goes Over Bridge

While crossing the Indianapolis boulevard bridge over the United States ship canal in East Chicago, Ind., yesterday, Ralph Oliver, 38 years old, 9245 South Chicago avenue, a war veteran, leaped from the automobile his brother was driving and plunged into the water. His body was recovered later by coast guardsmen. Oliver was said to have been despondent over ill health.

GOES 2,700 MILES BY SLEIGH, AIR TO SICK WIFE

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Grant Reed of Anchorage, Alaska, arrived at the bedside of his critically ill wife tonight after a ten day trip from the north, having traveled by sleigh, train, motor car, and plane.

Reed said he had only 15 hours' sleep on the 2,700 mile journey. He started from Anchorage in 40 degrees below zero weather Jan. 17 as a passenger in a ski-equipped plane. The plane was damaged in taking off for Hazelton from Atlin, B. C. Then he took a sleigh to a railroad line and finally reached Seattle. He made the Seattle-San Diego lap by plane.

Mrs. Reed recently underwent an operation for mastoid infection.

Woman Slashes Wrists in Attempt to End Life

Miss Lasta Miller, 32 years old, was taken to the John B. Murphy hospital early today after she had attempted to kill herself by slashing her wrists in her room in the Belmont Harbor hotel at 426 Belmont avenue. Jerry Sadin, manager of the hotel, had heard her tell her sister, Mrs. M. E. Harvey of 4605 Sheridan road, of her intention to kill herself and he broke into the room in time to prevent her carrying out the plan. At the hospital it was said Miss Miller probably would recover.

Quintuplets Kept Indoors in 41 Below Zero Weather

CALLANDER, Ont., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Since the thermometer stood at 41 degrees below zero today the Dionne quintuplets, who will be eight months old tomorrow, were not allowed their usual airing. Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the babies' physician, reported them "all fine in every respect." All of the little sisters gained weight over the week-end.

NEW PLAN RAISES HOPE FOR FLAX INDUSTRY IN U. S.

Chemicals Replace Ancient Retting Process.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

A revival of fiber flax growing, which has been practically dormant for 85 years in the United States, and the establishment of an American linen industry is foreseen by Howard D. Salins of Chicago as a result of his discovery of a quick and economical chemical process for removing the gummy substance that holds the fiber of flax together.

Laboratory tests have convinced the experimenter that his method eventually can be used to replace throughout the flax growing regions of the world the ancient and expensive process of retting or scutching or breaking flax to set the fibers free. In announcing his discovery yesterday, Mr. Salins said that with his secret chemical formula flax can be degummed within two hours while it takes two months under the dew-retting process universally used in Europe and Canada.

Aimed at Old Handicap.

The new discovery, Mr. Salins thinks, answers the important flax retting problem that has handicapped the industry for centuries. For thousands of years flax retting has baffled chemists who apparently thought it necessary to leave the task to the sun, the rain, and decay organisms that act slowly on the plants in the open field.

Linen experts attending demonstrations of the new process have been amazed at the way the gum can be removed by pulling a treated stalk or stem of flax between the forefinger and thumb, leaving the fibers free ready to be combed, spun, and woven into linen or other fabric.

Mr. Salins claims that his process will greatly reduce the costs now involved in retting flax under the traditional old world methods, save time, give to the linen industry a stronger and cleaner fiber, eliminate blanching troubles and impurities common in linen, make mercerising unnecessary, simplify dyeing, and remove the substance that causes undesirable wrinkling of linen.

May Use Cotton Spinners.

He says that the fibers from flax degummed by his method are so thoroughly separated that they may be spun on cotton spinners. The fiber is so soft it may be mixed with cotton and woven into a fabric containing both fibers.

Practically no machinery is needed to make use of the Salins process on an industrial scale. Tests have been made indicating that vats where the chemical solution can be heated are all that is needed in applying the material to flax.

When the new process has been developed on an industrial scale it will be possible to establish processing plants and mills in or near flax producing regions that may be started in the United States, according to Mr. Salins. It is his view that when this stage is reached farmers in the central west, particularly in the northern states, will be encouraged to grow fiber flax and will then find a profitable outlet for this cash crop.

Mr. Salins' experiments with linen led to the discovery of the new chemical preparation which he is positive will simplify retting, a task so expensive, laborious, and distasteful to Americans that flax has never been extensively grown in this country.

This is the third of a series of articles on the question of growing flax in the central and northern states.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Six Pasture Tests.

January 27, 1935.

LESPEDEZA made the best showing in six pasture tests started last spring at THE TRIBUNE Experimental Farm near Yorkville. The results varied, depending upon the rate and method of seeding.

In four of the tests, identified as A, B, C, and D, the same mixture of seed was used—Kentucky bluegrass, 7 pounds; timothy, 6 pounds; red top, 4 pounds; red clover, 2 pounds; alsike clover, 1 pound, and Corean lespedeza, 4 pounds. Red clover alone was used in tests E and F.

In the A pasture the foregoing mixture was broadcast on two acres of ground at the rate of 12 pounds to the acre on disked upland soil, rich, black loam. The timothy failed to come up last summer and only a thin stand of Kentucky bluegrass appeared. Late summer and fall rains brought out the red clover and the stand is satisfactory today. Few of the alsike and red top seeds germinated. The extremely dry weather delayed germination. Corean lespedeza was late in coming up but was the first to germinate. This strain of lespedeza is an annual. The plants produced a crop of seed and died. There are plenty of seed on the ground to produce a good stand next spring, according to Clarence Thurow, farm manager. He expects some of the timothy seed sown last spring to come up this year. Some native grass came up in this pasture.

Pasture B was seeded with the same mixture, broadcast at the rate of 15 pounds to the acre on four acres of land treated with two tons of manure to the acre. The manure did more harm than good because of the dry weather. The results in this pasture were somewhat better; the red clover and lespedeza made a more satisfactory showing. Even Kentucky bluegrass and red top showed up here and there. Mr. Thurow thinks the stand in pasture B was better than in A because the soil was double disked. This treatment helped cover the seed and aided germination.

In pasture C the same mixture was drilled in at the rate of 18 pounds to the acre. No manure was used. Again better results were obtained. This field was double disked twice. Double disking, more seed per acre, and deeper planting are all credited with aiding in producing a better stand. Most of the credit is given to deeper planting with the drill which put the seed down where moisture aided sprouting and also prevented the seed from being blown off the fields as was the case where the seed was broadcast.

On pasture D, five acres of the same mixture was broadcast on the surface without stirring the soil and without the use of fertilizer. The seed was sown at the rate of 18 pounds to the acre on thin upland soil. Mr. Thurow said that practically all the seeds, excepting red clover and lespedeza, were blown away. The lespedeza produced a thin stand. Enough seed was produced to reseed the ground this spring. Horses, sheep, and cattle fed on the lespedeza plants last fall even after the leaves had been killed by frost. Lespedeza and red clover are expected to show up in this pasture in the spring.

In pasture E red clover was sown in with 30 acres of oats at the rate of 12 pounds to the acre. This pasture failed. In pasture F red clover, sown in with 30 acres of oats, failed.

Mr. Thurow says he would expect to get a satisfactory stand in a normal year with any of the mixtures and methods used.

COLD WAVE GRIPS MOST OF EUROPE; SAVE SHIP'S CREW

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The British Isles and most of Europe were in the grip of severe weather today. Shipping, menaced by heavy seas and squalls, rushed to shelter on the west and east coasts of England, although gales have largely subsided.

The steamer Clan MacDougall collided with the Danish vessel Hjorthoim, which sank. The crew was saved. The trawler Guiding Star sank in Bridlington bay during a blizzard but its crew also reached safety.

Heavy snows were reported in north England and in Scotland. Mountainous seas off Iceland damaged the trawler Night Hawk and washed its mate overboard. He was drowned.

Nearly all of France was swept by snows and winds. Trafic was hindered in Paris early in the day, but later the weather cleared. Deep snows in the Balkans interrupted communications.

All India shivered in a bitter cold and more than a score of deaths were reported from it. The cold drove hosts of wild animals in Bengal into cultivated regions in search of food and they terrorized villages. One herd of 200 elephants stormed rice fields.

PLANES RESCUE 47 IN SOUTHERN FLOODED AREA

Marks, Miss., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Planes flying low over the Coldwater flood territory effected the rescue of 47 persons today.

The pilots flew within 500 feet of the water and, cutting off their engines, shouted the location of the marooned to relief workers in motorboats.

The surging waters rose alarmingly to the south and east today and more families left their homes. Thousands are homeless, and the Red Cross estimated that 75 per cent of the live stock in the area was destroyed. The flood apparently had passed its peak in the north, but a new emergency was approaching to the east, where the towns of Crowder and Curtis were surrounded to the south.

27 Dead as Floods Subside.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Floods receded in the storm-ravaged Pacific northwest today, leaving a toll of 27 dead and property damage of close to 2 million dollars. A threatened bread shortage was ended in the upper Fraser River valley of British Columbia as highways opened.

Ten persons died in the northwest states and 17 in British Columbia.

FIND U. S. BAR ON ARMS TO MEXICO IS OIL REPRISAL

Records Show How Trade War Caused Riots.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Mexico's refusal to permit American companies to drill for oil on her territory was disclosed today as the impelling motive behind this country's 1919 bar on the shipment of munitions to its neighbor to the south.

The Mexican government was warned by Henry P. Fletcher and others, hitherto unpublished correspondence in state department archives revealed, that it would have trouble in getting guns and ammunition if it persisted in its oil policy.

Fletcher, now chairman of the Republican national committee, was on duty with the state department at the time. Just previously he had been ambassador to Merico.

Mexico Stands Pat.

Mexico would not swerve from the course which prevented American companies from seeking oil. The arms embargo was followed by an increase in attacks on Americans and American property which aroused high feeling in the United States.

The United States bombarded Mexico with protests against the raids and assaults, but admittedly the Mexican government needed American arms and ammunition to control and check the bandits who kept the country upset.

The correspondence showed that 119 Americans were killed or injured in Mexico from January to August, 1919, and that there were 132 depredations and 64 invasions of American property.

This was toward the close of Woodrow Wilson's administration.

Reports Need of Arms.

In April, 1919, Fletcher, who had bassador to Mexico, confidentially reported that: "The Mexican government urgently needs ammunition to maintain itself and to protect life and property even in the unsatisfactory manner it is now protected."

The oil situation became acute with the Mexican decision to refuse further drilling licenses to American companies which did not meet strict regulations that many American concerns could not or would not conform to.

In April, 1919, Fletcher, who had been transferred to duty in Washington, confidentially advised George T. Summerlin, American chargé d'affaires in Mexico City, that he was succeeding in getting more liberal treatment for Mexico with respect to munitions shipments.

"The refusal of the Mexican government to grant our oil companies permits to drill, if persisted in, will seriously interfere with my efforts," he added pointedly. Fletcher then told Summerlin to present the matter informally at the Mexican foreign office.

Foresees Trouble Getting Guns.

"Should the Mexican government prove obdurate, it will encounter difficulty in securing further shipments of arms and munitions," Fletcher advised.

Mexico refused to yield to pressure. On July 17 President Venustiano Carranza ordered drilling operations by American companies stopped in all cases where permits had not been secured.

Frank L. Polk, acting secretary of state, had authorized Mexico to purchase 150,000 rounds of ammunition in the United States on June 13.

On July 9 Polk asked President Wilson to issue a proclamation banning exportation to Mexico of arms and munitions, because of alleged border smuggling to Villa's followers and Yaqui Indians.

Wilson issued the proclamation on July 12, and in response to Polk's request delegated power of prescribing exceptions and limitations to the state department.

Asks Permit to Export.

On July 7, Aug. 29, Sept. 13, Oct. 21, 27, and 31, Nov. 3, 8, 11, 17, and 21 the Mexican ambassador here applied to the state department for permission to obtain licenses for export of war material.

The state department did not answer any of these eleven communications, and on Jan. 7, 1920, the ambassador pressed the department for an answer.

Robert Lansing, secretary of state, just back from the Versailles peace treaty negotiations, replied a few days later with a polite refusal.

DRAFTS RESOLUTION FOR HOUSE QUIZ OF FARLEY STAMP 'GIFTS'

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—A resolution directing a house committee to inquire into reports Postmaster General Farley has given rare stamps to his philatelist friends—including the President—was drafted today by Representative Millard [Rep., N. Y.], for introduction tomorrow.

Under terms of the resolution Farley would be summoned before the post-office committee and asked to supply detailed information about special stamp issues, including their face value as well as their value to collectors.

Reports, Millard reiterated today, were that when a new series of commemorative stamps was printed, Farley would get a full sheet of 200 or so before the glue had been put on them or they had been perforated for tearing. These, then, would be autographed and given to Farley's friends, Millard asserted.

FRANCE STIFFENS TERMS ON NAZIS' ARMS DEMANDS

Will Discuss Problem at London Parley.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—France was relying today more upon her own guns than upon Adolf Hitler's words to maintain the peace as Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin and Foreign Minister Pierre Laval prepared to leave for London near the end of this week to discuss with the British how to treat a rearming Germany.

The two French leaders stiffened their conditions for acceptance of Hitler's arms demand after sleeping on the British compromise debated yesterday in a long conference with the British ambassador, Sir George Clark.

French legalization of German rearmament would be conditional upon the Nazi dictator's return to the league of nations and his signature on a new "eastern Locarno" pact, and upon some arms limitation scheme which would not involve any French sacrifice of military strength.

The pact would be designed to unite most of Europe against any aggressor—against Germany if she were one.

Flandin and Laval two months ago abandoned the policy of the late Foreign Minister Barthou of refusing to sanction German rearmament. Now Hitler's victory in the Saar basin has newly aroused their distress because they have found the reichsfuehrer flushed with triumph, more uncompromising than ever and determined to have "equal rights" with or without permission.

ITALIAN SAILORS PATROL STREETS OF ÆGEAN ISLAND

ATHENS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Reports received here today said the situation was still tense on the Island of Kalymnos, owned by Italy, and that sailors from Italian warships were patroling the streets with martial law in force.

Churches were closed today in protest of alleged Italian interference with religion the reports said.

TRAIN DETECTIVE SQUADS TO USE MACHINE GUNS

The 144 policemen who make up the 36 squads assigned to the detective bureau, will start receiving instruction today in the use of machine guns, with which each of the squads will be equipped as soon as the detectives become proficient in their use. There are twelve squads on duty during each of the three watches, with four men in each squad. The classes will be held each day on the rifle range in the central police building at 1121 South State street.

In ordering that the machine guns be included as regular equipment for the squads, Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan declared he wanted the men "one step ahead of the gunmen."

Other additions also are to be made to the equipment. Instead of only three tear gas bombs, each squad will have twelve. Extra rounds of ammunition will be added for the machine guns and shot guns which the squads will carry. They no longer will carry rifles.

EXTEND DEADLINE FOR BUYING AUTO TAGS UNTIL JAN. 31

The deadline for the purchase of city and state automobile licenses was ordered extended yesterday to midnight, Jan. 31, by City Controler Robert B. Upham. The extension was granted, Mr. Upham declared, because of the inadequate facilities for securing state licenses.

"There is no excuse for a motorist failing to obtain the city vehicle tax sticker," Mr. Upham said. "Because of difficulties encountered in obtaining state plates, however, these further days of grace have been given before arrests start."

Mr. Upham said that a survey of scattered sections of the city yesterday showed that cars in the higher price levels are the chief offenders against the state and city licensing laws. Most of the lower priced cars bear 1935 tags and stickers, he said.

The decision to extend the deadline, before ordering arrests, was reached by Mr. Upham after conferring with state officials.

THE POWER OF AN ADDRESS . .

The true power of a name lies in its ability to convey fundamental values rather than superficial appeal. Such a name is that of Marshall Field.

Properties operated by the Estate of Marshall Field all possess the accrued power of the founder's name. Such Chicago buildings as the Field Building, the Conway Building, the Pittsfield Building, 700 North Michigan Avenue, and a number of others have become synonomous with the principles for which Marshall Field stood: quality, service and stability.

The same high standards used in the maintenance of these buildings are applied to the selection of tenantry. The location of an organization in a building operated by the Estate of Marshall Field is more than a mark of prestige, more than a mere matter of good taste. Through years of unremitting carefulness on the part of the Estate, occupancy has come to be an index to the character of the institution in question, and therefore a genuine business asset.

OPERATION OF A BUILDING BY THE ESTATE OF MARSHALL FIELD IS A GUARANTEE OF SERVICE SATISFACTION AND PRESTIGE

MORE PERSONAL GOVERNMENT.

Among those who are found staying out late is now none other than Senator Norris. The waywardness develops in connection with the discussion of the world court in the senate. This dispute has already caused the eminent California New Dealer, Hiram Johnson, to roll out of bed, and now Senator Norris of Nebraska strays from his otherwise congenial affiliations, objecting to a further concentration of power in the President.

Senator Norris proposed amending the resolution of adherence by stipulating that the consent of the senate should be obtained as a condition precedent to the submission of any issue to the court of international justice. Mr. Norris' point was that the senate shares the treaty making power with the President. Issues submitted for world court determination may contain, when adjudicated, the substance and essence of treaties; therefore the senate should consent before the case was sent to judgment.

Such a reservation might prevent a great deal of subsequent trouble, but word came from the White House that it was entirely unacceptable. If it were adopted the President would withdraw the proposal, and it was further said that the amendment would be regarded as an affront. Mr. Norris was much touched by the rebuke. No one will yield more in admiration of the New Deal than the one time Republican from Nebraska. His life is now filled with ecstasy as he sees the progress in the Tennessee valley and elsewhere.

The obliteration of the old America in which he was brought up fills him with an ineffable serenity. As the waters of the revolution spread over the lands of the pioneers and the forefathers Mr. Norris watches the rising floods with sparkling eyes. His bosom glows as he reflects that he may live to see the last vestige of the republic submerged. Any one can understand how he would flinch when told that in not consenting to a bestowal of unrestricted authority on the President he was giving a personal affront to his chief.

In self-defense he could only say that Mr. Roosevelt would not be President forever. This was a shame-faced defense of a thoroughly sound position. Infatuation can go no further than to admit that an appropriate safeguard against executive autocracy is an affront to any man in the office of President. Laws are not to be made for men, but for offices. If it were inadvisable to give an unknown man a certain power, it is inadvisable to give any man that power. It is no affront to the man in office to consider the man who in the future may be there. Laws and treaties cannot contain consideration for personal characteristics or provisions related to them. If there could be no doubt as to the incumbent, there must be nothing but doubt as to his successor. The curse of personal government is this reliance upon characterizations of the person in power. The country is getting a great deal more than is good for it of special pleading based upon personal intentions and other people's ideas of them.

WHY OUR CRIME DEFENSES FAIL.

Citizens who wonder why, with all the taxes they pay, they are not better protected from lawbreakers will get some light from the case of Policeman McGinnis, who has just been dismissed from the force by the civil service commissioner.

McGinnis got his job as a probationer Nov. 5, 1906, and six months later, the probation having presumably induced approval, became a full fledged officer of the law. But in the following year, 1908, he was fined 3 days' pay for sleeping on duty. Within another year, in 1909, he was suspended on several charges and restored ten days later. The day after his return he was fined 30 days' pay for leaving his post, for conduct unbecoming a policeman, and for using coarse and insolent language. In 1911 he was suspended twice and fined one day's pay for not paying a debt. In 1912 he was suspended on a similar charge and in that year he was also fined twice for neglect of duty. In 1916 he was suspended once and fined 13 days' pay for drinking on duty.

He seems to have had smoother sailing for some years, for reasons we do not know, though we doubt they included good conduct; but in March, 1921, he was dismissed for conduct unbecoming a policeman. This dismissal was set aside by court proceedings in 1930. In the 14 years during which he had ornamented the force he had been under charges 13 times.

Finally, in December, 1934, he was suspended, again on charges of intoxication and conduct unbecoming a policeman, and this has now been followed by dismissal.

What influence or influences have kept this man on the police pay rolls in spite of demonstrations of unfitness beginning within a year of his first appointment and continuing year after year? They ought long ago to have been exposed and they ought if possible to be exposed now. Getting rid of McGinnis is not enough. Who kept him in his job all these years of misconduct, much of it serious? The community has a right to know. Perhaps responsibility cannot be run to earth, but whether it is or not, the public can learn from the facts it has now before it that its costly protection can be and has been betrayed. No such career as that of McGinnis would be possible if the conditions surrounding and influencing police service had not been persistently vicious. The explanation is rotten politics, the chief support of the lawbreaker and the criminal.

AIR MAIL ESSENTIALS.

To our major air lines, absorbing substantial operating losses month after month to protect their pioneering ventures until such time as congress will announce an aviation policy, the recommendation of the interstate commerce commission for adjusted air mail pay must have come as a distinct disappointment. For a period of eleven months they have been watching their deficits steadily grow—ever since Postmaster Farley made the mistake of his life in assuming that army air pilots without preparation were capable of replacing the commercial lines in flying the mail.

The public has become keenly conscious of the value of a dependable air mail service. It passed the novelty stage for many lines of business several years ago and has become a necessity. Even during the months that the air mail was being flown by the army on a much abbreviated schedule the commercial air lines carried a substantial volume under an emergency arrangement whereby the air stamp was canceled through the postoffice and the "package" then forwarded by express on civilian service ships. The demand for passenger service by air is growing at an even faster pace as modern business methods become more sensitive to the time element. Air express is not far behind.

Most of the administration's schemes for transportation regulation provide for coördination of the efforts of all services through the organization of the interstate commerce commission. This drift has been criticized in many circles because it is felt that the interstate commerce commission will be "railway minded." THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has not supported this theory because the commission has never shown outstanding affection for the railways. The air mail recommendation, however, throws a different light on this controversy by revealing that an organization steeped in the theories of carriage alone will not properly function when confronted with a problem that involves transport plus something else; in the case of the air lines speed—and development.

What the user of the airplane requires is frequent service and sufficient speed to promise arrival or delivery within a business day. The interstate commerce commission has shown itself unable to comprehend such demand, first by providing a minimum weight of three hundred pounds, and second by ignoring the speed element in fixing the rate of mail pay. The minimum weight provision discourages both more numerous flights and more through nonstop schedules without which the supporting passenger travel will be limited. The failure to acknowledge speed as a factor in rate construction fixes the same rates of pay for single engined craft with a top speed of 110 miles per hour as for the swift, multi-motored airplane that will cruise at three miles per minute.

EGGS FALL ON MISSOURI.

An egg bearing the sentence "Here my word 35" has been found in a nest in the Missouri Czarks and excitement is spreading over the country. It is a portent and something is about to be vouchsafed to the waiting people, who now disregard all other omens and manifestations and wait for the hills to produce.

There was nothing in the egg except what usually is in an egg. An agitated lady dropped it and it spread out like any breakfast egg, and from all appearances would have done better on toast. The hen's owner recovered the pieces of shell and the mysterious admonition is restored, pasted on another egg. Nothing is reported of the hen. It may start off down the hills. If so, the people are prepared to follow it, and if it heads east it will be known that its destination is Washington.

There are already some skeptics. They arise to sniff at every encouraging sign, but the government knows how to deal with them. It has had much experience. If the hen gets to Washington it may be relied upon to sweep in with a following at least as large as Dr. Townsend's, which is counted at fifteen millions. There is regret that the egg could not have been put under a setting hen or in an incubator. The magic might have been hatched out of it, but a more confident and sereno opinion holds that the laying hen has its important work yet to do.

It will speak more at length in subsequent movings of the spirit. Meanwhile congress should hold everything.

DEATH PENALTY FOR MURDER.

[Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia.]

The Kansas house of representatives has passed, by a vote of 85 to 26, a measure giving juries the option of fixing either death on the gallows or life imprisonment as the penalty for first degree murder. Both branches of the legislature passed by large majorities in 1931 a bill restoring capital punishment, but it was vetoed by Gov. Woodring.

Kansas abolished capital punishment in 1907, but at that time it had been nonexistent actually in the state for nearly 40 years, the last execution having taken place in 1870. The cause of the revulsion of feeling which has led to a second legislative attempt to restore the once discarded capital penalty is no mystery. The legislature four years ago acted on the expressed conviction that it was the only way in which the state could meet the challenge of murderous gang outrages. Since then the number of bank raids, kidnapings with murder either threatened or carried out, killings of police and prison officials by escaping desperadoes and similar outrages have multiplied all over the country.

Since 1918 Arizona, Oregon, and Washington state, which had abolished capital punishment, have restored it. The argument of advocates of its abolition that it does not act as a deterrent of crime runs against the hard fact of the desperate fight that murders put up against infliction of this punishment and the eagerness with which they accept life imprisonment in return for a confession or plea of guilty.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THEN THAT'S OUT.

The stern fact that we don't seem to be able to run this country of ours so very well has caused me to state with great emphasis several times that I thought we ought to give it back to the Indians. The more I think of the idea the better I like it. People with whom I have talked over the proposition seem to be quite enthusiastic over my suggestion, but, of course, one very necessary thing remained to be done—the Indians would have to be consulted.

In order that this might be done I instructed my traveling secretary in Oklahoma to go out and interview a prominent chieftain of the Winnebagos as to what he thought of the plan. My traveling secretary found old Chief Pain-in-the-Neck and asked him frankly if the Indians would be willing to take the country back.

"Ugh!" said old Chief Pain-in-the-Neck. "If Injuns take um country, do Injuns also take um hit-and-run drivers?"

"Sure," said the traveling secretary, "you take the whole works."

"And Injuns have to take Brainers Trustem down in Washington?"

"Certainly, everything."

"And," inquired old Chief Pain-in-the-Neck anxiously, "Injuns have to take over um Senator Huey Long?"

"Surest thing you know," replied the traveling secretary.

"Then," said old Chief Pain-in-the-Neck most decidedly, "Injun no wantum dam country."

My private secretary next went down to have a talk with Chief Kick-'Em-in-the-Liver, one of the leaders of the w. k. Apaches. The secretary said that the palefaces felt they weren't capable of running the country they had bought from the Indians with any more success in the future than they had had in the past and were now perfectly willing even, he might say, eager to pass the job back to the original owners.

"Ooomph oomph!" said Chief Kick-'Em-in-the-Liver in the Apache language, "Injuns take back country? Injuns have country then would Injuns have to pay all money white man has been throwing around in Washington? Billions, billions and billions dollars?"

"Well," said the traveling secretary uneasily, "of course somebody has to pay it."

"Ooomph oomph!" said Chief Kick-'Em-in-the Liver, "you keep um country. No wantchee."

The traveling secretary next interviewed Chief Settum-Up-in-the-Other-Alley of the Comanches. After he had explained the matter Chief Settum-Up-in-the-Other-Alley pondered for a while and then said:

"And if Injuns take back country then we have to take paleface kidnapers and bandits and hijackers, huh?"

"Naturally," said the traveling secretary, "the tail goes with the hide."

"And will Injuns have to listen in on radio and hear um squaws sing and um crooners an' what toothum paste to buy?"

"Certainly."

"And will Injun squaws have to put war paint on face all time and paint finger nails red and drink gin and go saloons and join clubs and not stay in wigwam an' take care um papooses no more?"

"I shouldn't wonder," said the traveling secretary; "you know if you take over the country you have to take over our manners and customs, too. Naturally, that goes without saying."

"Then," said Chief Settum-Up-in-the-Other-Alley, turning his back and stalking majestically off, "you can go to hell with your country."

"Ah!" said the traveling secretary, laughing lightly, "we've already done that."

So it doesn't look as though we would be able to give the country back to the Indians after all. They don't seem to want the darned thing.

IN BURNS' AYR.

The streets of Ayr are clean and fair,
Her maids are comely;
And Bonnie Doon, with rippling tune,
Is never "drumlic."
This land of song, with daylight long—
Who could not love it?
For faith is here, and hope is here,
And God's above it.

One's fancy turns to thoughts of Burns;
One's feet must tarry
And fondly rove where he found love,
And Highland Mary.
The Auld Brig seems a thing of dreams;
Old Tam O' Shanter,
Dead drunk and gay, still goes his way,
With foolish banter.

How long ago the fates laid low
The Ayrshire singer!
And yet his song is sweet and strong,
His memories linger.
Dear Burns is dead, his day has fled,
But Scottish story
Will treasure him. Time cannot dim
His matchless glory.

CHICKEN POX.

RICHARD MORTON, late in the 17th century, mentioned a disease that he said was "commonly called chicken pox." Evidently the name came from the resemblance of the skin lesions to the chick-pea. At any rate the name has persisted and is still attached to an annoying but usually mild disease.

Just what causes chicken pox is not known. It exists throughout the world and is constantly present to a greater or lesser degree in most of our large cities. While children are more susceptible, the disease may attack adults.

The infection is readily transmitted from the sick to the well and can be conveyed by those who have had contact with a sick person but who are not themselves ill.

The skin lesions begin to appear about the fourteenth day after exposure. Prior to the appearance of the eruption the symptoms are usually slight, although in rare cases the temperature may rise to 104 or even 105 degrees F., and the patient may complain of lassitude, backaches, or pain in the abdomen.

The breaking out appears at first as small pinkish or reddish areas that soon develop into tiny blisters called vesicles, which possess a thin covering and contain fluid that looks clear and bright. The eruption continues to appear in crops and the patient may show at the same time fresh reddened areas, blisters, and healing scabs. The blisters rupture on slight pressure and vary in size from a pin point to approximately a half inch in diameter. The majority will be the size of a small split pea. Now and then the contents of the blisters become pus-like and scars may result if an infection from the skin complicates the situation.

As a rule the patient is not very ill and the tiny blisters begin to dry up within a day or two after their appearance. It may be several days, however, before fresh blisters cease to form and two to three weeks before all of the scablike crusts have fallen off.

The disease is frequently confused with smallpox or with impetigo. In the presence of an epidemic of smallpox with both mild and severe cases, health authorities are sometimes puzzled in making a clear cut distinction between smallpox and chicken pox. Complications are not frequent, but gland enlargement, inflammation of the kidneys, disease of the joints, and sometimes of the nervous system occasionally occur.

Treatment consists of rest in bed and a light diet. Special care should be taken to keep the patient's hands and finger nails clean in order that the skin of the body may not be infected. With very young children mittens may be used to prevent scratching. A sterile dusting powder will help to allay itching. While the patient is in bed a daily sponge bath will help keep the skin clean. If there is a tendency to ulceration or pus formation ammoniated mercury ointment may be used.

During recovery the food should be gradually increased and cod liver oil is often advised. Should chicken pox follow a wasting disease such as whooping cough, measles, or scarlet fever every effort must be made to conserve the patient's strength by means of extra food. Mild tonics as advised by the physician often aid convalescence.

PROBABLY ARTHRITIS.

Mrs. F. W. G. writes: My right cheekbone clicks when I eat or when I open my mouth. This is not painful but annoying. What causes this?

REPLY.

Probably a mild arthritis involving the area where the lower jaw forms a joint with the skull.

VETERANS' CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—Will it be necessary for an ex-soldier of the world war, who was wounded in action and has an honorable discharge, when applying for naturalization papers, to give the name of the boat and the time of entry into this country? He came here twenty years ago on a passage made out in another man's name. B. J. H.

Under present legislation a veteran of the world war must, in order to become a citizen, comply with the requirements of the general naturalization law. In the case in question it is suggested that the person referred to submit an application for naturalization, stating thereon the facts regarding his arrival in the United States; that is, the name of the boat on which he came, the date of his arrival, the port at which he entered and the name he used in coming to the United States. An effort will then be made to verify his entry into the United States, if one exists. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT, District Director Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

CLOSING OF ESTATE.

Whiting, Ind., Jan. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there any law compelling an administrator to give up an estate that he has handled more than seven years? 1. He has been notified by the court, also by his bondsman, to file a final report. It is all farm mortgages [first] of an estate that was worth $95,000 at one time. 2. He says he can see no way to divide the estate among four heirs. We do not want to divide it [3], but want a trust formed and have told him many times, but he still refuses to give up. 4. We have tried several lawyers who seemed willing to help us, but as soon as they talk with this lawyer [who is administrator] they decide not to interfere. 5. Is there any one we can appeal to? E. H.

1. It would be the practice here to have the clerk issue citation proceedings against him and possibly to punish him for contempt of court in refusing to close the estate.
2. We see no basis for such a statement.
3. This would seem feasible. Perhaps you would avoid trouble if you tendered to him a proposed settlement which would be acceptable to all the heirs.
4. Having all of the facts before them, they were in a better position to advise than we are.
5. It should be possible to find a lawyer who will act in your behalf if the clerk is unwilling.

SHARE IN ESTATE.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Last August I received some papers to sign, releasing my father's estate to probate. The estate in question consists of a one-third interest in some property in Colorado, of which I am to receive one-twelfth. 2. This estate has since been probated and the administrator has resigned. My stepmother, who is in possession of said property, has disregarded my letters relative to my share. 3. How am I to protect my interests? If the property is sold, rented, or a loan obtained on it, how do I go about getting my share? Am I responsible for part of the taxes when I have no proof whatever of ownership? L. E. S.

1. You do not state whether you signed, nor what the wording of the papers was.
2. It is not clear whether you mean that the proceedings have been completed or that the administrator has resigned without completing them.
3. We suggest that you try writing to the clerk of the Probate court there.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DOMESTIC ANIMALS AT LARGE.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can you give me any information as to the law holding a farmer or live stock owner responsible for live stock on the highway? Six horses belonging to a riding academy galloped from an abandoned railway right of way on to the road, head on toward me. It was after dark and to avoid a head-on collision with them I drove to the side of the road, but struck a small pile of loose gravel, which sent me into a ditch turned over. The owner admitted that they were his horses and that they got away, and that he was out after them. G. R. I.

Section 1 of the act relating to domestic animals running at large reads as follows: "Hereafter it shall be unlawful for any animal of the species of horse, ass, mule, cattle, sheep, goat, swine, or geese to run at large in the state of Illinois: Provided, that no owner or keeper of such animals shall be liable for damages in any civil suit for injury to the person or property of another caused by the running at large thereof, without the knowledge of such owner or keeper, when such owner or keeper can establish that he used reasonable care in restraining such animals from so running at large."

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A few years ago my mother, a widow, at the request of one of her children, had a will drawn up at the bank where she has an account, giving the bank the right to sell and divide among her children evenly the money received for the sale of the house, also the dividing of her bank account. All are of age. One child now says she should cancel the will entirely [1], as it would have to go through Probate court and the bank also would charge so much for its trouble. The house now is worth less than $5,000 and the bank account is around $5,000. 2. Around how much would the fee be for the bank's handling of this small estate? 3. Would you advise the cancellation of the will or let it be as it now stands? I. B.

1. The presence or absence of a will has nothing to do with the necessity for probate. In general, probate proceedings are necessary to produce a merchantable title to real estate. If you are interested in the amount that the bank would charge, we suggest that you get from them a written undertaking on this point.
2. See 1.
3. Depends on facts that are not before us.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

The sun is wrong 99 per cent of the year, when it comes to telling correct time. Because of this we do not use "solar time" for our standard. The sun is nearly always ahead of or behind time, and for only four seconds each year is it accurate. It has been necessary for scientists to create an artificial or "mean" standard of time by which to regulate our clocks.

THE WORLD COURT.

Benson, Ill., Jan. 23.—It seems unbelievable that sixty of our United States senators stand ready to vote us into the world court, the trapdoor to the league of nations. The people of this country [and this means the people] have never wanted to enter the world court or the league of nations. Once into these entanglements, the only way out will be to fight our way out. Senator Jim Reed of Missouri saved us when Wilson was haranguing the country trying to force us into this European inferno. It seems that no one can save us now from the rabble on Capitol hill who are betraying us into the hands of our enemies. Maybe some kind upheaval of nature will remove them from our midst and then we will really get a New Deal. We used to send our correspondents to watch the wars in the Balkans; now we will have to send our boys to help fight them.

DISILLUSIONED DEMOCRAT.

HOW TO GET A JOB.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—My advice to Discouraged is simply do not tell your age. The discreet business woman never gives out such damaging information. She well knows that the business man of today is an esthetic human being who prefers them young, beautiful, and "with brains if possible." The remedy is to doll up like a morning glory, put rubber heels on your shoes, and breeze into the office like cooling zephyrs from the west. You understand, vivaciouslike. Smile graciously, sit down, and let the big business man do the talking. When he reaches the disagreeable age subject, half amile, cross your fingers, and mumble "close to 25."

Not long ago a wise judge ruled that if a woman did not want to tell her age, well, that was her business. Take it from me, remember the date of your birthday, but forget the number.

CLOSE TO 25.

FAMILY ENTERPRISES.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 19.—Anent your editorial, "Heredity in Business Management," I don't know to what extent it holds good in Europe—like the Rothschilds in Europe, the Bischopsheims in Brussels, I think, and many, no doubt, in England and Germany—but I do know that within recent years the writer has traveled for many years in Pennsylvania and Maryland and has seen establishments, founded 100 to 200 years ago, run today by the descendants of the founders. You will find such examples notably in Reading, Pa., Hagerstown, Md., Lancaster, Pa., and many other places.

THE PRIZE.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—The girls and boys in my art class voted on the best new cartoon in any of the newspapers. We are glad to tell you that "Terry and the Pirates" won as the most interesting and adventuresome cartoon. We all hope you will continue it.

ELEANOR CLINE,
ANNABELLE LIGHT.

THERE ARE MANY, NOW.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Isn't there somebody on THE TRIBUNE staf who knows that a three masted square rigged sailing vessel is not a "schooner"? F. H. LANE.

CAR LICENSES.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—I rode downtown this morning on the elevated in one of the very old type cars. This car was jammed before it got to the Edgewater Beach station. In the middle of the car, where I was standing, was posted the license which had been issued to the Chicago Rapid Transit company to run this particular car. It bore No. 529 and read as follows: "By authority of the city of Chicago permission is hereby given the Chicago Rapid Transit company to use this car No. 1039 in transporting passengers for hire . . ." and was dated "2d day of June, A. D, 1931, signed A. J. Cermak, mayor: Peter J. Brady, city clerk." In the lower left hand corner of the license was the phrase, "Expiring April 30, 1932." How come the Chicago Rapid Transit company is using such antiquated equipment without an up-to-date license issued by the city? These licenses cost $50 apiece and it might help the city treasury if a little investigating was done. M. I. PENRICE.

SUBWAY FIRST.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—What has happened to the plans for a subway for Chicago?

Since it would be of immense benefit and convenience to the citizens of Chicago, why not build the subway now and put our relief clients to work at it, thereby giving them the opportunity to earn their livelihood? The work, of course, should be given to some reliable construction company and the workers taken from the relief rolls to prevent political graft.

We can very well do without the proposed terminal on the lake front, also the airport in the lake, for several years yet, but we should be ashamed of the poor transportation Chicago affords especially the loop workers who live out a distance. Spending 2 to 3 hours daily to and from work is entirely too much. L. S.

EARLY CHIEF JUSTICES.

Columbus, O., Jan. 22.—In your timely editorial, "The Power to Destroy," you designate John Marshall as the second chief justice of the Supreme court. The record runs: John Jay the first, followed by the appointment of John Rutledge, who served at one term of the court, but, failing of confirmation by the senate, did not sit as such again. President Washington then appointed William Cushing, who was confirmed but declined to serve. Then Oliver Ellsworth was appointed, confirmed, and served. On his resignation President Adams appointed John Jay, who was confirmed but declined to serve, and finally in 1801 John Marshall began his long term as chief justice. Therefore, omitting Cushing, and Jay's second appointment, Marshall was the fourth chief justice to serve.

W. E. JONES.

THE GREATEST CRIME.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—The government's war on crime in this country is to be commended from every standpoint, but it should thoroughly understand that the greatest of criminals on whom relentless war should be waged are those who debase and debauch its institutions. F. H. W.

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS
1908 vs. 1935

BACK IN 1908, when this photograph was taken, the market for automobiles was limited to the wealthy few. But in this day and age the automobile industry counts its prospects by the millions.

Publications of small circulation are all right as far as they go. But they are hopelessly inadequate to reach the market of 20,000,000 car owners or to sell the more than 2,000,000 new cars planned for 1935.

To do a real job, the progressive automobile manufacturer requires a magazine that is geared up to the times, a magazine that not only reaches the blue blood market, but the great rank and file of the people as well.

To appeal to the greatest possible number of buyers at the lowest cost per buyer, the sensible automobile manufacturer must advertise regularly in The American Weekly.

Here is a magazine which is edited to please the reading desires of more than five and one-half million families who live in the richest buying areas of the nation.

The American Weekly concentrates and dominates in those twenty-five richest states in which 75% of all automobile sales are made.

For $16,000 you can buy a full page, more than double the size of any other magazine page and place it before these buyers at a cost of less than ⅓ cent per family.

Here is a market big enough and rich enough to take America's entire motor car output for 1935.

Where this Magazine goes

The American Weekly is the largest magazine in the world. It is distributed through 17 great Hearst Sunday Newspapers. In 597 of America's 995 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over, The American Weekly concentrates 67% of its circulation.

In each of 134 cities, it reaches one out of every two families
In 125 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families
In an additional 165 cities, 30 to 40%
In another 173 cities, 20 to 30%

. . . and, in addition, more than 1,885,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy and read The American Weekly.

Where can you spend your advertising dollar more effectively?

LOOP SYNAGOGUE CONTRACT TO BE LET THIS WEEK

Plans Conform to Jewish Traditional Architecture

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A contract probably will be awarded this week, according to an announcement yesterday by Isadore Ferguson, for the construction of the Loop synagogue at 16 South Clark street. The new synagogue will be unique among the city's religious structures and will house the religious activities of thousands of Jewish loop workers and executives. Mr. Ferguson is the chairman of the building committee of the synagogue.

ISADORE FERGUSON.

The architectural plans developed by Oman and Lilienthal, architects, provide for reconstructing the three floors of the present building for synagogue use.

Ornamental Entrance Planned.

The main entrance of the synagogue, at street level, is to have ornamental bronze and art glass symbolizing important events in Judaism's development.

A memorial lounge with library and rest rooms will be on the second floor. Community rooms, class rooms and study quarters for Rabbi Elias Gamze, spiritual leader of the synagogue, are to be provided on the third floor. The synagogue auditorium, which will be two stories high, will seat 325 persons. It will follow traditional types of Spanish synagogue architecture.

Murals to Illustrate Decalog.

An unusual feature of the synagogue, the architects say, will be ten murals which will depict the moral and historical background of the ten commandments. The murals are now being done by Raymond Katz whose frescos in the Jewish exhibit in the Hall of Religion at A Century of Progress exposition brought him wide recognition.

The synagogue will be air conditioned. A memorial niche containing bronze tablets with the names of deceased members will be provided in the memorial lounge. The traditional memorial lights recalling anniversaries of deceased members will constantly be burning. Mr. Ferguson said the synagogue would be ready for dedication April 1.

17,500 CHICAGO SCOUTS TO JOIN IN NATIONAL FETE

More than 17,500 Chicago Boy Scouts will join with others of the nation's million scouts on Feb. 8, in the silver anniversary week celebration of the scouting movement of America. On that day, at 7:45 p. m., Chicago time, President Roosevelt will officially open the week's festivities in a national radio broadcast.

During this radio ceremony, the 30,904 scout troops of the country are to repeat in unison the scout oath.

Scout Sunday will be Feb. 10 with services for troops in all churches. Scout day in the schools will be Monday, Feb. 11, and on the following day the boys will observe Pioneer day in honor of the early settlers of America.

In all anniversary observances here, Scouts will recall that it was a Chicagoan, the late William D. Boyce, a publisher, who was instrumental in bringing the movement to this country as the result of a good turn done him by a British Scout in London.

The Chicago council is now the largest in America with 17,597 boys enrolled in 1934. This includes 2,018 boys in cub packs [younger boys], 14,809 in troops, and 770 in Sea Scout ships for boys over 15 years of age.

RITES TOMORROW FOR C. H. STAATS IN DOWNERS GROVE

Funeral services for Christian H. Staats, 72 years old, of Downers Grove, former editor of the Reporter, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Downers Grove Masonic temple, under the auspices of Grove lodge, No. 824, A. F. & A. M. Interment will be in Clarendon Hills cemetery.

Mr. Staats died Saturday of a heart attack in his home, 4721 Prince avenue, in the suburb. He edited the newspaper for twenty years, until his retirement four years ago. Under President Harding he served as village postmaster, and for forty-five years was prominent in Republican political activities in Du Page county.

Mr. Staats also served as chief of the fire department and councilman. He and his wife, Mrs. Emma B. Kluge Staats, were born in Chicago. She and four children survive. They are Mrs. Henrietta Winter, Mrs. Hazel Wolf, Walter J., and Elon H.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR WIDOW OF JAMES PATTEN

Funeral services for Mrs. Amanda Louise Buchanan Patten, widow of James A. Patten, who died in the Evanston hospital yesterday, will be held at the home at 1426 Ridge avenue, Evanston, at 10 o'clock this morning. Interment will be in Old Mound cemetery, Somonauk, Ill., where her body will lie beside that of her husband, long known as the "wheat king."

Many friends of Mrs. Patten viewed the body in the funeral chapel at 1610 Maple avenue in Evanston yesterday, where a police guard of honor remained throughout the day and night.

The Rev. Paul Wolfe, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Evanston, will officiate at the funeral services. Following the services, the funeral procession will go by automobile to Somonauk, accompanied by a police escort.

KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Jacob E. Laub, 50, was killed today when a car in which he rode crashed into the rear of a stalled automobile near here.

JEWISH CHARITIES URGED TO REVISE RELIEF MEASURES

Leaders Warn of Burden Under New U. S. Plan.

New responsibilities of welfare work, which is turned back to local and private charities under the proposed federal policy of supporting only employable persons, were reviewed last night by speakers at the 35th annual dinner of the Jewish Charities of Chicago.

Gov. Henry Horner warned that 60,000 families now cared for by governmental agencies in Chicago will be dependent upon private charities when the new government policy becomes effective. Samuel A. Goldsmith, executive director, and Sol Kline, retiring as president of the organization after four years, likewise urged a more comprehensive plan for private charitable work to supplant the activities now made possible through governmental agencies.

Refers to Relief Tragedy.

"The federal government is about to embark on a program of work for employables," Gov. Horner said. "The responsibility for the welfare of the unemployables will be yours."

The governor referred to the slaying of two relief workers last Friday by a mother and son, relief clients, who were also slain, when he said:

"It is a grave responsibility that you must shoulder if a repetition of the catastrophe of last week is to be avoided. Anti-social influences prey upon those in need and want. Private charities, if the government pursues this new policy, must stand as a bulwark to our basic principles of government.

Advocates New Policies.

Goldsmith declared that present relief measures are not adequate and that welfare agencies must turn to policies that will build "an economic resistance comparable to the physical resistance resulting from the years of activity of sanitary engineers and boards of health."

D. F. Kelly, president of the Catholic Charities, and Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Community Fund, also spoke, paying tribute to Mr. Kline's admirable record of long service. He is to be succeeded by Frank Sulzberger, a director of the Jewish Charities for a number of years.

RITES FOR SLAIN WOMAN RELIEF WORKER HELD

Religious services were held yesterday afternoon in the C. H. Jordan chapel, 200 East Erie street, for Miss Caroline Wallace, supervisor of the emergency relief station at 54 West Chicago avenue, who was killed Friday afternoon by Hal Watson Arden who, with his mother, Mrs. Ruth Watson Arden, invaded the place with revolvers. The Ardens, relief clients, had previously killed Miss Alice Mae Irwin, a case worker, in their flat. Arden killed his mother and himself after the relief station shooting.

After the services, conducted by the Rev. W. B. Stoskopf, the body of Miss Wallace was placed aboard a train for Rock Rapids, Ia., where she is to be buried. The body of Miss Irwin is to be taken today to Lincoln, Ill., for burial.

The bodies of the Ardens, mother and son, remained at the county morgue yesterday. No relatives have been found, and if none appears the bodies will be buried by the county.

Funeral Rites Today for Capt. Goldberg's Mother

Private funeral services for Mrs. Anna Goldberg, mother of Capt. Joseph Goldberg of the police department, will be held this morning at 11 o'clock at the chapel at 704 South Crawford avenue. Burial will be in Jewish Waldheim cemetery in Forest Park. Mrs. Goldberg died two days ago in the Frances Willard hospital after a heart attack. Besides Capt. Goldberg Mrs. Goldberg is survived by her husband, Louis.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Here's a radio success story. A little over four years ago Ted Fio-Rito and the Edgewater Beach hotel came to the parting of the ways over a little matter of $100 a week or so. Fio-Rito was getting a shade over $2,000 a week for his orchestra and demanded a raise of $100. The management said no and Ted, who had been there for years, departed. His orchestra eventually broke up.

Ted went west and organized a new orchestra. He became the toast of San Francisco, then moved on to Los Angeles. He appeared in several pictures, among them "Twenty Million Sweethearts." Then he landed that cigaret account on radio which Fred Waring left to boost motor cars. Last fall he switched to "Hollywood Hotel," sponsored by a soup maker, probably the most expensive radio show from the west coast.

But he plans to leave that show for the summer to return to the Edgewater Beach for $5,200 a week, probably the most money ever paid by a Chicago hotel for an orchestra. Fio-Rito will bring a troupe of 30 entertainers and will open the Beachwalk probably June 8. CBS will be outlet for his music.

For the first time in the history of the college Vassar girls are to participate in a broadcast off the campus tomorrow at 4 p. m. over CBS. The Vassar sextet, who are said to confine themselves mainly to traditional airs, will get hot in their New York radio appearance. They are to sing, among other items, "You're a Builder Upper" and "Savage Serenade." The broadcast is designed to awaken enthusiasm for Vassar alumni day, Feb. 1.

Did you hear that blizzard broadcast from New York the other day? With Graham McNamee, John B. Kennedy and Elsie Janis atop a skyscraper it went something like this:

"The whole landscape is blotted out by snow. And that wind has a razor-like edge. Take it, Graham."

"O. K. Boy, is it ever cold up here. You can't see a thing."

The scheduled broadcast of 15 minutes lasted just five, and then the trio went back inside to get warm.

Uncle Ezra and his five watt station EZRA of Rosedale, who have been broadcasting over NBC, will start a commercial series over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system soon. . . . Jan Garber, the Trianon maestro, has been laid up with the flu for several days. . . . Though dogs usually have litters of around a half dozen, Bing Crosby's police dog presented him with precisely two puppies the other day, both males—one for each of his 6 months old twins. . . . Easy Aces will switch from CBS to NBC on Feb. 4. . . . A thousand dollars offered in prizes for the best name for the Otto Harbach musical serial starting tonight at 8:30 over WMAQ-NBC.

THOMAS BOYD, NOTED AUTHOR, IS DEAD AT 36

Ridgefield, Conn., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Thomas Boyd, novelist and biographer, died today of a cerebral hemorrhage. His death occurred in the home of a friend, where he intended to spend a few weeks in order to be nearer his publishers than he would have been at his own residence in Woodstock, Vt.

Two books which will now receive posthumous publication are a novel and a biography. The former, to be issued in February, bears the title of "In Time of Peace" and is a continuation of the life of Sergt. Hicks, hero of "Through the Wheat," the world war story. The biography, "Poor John Fitch, Inventor of the Steamboat," will appear in the summer.

Mr. Boyd published "Dark Cloud," 1924, "Points of Honor," 1925, another war story, which was filmed as "Blaze of Glory," "Samuel Drummond," 1925, "Simon Girty, the White Savage," 1928, "Shadow of the Long Knives," 1928, "Mad Anthony Wayne," 1929, and "Light Horse Harry Lee," 1931.

About two weeks ago the author, who was only 36 years old, suffered a slight stroke. He was in a taxicab in New York at the time and he spent several days thereafter in a hospital undergoing examination. Since then he had not felt at his best, but he had not complained of being ill.

Mr. Boyd is survived by his widow, his second wife, who was Mrs. Ruth Fitch Bartlett of Milwaukee at their marriage in 1929; a daughter, Elizabeth Grace Boyd, child of his marriage to Margaret Woodward Smith of Chicago, and by his mother, Mrs. Alice Dunbar Boyd, of Cleveland.

John K. Haas, North Side Real Estate Dealer, Dies

John K. Haas, 70 years old, north side realty dealer for more than a quarter of a century, died suddenly last night, apparently of a heart attack, a few minutes after he returned to his apartment in the Coronado hotel, 1061 Rosemont street. His office was at 5109 North Clark street. Surviving are his wife and a son, John K. Jr.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item in the west side metropolitan section of yesterday said erroneously that Miss Ruby Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Wilson, 607 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, and Ford S. Hausman, son of W. E. Hausman, 529 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, were married last Thursday. The wedding date is Feb. 24.

It was incorrectly reported in the society pages of yesterday's TRIBUNE that the Community Service club would hold a musical and tea launching a membership drive at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Covenant club. Mrs. J. M. Arvey, president of the club, yesterday said the meeting is to be on Saturday.

FUNERAL SERVICE WEDNESDAY FOR BUCHANAN'S SON

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning for Edward Buchanan, 5325 Giddings street, who was fatally injured Saturday night when his automobile skidded into a railroad abutment on Grand avenue near Cicero avenue. Mr. Buchanan, who was 27 years old, was employed by the Cities Service Oil company. He was a son of the late Frank Buchanan, three times congressman representing the 7th district.

The funeral will be from May's undertaking parlors, 4559 Milwaukee avenue, to Our Lady of Victory Roman Catholic church, Sunnyside and Laramie avenues, where a requiem mass will be sung at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in the Irving Park Boulevard cemetery. Mr. Buchanan is survived by his wife, the former Charlotte Vanderpool, a son, James, 2 years old; two brothers, Louis, a resident of Los Angeles, Cal., and James, and a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Olson.

Robert T. Brown, Printer Who 'Saw the World,' Dies

Robert T. [Keokuk] Brown, 64 years old, formerly an itinerant printer who boasted that he "had seen the world on a union card," was found dead yesterday in his room at 717 North Clark street. Brown had visited virtually every state in the Union before his retirement four years ago. He was a pensioner of the International Typographical union, attached to local No. 16 of Chicago.

Reveal Troth of Nan Gilpin to J.H.T.C. Butler

Parents Tell Romantic News at Reception.

BY JUDITH CASS.

OF interest not only locally but internationally is the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Garth G. Gilpin of Riverside are making this morning of the engagement of their only daughter, Nan, to J. H. T. Charles Butler of Chicago and London.

At a reception yesterday at their home at 193 North Longcommon road in Riverside, Mr. and Mrs. Gilpin first told the romantic news of the betrothal. Throughout England and Ireland the engagement will be heard with interest by the friends of Mr. Butler and his family. His parents are Lady Butler and the late Lord Theobald Butler. He is a nephew of the marquess of Ormond of Kilkenny castle, Kilkenny, and Portman square, London.

Coming from real gentility comparable to the landed gentry of Mr. Butler's family, Miss Gilpin has led a conservative but interesting life. She was graduated from Monticello seminary and the University of Illinois, where she was a member of Alpha Phi sorority. She also took a year at the Sorbonne in Paris. She has always been considered one of the best equestriennes in that group of families that lives in the country to the west and includes the Silverthornes and Faurots.

Mr. Butler attended the Royal Military college at Sandhurst and also Haileybury college in England. During the world war he served with the King's Rifles and was later stationed in India and China.

It was a friendship in China with Silas H. Strawn that brought Mr. Butler to Chicago six years ago. He is now living at 20 East Delaware place and is associated with the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. Miss Gilpin and Mr. Butler plan to be married in March and later to visit their relatives in England and Ireland.

'Abbey Players, Chaliapin to Draw Society Tonight.

As if an antidote for the gloom that usually shrouds the social calendar in the north this time of year, the final week of January is getting off to a start today with events of more than ordinary interest.

In the good name of charity a committee of prominent persons headed by Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody will draw a fashionably clad and socially interesting audience to the Harris theater tonight for the first performance of the much heralded Abbey Players of Dublin. At the same hour many of the city's most devoted patrons of music will gather in the old Auditorium for a concert by Chaliapin that will swell the scholarship fund of the Chicago Mount Holyoke club.

Passing through town yesterday from the west coast on their way to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Mitchell [Marjorie King] debated whether or no they could stay over tonight to see the Abbey Players, but they had to cast their decision in the negative since Mr. Mitchell has to be in New York for the opening of an exhibition of his photographic studies.

Two Benefit Performances by the Abbey Players.

The Little Company of Mary hospital, to which Mr. and Mrs. Peabody give so generously of their time and money, is to be the beneficiary of the Irish players' production of "The New Gossoon" tonight and "The Far Off Hills" tomorrow night.

All except on or two of the 68 boxes, the best main floor seats roped off in groups of six, have been spoken for and will be occupied by parties who will come on from dinners in private homes and at the Casino and Tavern clubs both tonight and tomorrow night.

Some of these boxholders include the Ernest Wauds, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. Sunny, Addison Stillwell, Col. and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William R. Carney, the Lester Armours, and the Peabodys.

Without a doubt few of them will reach their places in the theater without having purchased a gardenia or two from an attractive coterie of flower girls under the direction of Mrs. John R. Hurley.

Dinners to Precede Chaliapin's Concert.

Mrs. George F. Spaulding, president of the Chicago Mount Holyoke club, and Miss Julia Drake, chairman of the ticket sale for the benefit this evening, will entertain at large dinners before going to the Auditorium. Among Mrs. Spaulding's guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Chalmers. Mr. Chalmers is president of Rockford

Movie Song Writers Live in Same Hotel, Spy on Each Other

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Mystery, comedy, and melody are being mixed in potent quantities at a fashionable hotel in Beverly Hills which has become the current stopping place for all the tune writers, librettists and song pluggers from New York who used to put up at another hotel in central Hollywood.

The hegira of Hollywood's tin pan alley from one hotel to another took place about the time Irving Berlin came out here from New York to write music for a coming Fred Astaire musical and took the penthouse on the Beverly hotel roof. Soon the other song writers were drifting into the Beverly hotel.

Here's what one of the excited song pluggers says about it: "Kid, the hotel is more mixed up than that play 'Seven Keys to Baldpate' ever was. Up on the roof song writers are taking sunbaths with microphones hidden in their bathing jerseys while they lie, face down, listening for anything that might be heard from Berlin's penthouse. Up and down the corridors of the hotel the boys are strolling with assumed nonchalance, trying to catch a snatch of melody over the transom from some other song writer's door. Why, one guy even got a microphone, put it on a cable and hung it out of his window on an upper floor until he could place it just outside the window of a rival song writer in the suite directly below him. They're spying on each other, trailing each other, walking around with dictaphones, and everybody suspects everybody else."

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

AN elevator operator in a State street store during a recent sale heard a scream in the car while it was descending. She stopped the cage immediately and asked who had cried out. There was no answer, and she repeated her question, adding that she would not start the car until she knew who screamed, and why. In the rear of the elevator she saw a child's hand go up and point to the woman directly in front of him. It was she who had screamed, the little boy said.

PAVLEY TCHELICHEW, the young Russian painter whose pictures are now hanging in the Arts club, dropped in. It developed, during a chat of this and that, that his Spanish pictures, most of them bull fight scenes, were started in Granada and finished in New York. . . . Mr. Tchelichew had decided ideas about clothes. In fact, to him there are only three dressmakers in the world who are important. Schiaparelli first, then Vionnet and Chicago's Charlie James, now designing in London [whose clothes I don't like as well as most of my friends do. Molyneux would go in on my own list].

THE worst pun of the week is relayed by a man who went into a store to buy a necktie. The salesman, who was wearing a brilliant tie, persisted in showing him vivid colors and patterns. The customer begged for something more conservative, and the clerk displayed a new set of ties, splotched in rainbow colors.

"By gosh!" the man exclaimed impatiently, "doesn't anybody else in this city wear ties that are more subdued?"

"Well," answered the clerk, "subdued and some don't."

Tito Schipa to Quit Metropolitan Opera; "Not Enough Money"

ROME, Italy, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Tito Schipa, famed operatic tenor, confided today on his departure for the United States that he is giving up his appearances with the Metropolitan Opera in New York after this season.

"The Metropolitan hasn't enough money any more," Schipa said.

He left for Milan and Nice, France, intending to sail from Cherbourg on the S. S. Bremen Feb. 2 for New York.

Schipa said opportunities in Europe were improving and he intended to confine his future singing to the continent.

EARL CARROLL'S "VANITIES."

A revue, dialog by Eugene Conrad; music and lyrics by Clarence Gaskell and Jean Herbert; given in the Grand Opera house Jan. 27, 1935.

THE PRINCIPALS:

Ken Murray.	Chaz Chase
Helen Charleston	Eddie Rio
Samuel Brothers	Rosie Moran
Rio Brothers	Peggy Hoover
Donald Burr	Claire Curry

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Mr. Carroll of the many "Vanities," monotonously insistent that his girls are the most beautiful in the world, apparently has heard that "the road" is yearning for musical shows. Therefore he comes to the rescue of the provinces like a knight in shining armor with a revue which is called another "Vanities," and the 'steenth in the series. This entertainment, which began a week's sojourn in the Grand Opera house last night, never saw Broadway and never will, but it vigorously goes through the gestures of the opulent song-and-dance pageants of that overadvertised thoroughfare.

This production is a medley of standard material, much of which will strike the assiduous playgoer of the past two years with an air of familiarity. I felt that I was seeing a revue of revues, or a synthesis of recent stage programs at the cinema theaters. A mood of scientific detachment came over me as Mr. Carroll's troopers strove violently to stir my pulse; and I remained as cool as a geologist studying a choice specimen of weathering. Behind me a feminine first-nighter kept saying to her mate: "I've heard that before; I've seen that before." She had indeed, and without moving out of Cook county.

The program, however, is copious, and the conduct of the performers is spirited. The playbill lists forty-four numbers in the two acts, including the opening flourishes and the finales; and Mr. Carroll's grandiose style as a master of the revels, with girls arranged in ascending groups like the houris of the Mohammedan paradise, is frequently in evidence.

Ken Murray, well known as a virile, cigar chewing wag and master of ceremonies, is the company's leader, and he plunges amiably into his task. Chaz Chase, one-time "stooge" to slam-bang comedians of the Ted Healy type, appears as a primary clown, and goes through his bizarre exhibition of eating burning cigars and cigarets, lighted matches, pasteboard, linen collars, and other material hostile to the alimentary tract, with a somewhat fiendish glee.

Three Rio brothers dance and mime and clown; three Samuel brothers do likewise; and occasionally they coalesce into a single family of hoofers.

The principal soubrettes are Peggy Hoover, Helen Charleston and Rosie Moran, whose songs, dances and bright remarks are regulation stuff. The auxiliary girls, whose costumes are often thinned down to a diaphanous chest protector and spangled fig leaf of modern custom, are not—let's be frank—the most beautiful in the world, and they sometimes give an impression that Mr. Carroll's slogan is making them self-conscious. On the other hand, they are comely enough to suit the average revue-goer.

'Biography of Bachelor Girl' Is Lot of Talk About Nothing

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

O, dear, this was such a disappointment!

There was I—an admirer of both Miss Harding and Mr. Montgomery—all set for an hour of enjoyment and, blam!—if all my great expectations didn't just fa' down and go boom!

It seems to me that no poorer vehicle for these two players could have been found had the producers gone on a still hunt for such. "Biography of a Bachelor Girl," adapted from the stage play "Biography," which successfully starred Ina Claire, could, as screened, really be described in one phrase: A lot of talk about nothing. But that one phrase doesn't reveal the facts that the stars are miscast and that the action is slow, unconvincing, and uninteresting.

Well—the bachelor girl is an artist whose life has been spent unconventionally in all the capitals of the civilized world and has made big, black headlines in newspapers.

Enters Ann Harding—just back from abroad—and, of course, in such a rôle she's completely out of character. Norma Shearer, Claudette Colbert, Kay Francis—any number of other beautiful actresses are typed for it, but Ann has it and gets away with it not at all.

Robert Montgomery is cast as the hard boiled editor of a sensational magazine who wants Ann's biography raw, red and juicy for his readers, who like their fare that way. He doesn't give a hoopla how many people—Ann finally agrees to reveal all for a large sum of money—are hurt by her anticipatedly racy disclosures.

After oceans of talk, which bring on their ingoing and outgoing tides various folks, including a rival magazine man, his pretty daughter, her fiancé, a prospective senator who had once had an affair with Ann, the brother of a defunct musical composer, and others, innate nobility wins out.

Conscience rears a triumphant head. The contract is canceled. Ann takes Robert, who is bitter, you learn, on account of a sad experience in his childhood, to wife and mother. And you feel very sure that, from that time on, Mr. Montgomery's magazine will be a magazine for the home. . . .

The players all try their best to make the film a success—but it just couldn't be done.

See you tomorrow.

Night Gowns Keep Lines of Dinner Frocks

Tunic Models Win Place in Style World.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Clever designers are still cutting and sewing the best of the satin night gowns into models that look exactly like delectable new dinner or evening gowns. And the shoppers are grabbing these new ideas and using their "[illegible]" for both purposes.

One shop is quite excited over tunic models that really do make you gasp. Long bias cut satin night gowns with very decorative bodice tops, cut as smoothly as an evening gown, are fitted with tunics that reach the knee-line. They tie in place and come in two flattering shades of pink and blue.

There's a trick to these tunics, too, for they can be pulled up over the chest, fastened at the back of the neck with a tiny covered button, and presto, you have a combination breakfast jacket with a cowl neckline topped gown that is a winner.

With this clever night gown, you can breakfast in bed, with chest and arms covered, and even wear the affair as a lounging house dress. The price mark is exceedingly low. Other midseason night gowns of especial interest for brides-to-be are some trained models.

One of lovely white background has garden flowers printed over it like a Japanese print. It has draped shoulder sections, a long train and a sapphire blue velvet belt. It's a honey for southbound vacationists, because this model, too, can be used for informal dinners at home.

Another poppy red chiffon night gown ensemble, also with a train, derives its picturesque name from the row of silk poppies that accent the square cut low neckline. What will make your eyes gleam is the long petaled cape edged with gold and held tightly around the neck with some more of the poppies.

These and many others, as different a collection of breath taking new beauties as any one can find, are available in a shop famous for its lingerie collections.

Fashion photograph . . . 'Way-off-the-face hat of shiny brown straw, trimmed with a flat tailored bow and a tiny wisp of light brown veiling. One of the newest spring hats that will be worn considerably farther back on the head than the hats of last year. From a Chicago collection of new models ready for immediate wear.

RED STEFAN

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen Enderby, an Englishman, had lived as a boy on the Russian estate of his stepfather, Paul Darensky, and grew up with the large brood of children of a peasant family. When his mother died he went to live with his guardian in England. After the revolution in Russia, as Stefan Ivanovitch, he became a "secret observer," for England, adopting various peasant rôles to hide his identity. Now Stephen has inherited the fortune of his guardian and wants to quit his hazardous work. He is escaping out of Tronsk when he meets and rescues Elizabeth Radin, widow of an executed engineer. Though English her husband was half Russian. She is flying from the advances of Commissar Petroff, who is also after a secret formula of her husband's. Stephen takes her with him and tells her his history. Though he has fallen in love with her he refrains from letting her know. They are overtaken by Petroff and Irina, a beautiful communist, who wanted Stephen herself and resents Elizabeth. Stephen plans to outwit them by denouncing Elizabeth, claiming he never suspected her identity until she began to talk in her sleep. Petroff believes his story, as does Irina. Elizabeth thinks Stephen has turned against her. But he is waiting his chance, which comes, to knock Petroff out. Then Stephen disguises himself and Elizabeth and they slip away. Stephen secures a horse and sledge, in which they continue toward the Polish border. The suspicion of a schoolmaster in a village where they stop is aroused because of a broadcast he has heard about two people wanted by the police as enemies of the state. They make a hurried get away and are pursued by wolves. Stephen stops at a hut in the forest on land once owned by his stepfather.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

THE SAFETY GOAL.

It did not occur to Stephen for a moment that Elizabeth was unhappy. She had behaved with great coolness and courage, she had shot one of the wolves, and she had done what she was told. The last was the greatest virtue of the three. Once they were safe in the hut there was nothing for her to worry about. He was concerned that she should have some hot soup as soon as possible, but having made provision for this by lighting the stove and setting the bucket where the snow would melt and the water heat he had naturally to get on with the job of making Grischa comfortable. He was distressed that Elizabeth should be so cold, and that her voice should sound so faint. He regretted the sheepskin rug very much, but there was hay to spare in the inner room, and he would be able to make her a quite comfortable bed. The hay would, of course, have to be dried before she could sleep on it, but that would be easy as soon as the stove got heated up. That Elizabeth should fancy him estranged or offended had never once entered his head. His love for her was so much a solid and unalterable fact that he had never considered it possible that she did not know of it. It would have been against his code to make love to her while she was under his care. He had simple, definite views about that sort of thing. She was his star, and his love, and when the right time came he would tell her so. He did not consider that this was the right time.

Then straight upon that and without any apparent break she was looking across the hut at Stephen.

And Elizabeth, with her pride in the dust, drank her scalding soup, and was grateful because he had been kind.

He made her eat bully beef and a stick of chocolate.

"When did you have chocolate last?" he said as he gave it to her.

Elizabeth managed to smile. He was so evidently proud of his chocolate. It was, in fact, something to be proud of. Such things are scarce in the Union of Soviet Republics. She said: "I don't know—a long time ago—before I died and came to Russia."

Stephen looked at her for a moment out of those bright blue eyes of his. They made her forget the lank black hair and the darkened skin. When he looked at her like that he was Red Stefan again. She loved him with all her heart. If she had been dead, she was alive again. But it hurt to be alive.

"Are you dead?" said Stephen.

She nodded because it wasn't very easy to speak.

Stephen went on looking at her for about half of an unbearable minute. Then he said, "You talk a lot of nonsense, Elizabeth," and went off into the inner room to fetch the hay which had to be dried.

Elizabeth was ready for him when he came back. He shouldn't have to tell her a second time that she talked nonsense. She asked him where he got his chocolate and his bully beef in just the voice which she would have used in that far-away world where some people shopped at Fuller's and some at Rumpelmayer's. He smiled at her over the hay which he was spreading on the warm stove.

"I do a bit of smuggling every time I come over."

"But how do you get the things across? I thought they searched everyone."

"They don't search me," said Stephen cheerfully.

"Why not?"

She was prepared to hear that he was a frontier guard. It really seemed quite possible.

"They don't catch me," said Stephen with a grin.

"Suppose they did catch you?" It weighed on her mind that she was a danger to him.

"They'd shoot me first and search me afterward. But you needn't worry—they won't catch me."

When the hay was dry, he heaped it into a comfortable bed, made her lie down, and covered her with his coat. It must have been about five o'clock in the morning when she sank into a light, uneasy sleep.

It was a sleep in which dreams and odd dreams—like walkings, came and went. At one moment she rode with Stephen over a pathless waste of snow. He held her in his arms, and the horse flew like the wind. Then straight upon that, and without any apparent break, she was looking across the hut and watching Stephen shave. He had his pocket mirror propped up on the table. The oil lamp with its tin reflector shone down on him. Then he was dyeing his hair. He had taken off the wig and the false eyebrows and he was staining his own hair black with some stuff out of a bottle. She was sleepily impatient for him to finish with it. Elizabeth fell asleep again and she woke with a start to find that the lamp was out and that the small window framed a square of cold daylight. Stephen had a hot drink ready, and more food. He told her that she had slept for six hours and that it was past midday. The wolves were gone, and they must take the road again.

After that there was the business of getting off. The traces had to be mended, the firearms reloaded. Stephen took what remained of his store of food and packed it on the sledge. The hut had been very dark, for the tiny window was frozen over. When they came out into the cold daylight Elizabeth saw that he really had discarded the wig. The closely curling black hair and the strong sweep of black eyebrows achieved by the dyeing of his own hair made him look much younger than he had looked as Nikolai, and quite a different person from Red Stefan. She thought, "If it wasn't for me, he'd be safe. No one would know him."

They had to retrace their path of the night before as far as the forest road. As they started off across the clearing, Stephen said regretfully,

"I would have liked to have altered you, but I didn't know what to do about it."

It was as if he had read her thoughts, which were saying all the time, "You're a danger to him."

She said, "Why?" just for something to say. She knew well enough that she was a danger to him. The thought never left her except when she was angry, and that was a short respite, because she could only be angry with him for a very little while. It was a hot anger while it lasted, but she could not make it last.

"Why?" said Stephen. "O well, you know, a wig is a most awful give-away. If it comes to being searched you're done. I never use a wig when I've got time to do things to my hair. If I have to use one, I get rid of it as soon as possible. Of course it's much easier to hang a man, because a beard makes such a tremendous difference. But you needn't worry—you'll be all right. You don't correspond in the least with the broadcast description, and we'll be over the frontier before that ass Glinka can follow us up."

The frontier—the rainbow's end—the ever shifting goal—the unattained and unattainable—a line men drew on maps—a line between life and death, between safety and danger. . . .

They passed from the clearing into the narrow track down which they had fled with the wolves behind them. It was very dark under the trees. After the brilliant night the sky had clouded. They came to the place where they had left the road, and drove on through the forest. The snow over which they drove was untrodden. Since the last fall nothing had passed this way. The whole forest might have been dead and the snow its winding-sheet. There was no wind and nothing stirred. It was most bitterly cold.

"Snow coming," said Stephen. And then, "Don't worry—we haven't far to go."

Adviser Lists Traits Ruinous to Popularity

Small Habits Alienate People's Friendship.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Why We Don't Like People" is the tactfully captioned book authored by Dr. Donald A. Laird, noted psychologist. [A. L. Glasser & Co., publisher.] Tactfully captioned because it can be construed to mean Why People Don't Like Us.

Why don't they, you ask?

For a number of reasons, which Dr. Laird offers for our inspection. I'll just outline a few of them. Or, better still, taking the tact cue from author Laird, let's name the traits for which people all liked.

One is liked if he can be depended upon to do what he says he will do. This trait alone mightn't make people love us, but it's a good gamble.

One is liked, we're told, if he goes out of his way to help others.

If you do not show off your knowledge, people will like you.

Not only must you be careful not to let yourself feel superior, but you have to be careful, too, lest people get the impression that you do. There are people, Dr. Laird explains, with no desire to show off, but it is the impression others get of them.

Do not reprimand people who do things that displease you is a suggestion, I take it, aimed particularly at women. Are we the bossier sex, as hinted? Anyway, the woman who wants to boss everybody and manage everything usually is disliked, and heartily. A bossy woman is nobody's love interest, it seems.

Telling "tall" stories may get you radio and fiction fame, but for good old friendly contact, it's hinted we'd better curb the instinct. Exaggerating our statements wins us nothing but dislike.

Making fun of others behind their backs has nothing to recommend it. It breeds the fear that "tomorrow you'll be on the pan."

Sarcasm has a similar reaction on people.

These are but samples of vices and habits that alienate, but enough for a morning's study as they may apply to us individually.

DETROIT MOTHER LOST 55 POUNDS OF DISTRESSING FAT

FEELS AND LOOKS 15 YEARS YOUNGER

Lost Double Chin

"I am a mother 46 yrs. old, just one year ago, I weighed 198½ lbs. and had been sick for 2 yrs. before I started taking Kruschen Salts. I now weigh 143 lbs., and feeling fine; have not been sick all winter—not even a cold. My friends all say I look 15 yrs. younger and sure feel it, too. I used to wear size 50 dresses now can wear 36. I feel as if I was made over. I did not reduce in places, I reduced all over even to my feet. So I cannot praise Kruschen Salts enough, they have done wonders for me. I want to tell you I have no double chin either." Mrs. F. L. Healy, Detroit, Mich.

Read that great and sincere letter again you doubting fat men and women—are you going to keep on puffing and wheezing up the stairs or take a half teaspoon of Kruschen (6 separate salts) in a cup of hot water before breakfast every morning—add the juice of half a lemon. Get it at any drugstore in the world—guaranteed.

BY MARY MEADE.

To encourage and abet us in our soupmaking urge rushes that now versatile food—tapioca. Its advantage is apparent to the cream soup maker. Instead of fretting over lumpy white sauces she combines her soup ingredients in the top of a double boiler and lets the thickening of the tapioca add the creaminess to her soup.

The texture of these tapioca thickened soups is most pleasing, say we. Try one of these:

CORN SOUP.

1½ cups canned corn
1 cup meat broth or 1 cup water and 2 bouillon cubes
2½ cups rich milk
1½ tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne
1 teaspoon scraped onion
2 tablespoons butter

Cook the canned corn in the broth for ten minutes and then force it through a sieve. Combine this purée with the milk, tapioca, salt, cayenne, and scraped onion in the top of a double boiler and cook from 10 to 12 minutes over boiling water. Add the butter just before serving.

OYSTER BISQUE.

4 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne
3½ cups milk
1 cup oysters, cut in small pieces
4 tablespoons butter

Combine the tapioca, salt, sayenne, and milk in the top of a double boiler. Cook over rapidly boiling water for 10 to 12 minutes, stirring occasionally. Finally add the cut pieces of oyster and the butter and serve when piping hot.

SHRIMP AND CELERY CHOWDER.

1 cup diced celery
1 cup meat stock
2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne
½ cup diced cooked potatoes
2½ cups milk
1 cup chopped shrimp
3 tablespoons butter
6 pilot biscuits or hard crackers

Cook the celery in the stock for five minutes, then combine with the tapioca, salt, cayenne, potatoes, and milk in the top of a double boiler. Cook 10 to 12 minutes over boiling water, stirring occasionally. Last of all, add the shrimp and butter. Serve steaming hot with a pilot biscuit resting on the top of each serving.

Confer on Benefit at Tea Tomorrow.

Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence and Mrs. John Andrews King issued invitations over the week-end for a tea at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Arts club. Guests will be members of the women's committee planning the benefit performance of "Continental Varieties" Feb. 4 at the Studebaker theater for the Chicago Maternity center.

Miss Nancy Doering has taken the chairmanship of the junior committee working for the success of the benefit. Its membership includes Miss Durie Malcolm, Miss Bette Rich, Miss Betty Forgan, Miss Louise Forgan, Miss Deborah Butler, Miss Ellen Wacker, Miss Hope Leonard, and Miss Virginia Preston.

Harold F. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, Dr. and Mrs. James B. Herrick, Miss Amelia Sears, and Benjamin J. Rosenthal are a few of those who have taken boxes for the Roland Hayes concert at 3:30 the afternoon of Feb. 10 at Orchestra hall. The concert proceeds will be used to carry forward the work of the Chicago Urban league.

Women's Exchange Auction Sale Today.

There are many who know Philip L. Reed as vice president of Armour & Co., but no one has ever met him in the rôle of auctioneer. This experience is in store for all of those who visit room 204 at 952 North Michigan avenue this afternoon, where the Woman's exchange is going to auction off all that is left from the fire sale it has been conducting the last fortnight. These goods were damaged a short time ago by a fire in a florist shop adjoining the permanent quarters of the exchange at 942 North Michigan. The fire sale must now be brought to a close, since the room in which it has been conducted has been rented. Mrs. Reed, who is president of the exchange, announces that the shop itself will reopen today.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Wolff Jr. are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter Jan. 17 at Evanston hospital. Named Judith, she has a 4 year old sister, Catherine. The Wolff home is in Evanston.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mrs. Robert Wolf of 352 Wellington avenue yesterday announced the engagement of her niece, Helen McEvoy, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William P. McEvoy, to William Everett Cahill, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Cahill. Miss McEvoy is a graduate of Marywood and Mr. Cahill a graduate of Loyola university. Miss McEvoy is a granddaughter of the late Roger Sullivan. The wedding is to take place next fall.

Mrs. Frederick K. Crosby of 6723 Stewart avenue yesterday announced the engagement of her daughter, Janet, to Robert Smyth Alvarez, son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter C. Alvarez of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn. Both Miss Crosby and Mr. Alvarez attended the University of Chicago. Mr. Alvarez is now doing graduate work at the University of Illinois.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THE FIRST CANADIAN-AMERICAN CHAMPIONSHIP.

Thanks to the initiative of the American Bridge league and of members of the Toronto Whist club and other Canadian players living near the border, a joint tournament was held in Niagara Falls this year and will, we hope, be followed by many more annual renewals of this friendly rivalry. John Jacobson of Toronto, and the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce, represented by Howard Woolworth, are indeed to be congratulated on the successful results of their tireless efforts. Mrs. E. Gardiner and Mrs. A. C. Hoffmeier of Cleveland, scored a notable victory in the pair championship; my team [Sims, Downes, Unger, Rau] was so fortunate as to win the team costest.

The most discussed hand of the pair event was, it seemed to me, the following:

NORTH
♠ x-x
♥ 8-x-x-x-x
♦ 7-x-x-x
♣ 6-3

WEST
♠ Q-10-9-x
♥ A-K-x-x
♦ K-x-x-x
♣ J

EAST
♠ x-x
♥ Q-x-x
♦ A-Q-J-x-x

SOUTH
♥ J
♦ None
♣ A-K-Q-8-5-4-2

South dealt, and you can readily believe that many players opened with a forcing bid. In such cases, the opponents licked their lips and passed, knowing that a game was going to be bid. South generally ascertained that his partner had nothing to tell, and arrived at four spades. This was naturally doubled by West, and now either North or else South himself sought safety in five clubs, which was mostly doubled and invariably set a trick. Some players even jumped to a slam.

None of those who opened with a forcing bid stayed in four spades doubled, which, as you see, is unbeatable.

One very prominent Sims player decided to make a forcing bid in a minor suit though holding at least three losers. He made a bid of three clubs, and now was unable to stop at four spades as his partner, thinking he was probing for the king when he bid that suit secondarily, had to take him to five clubs. This particular South explained that he thought that if his partner could show the ace of hearts, that would give him a spade finesse for a grand slam, and he wished to gamble on that chance. My view is that if you cannot resist the urge to make an unsound pseudo Sims forcing bid, it would be better to make a two bid, because support for spades [Q x x or x x x x] if your partner can show it, will take two losers out of your hand and, in fact, make a small slam sure, while the ace of hearts will only remove one loser. If you made a two bid and found spade support, you could still locate the ace of hearts; you would later "cue" in diamonds and then jump to six spades. Only with the ace of the sole unbid suit, would your partner then go to seven spades?

Correct Bidding.

The correct bid is without a doubt "one club." Technically, there are too many losers to justify a Sims opening forcing bid. Actually, though the hand so nearly contains a game in itself, there is little fear of the other players passing if you open with one club. Consider all the red cards which you lack. Some one is sure to bid over one club, and it is precisely if they bid against you that you can most easily develop your own bidding by forcing on later rounds. I bid one club; East bid a diamond; I bid two spades. Two no trumps by North, three spades by me, double by West. Now my partner having as many [or few] clubs as spades, assumed an unwarranted responsibility and bid four clubs. I took this to five. Double, redouble. Down one. Wernher and one other player tied for top on the hand, making four spades doubled. The bidding went—one club, pass, pass, one diamond, two spades, two no trumps by North, four clubs by Wernher, four spades by McKenney. North realized that he was being asked to decide between four spades and five clubs, and wisely chose the lower contract. He said it was the first time he had been forced twice by his partner after having passed a dealer's opening bid. The play is automatic. Declarer leads out the two high spades, and then plays clubs relentlessly, forcing West and reducing him to one less trump than his own trump holding each time. A good example of the time factor in trump control. Had West held five spades, South would have been butchered as the time factor would have been against him, and he would have been reduced to fewer trumps than West from the start.

Children Should Have Toys for Creative Play

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Any one who has ever taken a child to visit a farm, or the zoo, or a railroad terminal, knows with what endless material it supplies him for play, or for art or craft expression. It was in Sunday's article that we talked of the need of a young child for some such outside stimulus, and of the richness that these experiences bring into his life.

He reproduces them in many ways—in talk, in dramatic play, and in his use of his playthings. It sets his imagination at work.

But just imagining isn't enough. He needs more than himself and thin air with which to reproduce his experiences—or rather I should say, with which to create from his experiences.

Now what are the concrete things he needs for this play which follows on a journey, a walk in the city streets, a trip to the garage, or a visit to a farm or the zoo?

The answer begins with blocks—good ones and plenty of them. Then comes a whole array of objects which will figure again and again in endless combinations. Among these are small animals, domestic and wild, trees or other parts of landscape, automobiles, trucks, trains, fire engines, dolls, and furniture. He may draw on your housekeeping equipment, your kitchen supplies and furniture. And he should always have paper in large sheets, and pencils and crayons and paints.

We don't flood our young children with all these things at once. It is a good plan to observe your child and see what he seems to crave for his play after he has had some new experience outside his home. In any case, give your child some actual things with which to express himself in imaginative play.

Mushrooms and Intrigue Theme of Soviet Opera

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Murders, amorous intrigue—and mushrooms—make up the most of "Lady Macbeth of Mzensk," Dmitri Shostakovich's opera which has its first American performance Thursday in Cleveland.

The opera, first of four proposed by the composer, is the first soviet opera to be heard in America and is being sung by a company of white Russians because a sufficient number of Red Russians who could sing the rôles could not be found in New York.

The time is 1840, the place Mzensk, and the purpose to show the sad status of women under the old régime. The curtain goes up with Katerina bewailing her life and her husband. Boris, her father-in-law, comes in.

Boris: Are we having mushrooms today?

Katerina: Yes, we will.

Zinovi, the sluggard husband, departs to repair a broken dam.

After Sergei, the handsome new workman, challenges Katerina to wrestle and is accepted Boris returns. He chases everybody away, saying to Katerina: "Go fry some mushrooms. Just wait, your husband will come home and I will tell him all."

Later Boris suspects dire things of Sergei and Katerina, and flogs Sergei before Katerina's eyes. Then:

Katerina: Some mushrooms.

Boris: Give here the mushrooms.

Katerina does, also a little poison. Boris dies. Katerina explains the mushrooms to the priest. Later Zinovi returns inopportunely and he gets the explanation, also. In addition, he gets a blow on the head which finishes him.

But as Sergei and Katerina are wed the police arrive. They pack Katerina and Sergei off to Siberia. En route Sergei's eye wanders toward one Sonetka, whom the Russian Lady Macbeth promptly pushes into a swift creek. Katerina falls in also.

Civic Orchestra Wins Applause in First Concert

Chausson Symphony Played in Sonorous Manner.

BY HAZEL MOORE.

That admirable organization, the Civic Orchestra of Chicago, which so ably fulfils its function of the development of symphony players that each year several of its members are absorbed either by the Chicago or other major symphony orchestras of the country, gave its first concert of the season at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. As usual, the pleasure of listening to this young group was not confined to future possibilities so much as to present accomplishment.

Conductor Eric DeLamarter made no concessions to youth or inexperience as he led his orchestra through the beautiful Chausson Symphony, which received a sonorous and musical performance under his sympathetic baton and was obviously enjoyed both by the players themselves and the good sized audience which applauded them.

If an occasional regular symphony man was seen among them it was only to fill a needed lack of numbers, and in one case at least, a means of encouragement to the debutante harpist, daughter of the famous Joseph Vito, who merely sat near by.

Besides the Chausson Symphony, the program included a "Romantic Overture" by Thuille, the overture to "Raymond," by Thomas; the ballet music from Massenet's "Le Cid," and a Bach Andante from Sonata for Solo Violin, arranged by Frederick Stock. For added good measure the soloist of the day, Elizabeth Hubbard, sang the Debussy aria from "L'Enfant Prodigue" and "Liebesbriefchen," by Korngold, with a pleasing soprano voice and an intelligent approach to her music.

At Kimball hall Mario Rubini, tenor, better known hereabouts as an indefatigable follower of affairs operatic, appeared in his debut recital in a program mainly chosen to exhibit his operatic preference. This was rightly so, for Mr. Rubini showed an obvious musical preference also for the familiar arias of opera.

Opening his program with two classic songs oy Donaudy, Mr. Rubini found himself happier in the following Improviso from "Andrea Chenier" and the famous tenor's delight, "M'Appari," from the opera "Martha." In these his light voice took on added weight and freedom which pleased his friendly audience. Arias from "The Pearl Fishers" and "Tosca" and a group of songs followed. Mr. Rubini was assisted by the expert and sympathetic accompaniments of Miss Rose Saron and by Miss Ida Kogon, who played two groups of piano numbers.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt attended the morning service today in St. Thomas' Episcopal church and were accompanied by their house guest, Maj. Henry B. Hooker of New York, who was one of the very few who were present at the marriage recently of Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall and John Boettiger. Mr. and Mrs. Boettiger are week-end guests at the White House.

The secretary of war and Mrs. Dern were entertained at a reception this afternoon by the assistant secretary of war and Mrs. Harry H. Woodring at the Mayflower, where they are spending the week-end from their country place.

The secretary of the interior and Mrs. Ickes have sent out invitations for dinner on Feb. 22.

Wesley Hospital Auxiliary Board to Give Musical Tea

Ambrose J. Wyrick, concert and operatic tenor, will sing on the afternoon of Feb. 8 at a tea given by the auxiliary board of Wesley Memorial hospital in the Georgian hotel in Evanston. Mrs. George E. Charming Quilt Has Famed Greek Cross Ornament

Greek Cross.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Quilt makers may indulge their fancies when coining names for their creations. "Greek Cross," today's quilt pattern, is not an exact replica of the original Greek cross. Rather, it is the Cross Patee. For a quilt design, regardless of the name, "Greek cross" makes one of the most outstanding quilts among the list of old pieced coverlets.

With her Second book of quilts, Nancy Cabot now offers 10 patterns of her own choice at a combination price of 10 cents (12 cents by mail). The booklet alone is 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices—1 South Dearborn St. or Tribune Tower.

They Tried "Moist-Throat" Method! "NEXT DAY OUR COUGHS WERE GONE!"

"Jackie and I coughed our heads off," says Mrs. P. Fernandez, Providence, R. I. "Doctor said 'Pertussin.' Next day our coughs were gone!"

WHEN you catch cold, sticky mucus clogs your throat's moisture glands. That's because the healthy secretions of these glands have thickened or dried. Your throat feels raw—tickly—you cough. To relieve coughing, you must "unclog" these glands and so moisten the throat. PERTUSSIN does just that. Sticky phlegm loosens. Relief—quick. Get a bottle now.

Amazing Quick-Whitening Action of Antiseptic Toothpaste Makes Dull Teeth Gleaming White in a Hurry

Perhaps you are one of those who have tried a dozen or more different ways to make dull teeth lustrous and white and have about decided that it's hopeless. If so, start using Kolynos and you'll soon have teeth that gleam like polished jewels.

Ordinary Toothpaste Can't Do This

This scientific toothpaste contains properties not found in any other toothpaste that give teeth a wonderful clearness and whiteness impossible before. It contains the finest cleansing and polishing agents PLUS antiseptic properties that kill germs and serve to remove the ugly GERM-MASK which forms on the teeth and causes them to look dull, yellow and unsightly.

Teeth Look Better Overnight

After the very first brushing with a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush you'll see how important it is to use a toothpaste that kills germs and removes the GERM-MASK. Your teeth will take on new brightness and clearness. Soon they will look shades whiter than you ever dreamed they would.

Thousands Will Tell You

...That Kolynos is the quickest way to clean, whiten and brighten dull, dingy teeth. And it is now known to many thousands of people who would not think of using an ordinary toothpaste. Try it and see. You'll be surprised at how much whiter your teeth look in 3 days.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Those hocky fans who crave plenty of scoring, and there are many such among American customers, more than got their money's worth last night if they were at the Stadium and saw the Chicago Blackhawks beat the lowly, but spirited St. Louis Eagles, 5 to 3.

The game was a lot of fun for those who like rough and tumble action and the 8,500 who attended seemed to be unanimously of this classification. When not scoring the players were sprawling and sliding all over the place. It was, indeed, a merry evening.

The Hawks led, 2 to 0, at the end of the first period, and 1 to 1 at the end of the second, but this count didn't slow up anybody. The third period's four goals made everybody in the seats cheer everybody on the ice regardless of uniform. That's the kind of a game it was.

Chabot Saves Hawks.

Two great saves by Chabot shortly after the half way point in the first period, one on Cowley, who had broken through on top of him, and the other on Kelly, who similarly had penetrated the defense line, averted what seemed certain markers but the squeak was so narrow that the Hawks decided it was high time to do some mighty bearing down.

Kelly's threat was in the eleventh minute and as soon as it had failed, Trudell and Cook took the puck the length of the rink. Their combined efforts precipitated a scrimmage in front of the Eagle net, out of which emerged a goal by Trudell with Cook getting an assist. The time was 11:40.

In the sixteenth minute Chabot again seemed to inspire his mates with his third miracle save of the period. After he had been knocked down in a barrage, the rubber was left in front of the open cage. As two Eagles rushed at the puck, Chabot rolled over on the ice and batted it to safety by a margin of a split second. A minute later, the time was 17:10, Wiebe and Locking raced the length of the rink. Wiebe took a pass from Locking on the Hawk right boards and negotiated a swoop in which he dropped off the mail as he passed in front of Goalie Beveridge. Locking was awarded an assist.

Hawks Step Out.

The Hawks' third goal, in 7:40 of the second period, was the result of some lightning work by Gottselig. Johnny, Morenz, and March had staged a mêlée off Goalie Beveridge's boots. Just when it appeared that the goalie had turned back the onslaught, Gottselig, who had been knocked on the seat of his shorts, discovered the puck had bounced to an unobstructed point in front of the cage. With a fine plunge and shot Gottselig counted. Morenz and March were standing near enough to get assists.

The Eagles scored in 19:50 of the second period. Purpur and Kelly carried the puck back and a bit to the right of the Hawk cage, then Kelly shoved it out and Purpur batted it home from close up.

Hawk goal No. 4 in 7:07 of the third period was the climax of a pleasing dash by Thompson. Paul swept along his left boards until time to avoid the Eagle defenders. Then he glided past them with great speed and grace. He bore down on Goalie Beveridge without hindrance and had no difficulty in scoring the goal.

Eagles Speed Up.

Kendall rang up Hawk goal No. 5 in a concerted closeup attack on the cage in which he was joined by Trudell and Coulter, who got assists. The time was 10:00.

A whirlwind rally netted the Eagles two goals in 12:20 and 13:20. The first one was made by Brydson with Ayers and Voss getting assists and the second was rung up by Blake with Brydson and Voss getting assists. Both markers were the result of nicely executed team work.

Boxers! Remember Friday Is Golden Gloves Entry Deadline

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The deadline for entries in Chicago's eighth Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE is Friday midnight. No boy will be permitted to enter this year whose letter, inclosing an entry blank printed daily in THE TRIBUNE'S sports pages, does not bear a postmark prior to this date.

For these late entrants there will be a physical examination on Wednesday, Feb. 6, at Trafton's gymnasium. This will be the final medical examination and those who fail to appear in answer to their letters of instruction cannot participate.

Must Have Parents' Consent.

These letters will be mailed immediately after the closing entry date, Feb. 1, and will inclose a parental consent card which must be brought to the examinations. This consent card, signed by the guardian or parent, if the boxer is a minor, and signed by the boxer if he is of age, is required for admittance to all examinations.

The schedule of examinations is:

Wednesday, Jan. 30, at the Catholic Youth Center, 31 East Congress street, from 6:30 to 8 p. m.

Friday, Feb. 1, at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, from 6 to 8 p. m.

Wednesday, Feb. 6, at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, from 6 to 8 p. m.

Letters have been mailed for the examination at the C. Y. O. Today and tomorrow letters will be mailed for the Friday examination at Trafton's. The final examination will take care of the last rush, and to this last examination all those who have entered and received parental consent cards but have failed to report will be eligible.

Tickets Go to Boxers.

Beginning today and tomorrow personal instructions to Golden Glovers who have passed the medical examinations will be mailed. Each letter will contain two tickets, one for the boxer and the other for his second, to the sectional tournament to which he has been assigned. There will be three sections, South, West, and North. The South side tournament will be a double tournament for Novice boxers in that two boys in each of the eight weight divisions will qualify for the semi-finals of the Chicago Novice tournament, which will start Feb. 25 at the Chicago Stadium. West and North will qualify one boxer each in each weight class.

The dates of the sectional tournaments follow:

South Side—White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, Feb. 11, 12, 13, 21, and 22.

West Side—Community Recreation Center, 4711 Madison street, Feb. 13, 14, 15, 20, and 21.

North Side—Loyola university gymnasium, Loyola avenue and Sheridan road, Feb. 19, 20, and 21.

It is important that each boxer, when he receives his tickets to the sectional tournament, check the date of the tickets. For instance, while many of the South Side boxers will report on Feb. 11, the first night of the meet, others will be assigned to report on later days such as Feb. 13 or Feb. 21. The date on the tickets determines the night to report.

Expect 1,000 to Be Eligible.

While it is difficult to estimate the number of qualified boxers since three more medical examinations are on the schedule, in all probability more than 1,000 boys from a list of more than 2,000 will be eligible. The most important fact now is to remember that entries close Friday night at midnight. Be sure to observe this regulation if you wish to compete in either the Open or Novice divisions.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Finishing touches to weeks of strenuous training were applied today by Champion Barney Ross and Challenger Frankie Klick, who meet tomorrow night in a ten round bout in which Ross' junior welterweight title will be at stake.

Ross, who also holds the world's lightweight championship, is the favorite, although Klick, a hard punching Californian, has built up a large following by impressive workouts. The boxers will weigh in tomorrow afternoon. Leo Shea will referee.

Baer Boxes Maloney.

The card, which is the first and only major fight program arranged here this winter, includes a four round exhibition between Max Baer, world's heavyweight champion, and Jimmy Maloney, former Boston heavyweight, now a trafic policeman on the Miami police force.

Joe Knight, Cairo, Ga., southpaw, and Tony Shucco, Boston light heavyweight, are matched in the ten round windup with the winner promised a bout with Champion Bob Olin. Knight fought a draw here last spring with Maxie Rosenbloom, then light heavyweight champion.

Ross Weighs 136 Pounds.

Buddy Baer, 220 pound brother of the heavyweight champion, meets Frankie Davenport of Chicago in six rounds, while Bucky Burton of Clinton, Ind., will box Charles Battle of Miami in four rounds.

A crowd of 10,000, with a gate of approximately $30,000, was in prospect tonight. Ticket prices range from $1 to $10.

Ross engaged in a busy final workout today. He punched the light bag for two rounds, skipped the rope for two and topped off with a calisthenic drill. He weighed 136 pounds after the drill. Klick weighed 135½ pounds when he finished his last workout.

PAT CRAWFORD, NEW ROCHESTER BOSS, IMPROVES

Kingston, N. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Pat Crawford, utility infielder of the St. Louis Cardinals who last week was named manager of the Rochester club of the International league, was said by his wife and physicians at a hospital here today to be much improved.

Crawford and his wife are spending the winter here with Mrs. Crawford's parents. The player underwent an operation several weeks ago and an infection developed when he was about to leave the hospital. His condition has been serious for several days.

Marvin Swanson, Kitty Klein Win National Skating Titles

BY CHARLES NEVADA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oconomowoc, Wis., Jan. 27.—Marvin Swanson, Minneapolis, and Kitty Klein, Buffalo, N. Y., captured the senior championship in the national speed skating tournament which ended today on Lake Fowler here. Five United States records were broken.

KITTY KLEIN.

Swanson won the men's title with 90 points, his victory in the five mile race, the final event of the two day program, being the deciding factor.

Miss Klein, a former stenographer, won the women's championship by scoring 110 points. Dorothy Franey, St. Paul, Minn., defending champion, was second with 100.

Jimmy Webster Falls.

The veteran Jimmy Webster, St. Paul, had a good start yesterday, when he led the field in points, but went unplaced in three events today. He fell in the 440 yard race, in which he was leading at the time.

American records were broken in the senior women's, boys' intermediate, and boys' juvenile divisions. Miss Franey won the 880 yard event in 1:29.6. She also surpassed the best previous U. S. performance during one of the preliminaries.

Miss Klein, winner in 1933, captured the one mile final in 3:08.2, beating her own record by six and one-fifth seconds. Orel Duffy, the lone Canadian competing, and his chief rival, Richard Beard, Minneapolis, accounted for new records in the boys' intermediate division. Duffy was timed in :18.8 for a special 220 yard race in which he beat Beard to decide the title, after both had finished the regular tests in a tie in the point standing.

Duffy Cracks Record.

Duffy clipped two-tenths of a second from the mark of Leo Freisinger, Chicago, made last January in Minneapolis. Beard defeated Duffy in a regulation 440 yard race in :36.7, five-tenths of a second under another national record, also held by Freisinger.

Two Minneapolis juveniles, Pat Maloney and Ed Bredemus, bettered the mark for 880 yards. Maloney's time was 1:36.6.

Chicago skaters dominated the junior classes and Shirley Jameson was one of the few to register a perfect performance for the meet with 120 points. Kenneth Kesselberg led the boys with 110 points.

Other Great Lakes title holders decided today were Edna Schwartz, St. Paul, class B women; Janet Dennis, Cedar Rapids, Ia., juvenile girl's class, and Maloney, who won three races among the juvenile boys.

Powderhorn Club Wins Title.

The Powderhorn Skate club, helped by Swanson, scored 360 points to take the team title. Powderhorn also accounted for four of the eight American records established yesterday and today.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS.
SENIOR MEN'S 440 YARDS—Won by Truman Connell [St. Louis]; John Flickenger [Chicago], second; Wallace Fee Jr. [Chicago], third. Time, :36.8.

Shaky Chicago Five to Meet Ohio Tonight

Big Ten Standing

	W.	L.	Pct.	Pts.	O.P.
Iowa	4	1	.800	183	158
Purdue	3	1	.750	127	107
Indiana	3	1	.750	137	122
Wisconsin	4	2	.667	167	138
Illinois	3	2	.600	172	155
Ohio State	3	2	.600	143	146
Minnesota	2	2	.500	137	134
Michigan	1	4	.200	115	143
Northwestern	1	5	.167	141	166
Chicago	0	4	.000	104	157

Ohio State, after its 29 to 19 triumph over the Wildcats of Northwestern Saturday night, will invade the Maroon fieldhouse tonight to take on Chicago in the evening's only Big Ten basketball game. Another Western conference team, the league leading Iowa five, will visit Drake for a contest with the Bulldogs.

Chicago stepped down to South Bend Saturday night and lost a 32 to 20 game to Notre Dame. Bill Haarlow, upon whom the Maroons depend for most of their points, was bottled up and as a result the Irish had no trouble.

The Buckeyes, with a Big Ten mark of .600 gained on three victories and two defeats, appear likely to defeat the Maroons tonight. Ohio State took the first of the two game series at Columbus by a comfortable margin. Warren Whitlinger, a sharpshooting forward, and Tippy Dye, 140 pound quarter back who is exceptionally fast in basketball, are the leaders in the Buckeye offense. Beitner, a guard and one of the best, has been used against leading scorers of opponents.

The main hope for the Maroons seems to be Haarlow to break away for a big scoring splurge. Chicago this year has lost eleven of twelve games.

Thursday night Ohio State again will go into action, facing Notre Dame at Notre Dame. Two games involving leading quintets will be decided Saturday. Purdue, in second place in the Big Ten race, will come to Chicago to play the Maroons, and Iowa and Minnesota will meet in their return game at Iowa.

Templeton Denies Trying to Recruit Oklahoma Runner

Stanford University, Cal., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Coach R. L. [Dink] Templeton of Stanford's track team demanded today "who's Orville Matthews?" in reply to charges he had attempted to recruit the midwest runner.

Templeton was accused by John Jacobs, University of Oklahoma track coach, of attempting to induce the Chickasha, Okla., High school sprint star to enter Stanford. Jacobs concluded the Californian would not win so many national championships if he stayed at home for his talent.

"Never heard of Orville Matthews," snorted Templeton from his sick bed here.

He altered this flat statement, however, to add Dr. Fritz Roth, team trainer, had told him about Matthews a month ago but that the boy had not been approached.

"A good coach can maintain a certain amount of prestige, but he will lose it if he goes around begging for athletes," Templeton explained. "So, I have never done any proselyting. I have never written to an athlete or even answered a letter from one asking for anything in return for his enrollment."

MIKKELSEN WINS NATIONAL SKI CHAMPIONSHIP

Canton, S. D., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Roy Mikkelsen of the Auburn Ski club, Auburn, Cal., became the national ski champion by beating a brilliant field of class A riders at the national tournament on the famous Canton hill today. Mikkelsen made jumps of 172 and 184 feet.

Scoring 224.10 points, 3 points ahead of his nearest competitor, Sverre Fredheim of Minneapolis, Mikkelson won his honors in much the same manner as he did in 1933, by outjumping the field.

Fredheim placed second with 221.40 points. Caspar Oimen, the defending champion, followed with 219.70 points. Fredheim's jumps were 170 and 180 feet and Oimen's 166 and 175.

M'SPADEN AND COOPER REACH OPEN GOLF FINAL

Kansas City Pro Defeats Ky Laffoon.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Harold [Jug] McSpaden, 26 year old Kansas City, Kas., professional, and Light Horse Harry Cooper of Chicago entered the finals of the San Francisco open golf tournament today.

They will play 36 holes tomorrow to determine disposition of the major share of $4,000 prize money.

McSpaden, who emerged from obscurity a year ago to become a national contender in the annual winter "gold rush," eliminated two opponents today in a display of subpar golf.

Nelson Blows Up.

He defeated Byron Nelson, the Texarkana, Tex., boy who yesterday beat Lawson Little by the one sided count of 6 to 4. Nelson's play was in direct contrast to the great shotmaking with which he defeated Little, the British and American amateur champion.

Nelson's putting was below standard. He simply could not gauge his stroke on the greens. McSpaden, on the other hand, clung to par for the Presidio club course, a 72 stroke layout.

The Kansan continued his assault on par in the semi-final round to defeat Ky Laffoon of Chicago, 3 and 1. He took a two up lead at the ninth and increased it to three up on the 17th with a par 4, Laffoon conceding after using up that many strokes and still having a putt left.

Revolta Loses, 2 and 1.

Cooper defeated John Revolta of Milwaukee, 2 and 1, in the quarter-finals and whipped Jimmy Thomson of Long Beach, 1 up in the semi-finals.

Against Revolta, Cooper took a one hole lead at the ninth and increased it to three up at the fourteenth. His match with Thomson was a sterner affair. Thomson took a one up lead at the ninth with a par 36.

Cooper's comeback on the second nine squared the match on the tenth and he went into the lead on the next hole. He remained ahead from then on. They halved the last four holes, Thomson missing a five foot putt on the 18th. The last hole was halved in fives. Had Thomson dropped his fairly easy putt for a 4, he would have squared the match.

Cooper Qualifies with 74s.

To reach the finals McSpaden qualified with 74—72—146. He defeated James Fogarty of Kirkwood, Mo., 3 and 2, and Ben Loving of Petersburg, Va., 4 and 3, in yesterday's first two rounds.

Cooper qualified with two 74s for a 148. He defeated Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., P. G. A. champion, and Gene Sarazen, Brookfield, Conn., one time British and American open champion, in yesterday's rounds by scores of 2 and 1.

GARDEN SEEKS DEMPSEY TO END POOR DECISIONS

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Following on the heels of his criticism of the New York state athletic commission's action in reversing the decision in the fight between Vince Dundee and Babe Risko, John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the Garden corporation, announced today that he would ask the commission to assign Jack Dempsey to referee the 15-round bout between Art Lasky and James J. Braddock next Friday.

"The decisions recently handed down in Madison Square Garden have so antagonized the fans that drastic steps must be taken if confidence is to be restored," Kilpatrick said.

"Just one man can do it—Jack Dempsey. Every fan knows that if Jack is in the ring a fair and intelligent decision will be rendered. Jack Dempsey has always been ready to help the boxing game and if the commission grants approval Jack will be in the Garden ring on Friday night."

NAGURSKI GETS 1ST TOUCHDOWN IN 3 MINUTES

18,000 Watch Game at Los Angeles.

An Associated Press wirephoto of the Bears-Giants game at Los Angeles yesterday appears on the back page of this edition.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 27.—There is an old saying that you shouldn't fool with an inflamed grizzly, and 18,000 spectators today saw what happens to the unfortunate outfit that tries it, when the Chicago Bears took their professional football revenge battle from the New York Giants, 21 to 0.

The Bears just had too much power.

If the Bears had played without Fullback Bronko Nagurski to open holes and to lead his mates in grinding the best offensive efforts of the Giants into the sun baked powder that passed for sod in Gilmore stadium, the Giants might have had a good fighting chance. As it was, they will go back east with only the remembrance of their 30 to 13 victory over the Bears last month to afford any satisfaction. That victory gave the Giants the professional football title although they previously had lost two games to the Bears.

Bears Waste No Time.

Today the Bears slammed through for three touchdowns and three placement kicks in the first half, and turned back the Giants on the six yard line deep in the fourth quarter when the New York outfit got into its only seriously threatening position of the day.

Link Lyman, playing the final game of his long competitive career, figured so outstandingly in piling up the Giants' interference and spilling the runner that 18,000 handclaps cheered him as he left the game near the finish.

Red Grange, who, like Lyman, was announced as wearing his cleats for the last time in competition, went into the game twice. In the first half he figured in one of the Bears' sallies deep into New York territory, after the score already was 21 to 0. In the fourth quarter Red went in again after the Giants lost the ball on Ed Danowski's second successive grounded pass into the end zone, and Red took the ball on the Bears' first play from the 20 yard line and ran it on a 41 yard dash to New York's 39 yard line. Buss, the Bears' big tackle, threw his helmet on the ground in disgust and Luke Johnsos cussed in disappointment as Irvin, the Giants' 230 pound tackle, overhauled Red to interrupt his try for a touchdown.

Bears Put on March.

The New York team, with the superior passing of Ed Danowski as its chief asset, was overmatched and overpowered. Ken Strong, New York's star at plunging and broken field running, was bumped so hard by Lyman and Musso and Lyman and Nagurski in two plays in the first quarter that he was stunned and played only a portion of the remainder of the game.

Before he went out Strong made a 25 yard runback off a kickoff following Nagurski's opening touchdown. Strong also figured in the Giants' first period march to the Bears' 22 yard line.

Nagurski's touchdown came in the first three minutes of play. Taking the ball on his own 11 yard line, where Ronzani intercepted one of Danowski's aerials, Bronko trampled 24 yards through the field, knocking aside Bill Owen, tackle, and being brought down by Mel Hein and Strong after he had been temporarily knocked off his feet, but had bounced up for seven more yards. Feathers carried the ball on five of the next seven plays, and then Strong ran him out of bounds on the one foot line after a 22 yard trip. Nagurski bucked it over.

Favorite Play Scores.

The second Bear touchdown was made by the reserve team of nine players, who were sparkplugged by Brumbaugh, with Karr still playing his regular end early in the second period. Molesworth took Danowski's punt on his own 47 yard line and ran it 31 yards to the Giants' 22 yard line. Two passes by Molesworth failed, but

CANZONERI O. K., BUT HIS MANAGER HAS THE JITTERS

Fears Rodak May Win on Close Decision.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The shadowy fear that history may repeat itself and that another close decision will go against him was the only disturbing element in the fistic training camp of Tony Canzoneri at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday.

The former king of the lightweights had worked brilliantly during the afternoon for his bout with Leo Rodak at the Chicago Stadium Thursday night. He swarmed all over his sparmates. His timing and judgment of distance was well nigh perfect. He grew stronger as the drill went along. His punches had the old time Canzoneri sting in them.

You could tell it by the red spots which dotted the anatomies of the sparboys.

Tony's Italian friends—there are many of them in Chicago—who had gathered at the gymnasium to see the rehersal shouted "bravo, Tony" with genuine enthusiasm.

But Mr. Goldman Worries.

This all made Tony very happy. The others in his entourage were also jubilant, all except his manager, Sammy Goldman. Sammy confessed he was worried.

However, what do fight managers do to earn their money if they don't worry?

Yet Goldman's worries seem to be a little different and no doubt there is a reason for it.

Every one knows that Barney Ross got a close decision when he lifted the world's lightweight crown from Tony's brow. This happened in the same Chicago Stadium ring where Tony, who is fighting back toward the championship he coveted so much, will meet Rodak.

Rodak is just as eager to take a punch at the chin of Barney Ross as Tony. Rodak will be making his 23d start as a professional, and so far he doesn't know what the word "defeat" sounds like. But Thursday either Rodak or Canzoneri must drop out of the lightweight championship picture.

Big Following for Rodak.

Rodak, who came up through THE TRIBUNE Golden Gloves ranks, has a following here that is equally as large as the one Ross enjoys. Then, on top of that, he has been a protégé of Packey McFarland, member of the Illinois athletic commission, since he deserted the simon pures and made such a spectacular start among the professionals.

These are some of the things that caused Goldman to put in such a restless afternoon. After he had seen Canzoneri safely through his training stunts and had sent Tony on to bed early he began work on a speech he expects to make to the members of the athletic commission this afternoon.

He will discuss officials and their duties and probably will reach a climax in his spellbinding effort by demanding that Commissioner McFarland have nothing to do with the selection of either the referee or judges who serve in the Canzoneri-Rodak scrap.

Rodak also refused to take the day off yesterday even though it was Sunday. He engaged in his usual roadwork in the morning and toiled for two hours at the Catholic Youth Organization gymnasium during the afternoon. He demonstrated that it will take but little more work for him to reach the peak of condition.

Rabbit Hunters: Prepare to Cease Firing Friday

BY BOB BECKER.

Rabbit shooters in northern Illinois soon will have to lay aside their rabbit guns. The season closes Thursday. When that day arrives the sportsman either will have to try his hand at skeet shooting, locate some crow roosts, or join the hot stove league for the rest of the winter and argue about the duck situation.

Now that all the bird experts have met in New York and have given out their findings in Canada and the United States on the condition of the waterfowl flocks, one of the favorite hot stove league pastimes is arguing about ducks.

When we were sitting in on some of the sessions of the American Game conference in New York a few days ago we noticed that nearly everybody left one red hot topic alone. This was the question of putting out feed for ducks, otherwise known as baiting. The Illinois delegation to the conference frankly told the conference why Illinois shooters consider it necessary to put out food for the ducks and made a clear presentation of the whole situation.

But we didn't see anybody else showing any inclination to be this frank about a much discussed angle of hunting ducks.

As a matter of fact, nearly everybody was so excited over the question of an open or closed season for 1935 the topic of baiting, last year an angle of duck hunting that had everybody excited, was treated as an orphan child. Nor did we hear any of the conservation authorities speak of baiting outside of the conference room. The biological survey chief, J. N. Darling, said nothing about it in his main address on the seriousness of the waterfowl situation.

The baiting question, then, still is in a passive state for the time being.

Two Shows on Chicago Ring Card Tonight

Everett Rightmire and Frank Wolfram, rival featherweights, will renew their boxing feud tonight in a ten round windup bout at Midway Arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. The match was postponed last week because of cold weather.

Another show is scheduled tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, with Art Sykes matched against Jack Kranz in a heavyweight contest at eight rounds.

The Wolfram-Rightmire bout will be their fifth meeting, each having won twice. Their last bout, contested at Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 18, was won by Wolfram.

Supporting contests pair Earl Mason with Jimmy Cummings, Nestor Bruggman with Spud Kelly, Eddie Chinski with Pete Verri, and Joe Savage with Georgie Trapp.

Kranz and Sykes will be making their first appearances since November. Sykes lost a ten round decision to Adolph Wiater at the Arcadia Gardens in his last bout. Kranz's most recent fight was against Tony Souza at Chicago Stadium. He lost the eight round decision. These defeats have irked the fighters and their handlers no little. As a result Kranz was given a vacation and Art was shipped home for a tonsil operation and rest.

Georgie Goodman, member of the 1931 intercity Golden Gloves team, and Jimmy Eliopoulos of the Catholic Youth organization, will be opponents in the six round semi-final. The balance of the card:

Milt Aron vs. Jack Lazar [4], 142.
Buddy Dyer vs. Syl Saliska [4], 156.
Moss Brawner vs. Biff Bennett [4], heavyweights.
Al Williams vs. Eddie Flynn [wrestling].

The proposed main event between Johnny Phagan and George Black at Milwaukee, Wis., next Monday has been canceled. . . . Chuck Woods and Young Joe Gans, welterweights, will box ten rounds at Detroit Friday. . . . Orville Drouillard, Windsor, Ont., is in Cincinnati, O., where he opposes Tiger Walker Wednesday. . . . Attempts are being made to substitute Tony Morgano, Philadelphia southpaw, for Juan Zurita against Jimmy Christy, Chicago featherweight, at Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 8. . . . Zurita must return to the Philippine Islands, his stay in this country having expired.

The flyweight division is expected to produce some of the hardest fighting in the annual Illinois Athletic club tournament which will open at the club tomorrow night. Most prominent in this division are three champions, Jerry Mathieu, Jesse Robinson, and Johnny Noto. Mathieu won the Central A. A. U. title and Robinson, in addition to being the defending I. A. C. titleholder, won A Century of Progress crown last year. Noto holds the Catholic Youth organization championship. Mathieu, Mastro boxing club representative, has scored victories over Noto and Robinson in the last year. These matches were fought at catchweights, however, and reducing to the required 112 pounds may weaken Mathieu.

Slobodas Beat Viennas, 3 to 2, in Cup Contest

The Slobodas defeated the Viennas in the replay for the National Amateur soccer cup, 3 to 2, at 50th and California avenue yesterday. Sloboda scored first three minutes after play started, T. Riley getting the goal. With 15 minutes left to play, F. Fraser took advantage of H. Thomson's open goal to make the score 3 to 0. N. Coyle made the Slobodas' third goal as the half ended.

The Viennas got their first goal two minutes after the second half opened, W. Zolosehan counting. With ten minutes left to play A. Krockle scored from close in.

DAMEN LOSES TO HENNEPIN, 21-20, TO TIE FOR FIRST

Play Off K. of C. League Deadlock Thursday.

Spurting to a ten-point lead before Damen could score, Hennepin-Shields won a 21 to 20 thriller at the west side clubhouse yesterday to throw Damen into a tie with St. Cyr for first place in the West Division of the Knights of Columbus basketball league. A long shot by Husfield and another by Halissey with less than a minute to play provided the winning margin.

St. Cyr rallied at the finish to nose out Barry, 32 to 31. Setters took a 19-18 verdict over Cardinal which gave it a tie with Hennepin for third place, while Hughes defeated Carroll, 32 to 23, to put Carroll into a tie with Tonti for fifth position. Tonti won from Lafayette, 46 to 21.

Thursday night's playoffs will be Setters vs. Hennepin, Damen vs. St. Cyr and Carroll vs. Tonti.

METCALFE GETS FIVE PLACES ON ALL-STAR TRACK

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Glenn Hardin, Louisiana state track star, and Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette, national sprint champion, capture major honors in the latest all-American track and field lineup, picked annually by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary treasurer of the Amateur Athletic union, and made public today in Spaulding's 1935 athletic almanac. The Ferris selections also include all-college and all-scholastic teams.

Hardin gains six places and Metcalfe five in the combined honor roll. The L. S. U. star, in addition to being picked for the 400 meter hurdles for the third consecutive year, is selected for the 200 meter hurdles and 400 meter run on the all-American list, along with the three corresponding events on the collegiate roster.

Metcalfe, besides retaining his all-American and all-college ratings at standard sprint distances, displaces Emmett Topping as the choice for the 60 meter dash.

Ferris handles the all-American situation logically by picking Princeton Bill Bonthron for the 1,500 meter spot, and Kansas Glenn Cunningham for the one mile run, transposing last year's selections. He exposes himself to possible criticism by naming Cunningham over Bonthron for the mile in the all-college list.

Cunningham ran the world's fastest miles last year, indoors as well as out, but was beaten decisively by Bonthron in the National Collegiate A. A. championship mile at Los Angeles.

The selections follow:

ALL-AMERICAN TEAM—60, 100, and 200 meters, Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette; 400 meter run, Glenn F. Hardin, Louisiana State; 800 meter run, Milton Sandler, German-American A. Bears Defeat N.Y. Giants in Coast Battle

Brumbaugh cut loose a third pass to Luke Johnsos in the corner of the field on the three yard line. Manders took the ball from Brumbaugh on the next play, faked a buck at center, but straightened and lobbed it like a basketball directly over center to Johnsos in the end zone for a touchdown.

The Bears' third and final touchdown was registered by Molesworth after this player returned one of Danowski's punts to the Giants' 42 yard line. A lateral to Manders lost one, and Ronzani then passed to Molesworth, who ran the ball to the 31. Molesworth couldn't find a receiver, so dented center to the 27 yard line, and Ronzani shook and stamped his way through four Giants to the 16.

Molesworth swung in behind terrific interference led by Manders, who took out the left end, and the two Bear guards, Pearson and Carlson, hit the two remaining Giants on the next play, which sent Molesworth over for a 16 yard run to a touchdown. Manders kicked all three extra points from placement.

In the third period the Giants took the ball on downs on their 28 yard line and started a march that ended when Carlson intercepted one of Danowski's passes on the Chicago 16 yard line. Musso and Hein squared off at one time during the Giants' line onslaught, but his mates pulled Moose back. Link Lyman broke through to smear Danowski for a ten yard loss on the next play. A Bear offside put the ball on their 20 yard line, but the Giants again were unable to penetrate further on line plays.

Giants Near Touchdown.

Feathers quick-kicked but the Giants drove back up the field from the 50 yard line again, with Richards carrying the ball behind the aggressive interference of Molenda, Danowski, Reese, and Jones for a 21 yard run along the side lines. Burnett took a pass from Danowski on the Bears' 18 yard line, but Nagurski drove into him so hard the Giant lost the ball and the officials ruled he had not had possession.

The New York team made another despairing drive in the last period. Ted Rosequist of the Bears and Reese of the Giants started to fight but were stopped by their teammates. The penalty for unnecessary roughness put New York on the Bears' 46 yard line, and Corzine shot through a hole to the 36 yard line on the next play. Danowski completed a forward pass to Burnett, who ran to the six yard line. Molesworth tackled Richards for a two yard loss, and Danowski tried three futile passes, two of which reached Flaherty's fingers in the end zone but dribbled off and the Bears took over the ball.

On the strength of their victory the Bears probably will be signed for an appearance in a motion picture here next week.

19 to 12 on First Downs.

The Bears made 19 first downs, 16 of them by rushing and 3 by passes, to New York's 12. New York made nine by rushing, one by a penalty, and two on passes. The Bears' total net yardage was 293, the Giants' 144. The Bears tried 15 passes, completed 5, and had 2 intercepted, while New York tried 21, completed 6, and had 2 intercepted. The Bears averaged 6 2-3 yards gain per play, carrying the ball 47 times, with Nagurski gaining 108 yards on 12 tries for an average of 9. Grange led all the ground gainers, 2 plays for 48 yards, an average of 24. Feathers averaged 4 1-12 yards on 12 plays; Sisk averaged 4 2-7, and Molesworth 4 5-6. Strong averaged 3 2-9 on 9 plays and Richards 4 2-5 yards on ten plays.

Owens Named President of Bowling Association

Members of the Illinois Bowling association held their 38th annual business meeting at the Hotel Sherman yesterday. S. J. Owens, former vice president of the association, was elected president, succeeding Dr. Warren Smeltzer. Other officers elected were: F. Gebler, vice president; Albert Sindelar, secretary; Dr. Smeltzer, treasurer; W. E. Trischmann, auditor, and J. Lellinger, S. Manning, and H. Lehmpuhl, finance committee.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

POTPOURRI.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 27.—Santa Anita race track is making an effort to popularize distance events. Already two races over a 2 mile route have been offered. The first attracted seven entries and the second five entries. Both were well contested. Later in the meeting a 4 mile race will be carded.

There is no question such races appeal to the public if the contention is at all keen. They minimize racing luck of the dashes and call for riding skill in the jocky's judgment of pace. Difficulty of track secretaries is in securing starters. Many trainers prefer not to prep their charges for such endurance tests.

One of the British criticisms of American racing is the comparatively small number of events held on this side which call for real thoroughbred stamina. Every race follower knows we have plenty of good performers at a mile or less which fail to "go on" when asked to travel 1¼ or 1½ miles.

Los Angeles and tributary suburbs contain more parking areas than any vicinity we ever have visited. There are more autos than telephones in Los Angeles county, we are told. Observation would lead to believing the statement. As a result, all free parking space at the curbs usually is occupied.

To meet the situation, there are any number of vacant lots, especially in congested areas, for paid parking of cars. Charges in outlying districts are 10 cents daytime and 15 cents at night. In the city the charges are more likely to be 15 cents and 25 cents. If attending the movies, often when doing even the family grocering, one might as well include this charge in the expected expense.

The Wake always liked that hardy annual told by Californians at their own expense. According to the yarn, a retired "Iowan"—as they are prone to call midwesterners settling here—led the life of a recluse and little was known of him by his neighbors. When he became a motor casualty the pastor paid the usual stock tribute to the departed and then added, "If there is anyone present who would like to say a few words about our neighbor we'd be glad to hear from him."

A chap arose near the back of the auditorium and said, "I regret that I do not know anything about the deceased, but I would like at this sad time to say a few words, with your permission, of California's climate and the possibilities of California real estate." The story originated back in the real estate boom days.

"Over the Hill to the Poorhouse."

I love to go to the race track,
I always feel that I'm hot,
I'll take out a neat little ten spot
And make it a "grand" like as not.

I sit and I figure and figure,
And have every horse in its place.
And then I relax to enjoy it—
O boy! I will win every race!

My dream of great wealth is exploded,
My new little hat fades away.
The pretties I'd buy are outvoted—
O dear, it's the women who pay!

And I say to myself "You're a silly,
This horse business you cannot beat;
Stay at home, girl, save your money"
Well, anyway until next week.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—(AP)—After losing three games in as many starts against Boston this season, the Detroit Red Wings played the Bruins to a 2-2 overtime tie here tonight in a National Hocky league match before 10,000 fans.

Two goals by Dit Clapper gave the Boston club the tie, the Bruin forward counting in the first period on a pass from Barry and then scoring again in the third to even up the count after the Wings had jumped into the lead. Aurie scored for Detroit shortly after Clapper had made his first goal, and in the second period Weiland beat the veteran Thompson to give the Detroit club the lead temporarily.

SPORTING GOODS CONVENTION TO START TODAY

"Perpetual motion" bicycles that operate without propulsion are among the innovations in the sports world to be exhibited at the Sherman hotel this week starting today when 3,000 members of the National Sporting Goods Distributors association gather for their annual three day convention and show.

The bicycles have no chains, sprocket or pedals, and is propelled, the inventor explains, by the weight of the body of the rider.

More than 100 exhibits showing new trends in sports equipment and complete lines of the country's leading manufacturers are to be viewed by dealers during the three day session. Displays will fill the entire mezzanine floor, grand ballroom and exhibition hall.

Seamless rubber bathing suits, guaranteed wrinkle-proof, will be modeled by living mannequins at the show.

BANKS ARE SLOW IN LIQUIDATING, REPORTS SHOW

2 of 10 Make Small Deposit Refunds.

Two of the 10 state banks for which reports were issued yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett made small repayments to depositors. On the whole, liquidation was slow.

The Commercial Bank of Chicago Heights paid $23,000 more to raise its return from 45 to 50 per cent. The Congress Park State bank increased repayments from 10 to 30 per cent by a $5,500 distribution. The Congress Trust and Savings has paid depositors in full, and four others have made payments from 10 to 67 per cent.

Three have yielded nothing, including the Cosmopolitan State, which is reported on the verge of completing a reorganization that will free 40 per cent of deposits.

Bank Conditions Analyzed.

Detailed information on the condition and prospects of the 10 banks:

CITY STATE — Receipts, $1,947,600, of which $729,000 went for prior claims and $915,000 to pay depositors 32 per cent. Principal cost: $50,000 to receiver, $60,000 to Attorneys Deneen, Healy and Lee, $79,000 clerical, and $77,000 to protect assets with $51,000 returned. Losses, $314,000. Cash is $33,000 and lack of progress in the last year speaks ill for the quality of remaining assets. Assets are carried on the books at $2,127,000 and liabilities at $1,975,000. In receivership since Nov. 2, 1929.

COLUMBIA STATE SAVINGS — Receipts, $580,000—$123,000 to preferred claims and $279,500 for 22½ per cent to depositors. Expenses include $55,000 to protect assets with return of $22,500, $54,000 clerical, $15,000 to attorneys [$5,000 last quarter] with no legal fees since Jan. 1, 1933, paid yet, and $16,000 to receivers. Cash, $37,000, half in trust. Losses, $118,000. Further returns to depositors indicated, but not large ones, with book value assets only $1,250,000 against $999,000 liabilities.

COMMERCE TRUST-SAVINGS.

COMMERCE TRUST & SAVINGS—Receipts, $715,000—$230,000 to wipe out preferred claims and $385,500 for 67 per cent payment of depositors. Excellent record, with substantial further payments indicated in $317,000 book value assets against $194,000 liabilities. Losses, $30,000, or less than 5 per cent. Heaviest costs, $32,000 to attorneys and $25,500 clerical. Cash increased $14,000 last quarter to $25,000, near another 5 per cent dividend.

COMMERCIAL OF CHICAGO HEIGHTS—Receipts, $495,000—$162,000 to wipe out prior claims and $231,000 for 50 per cent payment of deposits [5 per cent, or $23,000, last quarter]. Assets protection, $40,000 with return of $30,000. Heaviest cost, $26,000 clerical. Last quarter collections equal dividend, but cash cut $9,000 by expenses. Losses, $99,000 to date, but remaining assets listed at $633,000 against liabilities of $240,000 point to further substantial payments to depositors.

COMMONWEALTH TRUST & SAVINGS—Receipts, $373,500, with $319,000 going to bills and prior claims. Bills cut $30,000 last quarter, but $19,000 still due on borrowed money, with other prior obligations beside. Paid $2,000 first attorney fees last quarter, none covered beyond 1932. Interest costs, $13,000, and clerical, $28,000. Heavy losses of $170,900. No returns to depositors, and they may expect little, with liabilities of $470,000 against remaining assets of $602,000 book value.

CONGRESS PARK STATE.

CONGRESS PARK STATE — Receipts, $35,200, with $12,000 to prior claims. Depositors paid $8,200, or 30 per cent [20 per cent last quarter]. Except for $2,000 cash, expenses have taken remainder for high percentage. Losses, $7,900. Owes RFC $6,500 to be paid before $20,000 liabilities. With $65,000 book value of remaining assets, figures indicate good final payout, but this depends very largely on real estate holdings.

CONGRESS TRUST AND SAVINGS—Receipts, $1,594,000—with $778,000 paying depositors in full. Still has $696,000 book value assets, with only $85,500 obligations. Reduced RFC loan $16,000 last quarter. Stock dividends indicated. Highest cost, $98,600 clerical. Attorneys only $32,500. Losses only $20,000.

COSMOPOLITAN STATE — Receipts, $1,052,000 [$58,000 last quarter]—$297,000 to meet prior claims. Still owes $688,500 on RFC loan. Planned through new RFC loan to reorganize bank soon and free 40 per cent of deposits. Book value remaining assets $3,748,000 against $1,570,000 liabilities besides RFC debt. Has $180,000 cash in trust. Outlay of $411,000 to protect assets [$72,000 last quarter] with return of $362,000. Interest to date, $87,000. Clerical expense, $58,000, and attorneys $18,000.

COTTAGE GROVE STATE.

COTTAGE GROVE STATE — Receipts, $526,000, with $382,000 applied on prior claims. Still owes $171,000 on borrowed money. Also has over $100,000 trust claims in liabilities of $949,000, which almost match $1,382,000 book value of remaining assets which are heavy with real estate. Losses, $147,000. Heaviest costs, $46,000 to protect assets, $25,000 interest, and $36,000 clerical. Difficult to see where depositors can hope for return of more than a pittance: nothing to date.

CRAGIN STATE — Receipts, $326,800—$152,000 to preferred claims and $43,200 for 10 per cent payment of depositors. Expenses, $32,000 to protect assets [$6,000 last quarter], $31,600 clerical [$3,500 last quarter], $27,500 to attorneys [$10,000 last quarter], and $23,000 receivers. Losses, $77,000. Prospects only fair, with $420,000 liabilities against $526,000 book value assets, but bills are paid and all of net goes to depositors.

William L. O'Connell, general receiver for the state, now has charge of all the above banks except the City State Bank of Chicago, of which Abel Davis is receiver.

STOCKHOLDERS IN MIDDLE WEST MAY GET OFFER

A more liberal offer to common stockholders may be made at a hearing this morning on the proposed reorganization of Middle West Utilities company to be held before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Secured creditors, who would receive 63 per cent of stock in the new company to be formed under the pending reorganization plan, held a series of secret conferences last week in New York with Orville J. Taylor, attorney for the common stockholders, it was learned yesterday.

None of the creditor or stockholder representatives would divulge the nature of their caucus or the decisions reached, but it was understood that a tentative agreement had been reached which may satisfy the common stock group. The noteholders, who would receive 37 per cent of the proposed stock, and the preferred stock committee have indorsed the plan offered by creditors, common stockholders being the single holdouts. Under the proposed plan, stockholders would receive warrants entitling them to buy stock at prices from $8 to $10 over a ten year period.

Corn Decline Turns Grain Market Down

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Corn led the decline in grain prices last week. Liquidation of speculative holdings in the May corn future sent the price down nearly 3 cents a bushel, while the same future in wheat fell only about 1⅛ cents a bushel. The action of corn was unusual in that the decline took place in the midst of the severe cold spell. Normally, the demand for feedstuffs is intensified during extremely cold weather and corn prices are strong.

Behind the weakness in corn several factors were discernible. It now appears likely that Argentina will produce a record breaking corn crop this season. Plantings in the South American country were increased materially this year because of the failure of the United States crop and the opening of this market for foreign corn. In addition, the usual abandonment of acreage in Argentina this year has been smaller than usual.

Argentine Conditions Favorable.

Generally speaking, the Argentine crop has had favorable conditions and present prospects are excellent. Last week the importation of 1,500,000 bushels of Argentine corn was reported.

At various times during the last week there was evidence of liquidation of important holdings in the May corn contract. The full effect of this liquidation was offset by buying representing the removal of hedges. A good business in corn was done throughout the week and about 700,000 bushels were sold for shipment out of the Chicago market. As a result a considerable volume of hedges was removed.

In the country, instead of a stiffening in corn prices as a result of the weather conditions, there were indications of some easing in prices, according to reports received here.

Uneasy Over Gold Decree.

Contributing to the weakness in corn futures, as well as the grain market generally, was the uneasiness of all speculative markets caused by the uncertainty of the gold clause case before the Supreme court. All grain prices reflected this uncertainty and the price trend was lower, although the speculative public apparently tempered fears which it entertained when the gold case first came into the spotlight.

MILWAUKEE ROAD TO AIR CONDITION FLEET OF 123 CARS

More than 300 men, working five days a week, will be employed for four months in the equipping of a fleet of 123 cars of the Milwaukee road with air conditioning, George B. Haynes, passenger trafic manager, announced yesterday. The road installed air conditioning units in 30 lounge and dining cars last year.

This year's program, which includes sleeping, dining, observation, and parlor cars and coaches, provides for the completion of the work so that the road's principal trains between Chicago-Milwaukee and the Twin cities, Seattle and Tacoma, between Chicago and Omaha and between Chicago and Kansas City will be completely equipped before the summer season opens.

The air conditioning system employed by the Milwaukee road uses steam generated by the locomotive in a vacuum method in which water is cooled to 45 degrees. The cool water is pumped into cooling coils located overhead inside the cars. A blower forces fresh air through the coils to be chilled and then into ducts opening into the body of the car.

Employes' Share of Steel Industry Revenues Gain

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A larger share of the steel industry's gross sales dollar was received by employés during the depression than in 1929, according to an analysis by the American Iron and Steel institute. The institute estimates that employés directly and indirectly required in steel production received in salaries and wages 43 cents out of every dollar realized from gross sales from 1930 through 1933. In 1929 the employés' share was 37 cents, and in 1918 only 34 cents of every sales dollar.

APPAREL MARKET TO OPEN TODAY; BUYERS DOUBLED

Advance registration at the Merchandise Mart women's and children's apparel markets, which is to open officially today, is 134 per cent greater than that of a year ago, according to T. J. Reed, general manager of the Mart.

Judging from these figures, more than 5,000 buyers will attend the markets before their close on Feb. 9, spending approximately $2,500,000. In addition, Mr. Reed pointed out yesterday, the number of stores represented by the registrants exceeds 1934 by 120 per cent.

COLD SPELL CHECKS RETAIL TRADE: STILL EXCEEDS A YEAR AGO

Wintry blasts last week caused a slight drop in Chicago retail business, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce, with department stores and other outlets showing turnover moderately below that of the preceding week, although the month as a whole is averaging about 10 per cent above a year ago.

Wholesale trade during the week was somewhat improved, being influenced by early buyers of spring clothing and millinery as well as the arrival of out-of-town buyers for several trade shows.

OVER 5 BILLION U. S. SECURITIES DUE WITHIN YEAR

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Obligations of the United States government in the hands of the public which will mature within twelve months amount to $5,540,746,400. They consist of treasury bonds, notes, and non-interest bearing discount bills.

The Fourth Liberty 4¼s outstanding have been reduced to approximately $3,142,000,000. Of this amount $1,870,000,000 has been called for redemption on April 15.

The First Liberty 4¼s and the Liberty 3½s are not callable until June 15, 1935 and then only if notice is given by March 15. These issues are outstanding in the amounts of $535,981,250 and $1,322,226,350, respectively.

Output of Steel Industry Rises to 53 Pct. of Capacity

Demand for steel continued to increase last week both in the number and tonnage of orders, with renewed pressure from the automobile industry helping to boost operations 2 points to 53 per cent of production capacity, according to the magazine Steel. During the last eight weeks ingot output has expanded at an average rate of 3 points a week, with the industry now making steel at a rate 43 per cent above the whole year of 1934, the journal says.

Since a considerable share of this improvement is attributed to the extremely low stocks of materials and manufactured goods, the producers would not be surprised if the rate of improvement should let up slightly. Because of automobile requirements the full finished sheet output is up to 75 per cent, while strip steel is at 65 per cent of capacity.

Tin Plate Output High.

Demand from container manufacturers sustains tin plate mill operations at 65 per cent, according to the review. Two props to heavy steel production, structurals and railroads, are lacking.

"The automobile industry last week made 69,000 cars, 3,000 more than in the preceding week," the review says. "Ford in the lead and turning out 5,000 cars daily, has increased February schedules from 110,000 to 130,000, which would be its largest monthly production in nearly five years.

"Chevrolet's master models are expected off the assembly line next month, raising its output 50 per cent. A leading maker wanted to place 50,000 tons of full finished sheets in the Pittsburgh district last week, but, unable to obtain shipment from that source before three weeks, purchased 20,000 tons for February."

Steel Awards Smaller.

Steel awards for the week amounted to 7,800 tons, compared with 14,222 tons in the preceding week, and included 5,830 tons for the Los Angeles metropolitan water district and 1,000 tons for the Atlanta, Ga., housing project. The General American Tank Storage and Terminal company, Chicago, placed 2,125 tons of plates for tanks at Houston, Tex.

"From the chemical and oil industries considerable steel tonnage is expected this year," the journal says. "The chemical industry has authorized $100,000,000 expenditures for alterations and new plants, not far below the steel industry's own $125,000,000 new equipment appropriation. Need for modernizing many industrial plants is slowly opening up a huge reservoir of steel requirements. Demand for durable goods is increasing moderately."

Detroit Reaches Capacity.

Gains in operations during the week included 29 points to 100 per cent at Detroit, because of automobile requirements, 5 points to 38 per cent at Pittsburgh, 5 points to 95 per cent at Wheeling, 4 points to 64 per cent at Youngstown, 3 points to 59 per cent in Chicago, 2 points to 44 per cent at Buffalo, 2½ points to 31½ per cent at Birmingham, and 1 point to 28½ per cent in eastern Pennsylvania. Cleveland eased 3 points to 79 per cent, while New England held at 68 per cent.

The magazine's iron and steel price composite is 2 cents lower at $32.60 a ton, due to reductions in scrap, while the scrap composite is 17 cents lower at $12.08 and the finished steel index holds at $54 a ton.

Railways Install 24,103 New Freight Cars in 1934

Class one railroads of the United States installed 24,103 new freight cars in 1934, according to reports to the Association of American Railroads. In 1933 there were 1,879 new freight cars placed in service and in 1932 there were 2,968.

Finland to Redeem $225,000 Sinking Fund Bonds by Lot

The National City Bank of New York, fiscal agent, announces that the republic of Finland will redeem by lot on March 1, $225,000 principal amount of its 22 year 6 per cent external sinking fund gold bonds, due Sept. 1, 1945, at the price of par and interest.

GOLD DECISION DELAY SERVES TO SLOW TRADE

Market Is Dullest in Months.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—On the stock exchange this week was the dullest in months. With the United States Supreme court failing to hand down its anticipated decision in the so-called gold contract suits last Monday, traders could find nothing in the market picture to influence a change from the watchful waiting policy to which they have been adhering ever since the opening hearing of the important litigation.

The result has been an almost exclusively "professionals" market. On Thursday and again on Friday turnover fell well below a half million shares. The total for the entire week was only 3,179,786 shares. Prices fluctuated within a radius of a point throughout the week, finishing yesterday's brief session a fraction below their level of the preceding Saturday.

Sentiment Still Bullish.

Brokers insist that speculative sentiment continues moderately bullish in spite of the many uncertainties facing the market, and in face of the utter indifference shown by leading stocks to such items of constructive news as have come their way in recent weeks. The steadiness of the list in face of its unfavorable possibilities, indeed, is held to be one of the chief reasons for maintaining a hopeful view of the situation.

Even the silver and other highly inflationary shares have refused to turn tail over the dire consequences which some of the more lugubrious

If you have shares of Republic Steel...

★ ★ ★

ONE of the most significant events of a constructive nature, since 1929, is the impending combination of Republic Steel Corporation and Corrigan-McKinney, and Truscon Steel Companies.

Republic is going ahead!

We already have the sanction of officers, directors and proxies for over 65% of the preferred stock and over two-thirds of the common stock of the Corporation. Only two-thirds vote of the preferred and common stock is necessary to authorize the plan. But we want an overwhelming mandate. We want vigorous and full support — the enthusiastic and complete support of owners far-sighted enough to recognize that in the world today the chief yardstick of success is quick and efficient adaptability to new conditions.

If you have any shares of Republic stock, don't let them die of inertia. Bring them out and put them to work. Your best chance for future dividends lies in the exercise of your proxies and the deposit of your preferred stock.

The new Republic Steel Corporation is a business of the twentieth century, built and managed by men who have grown up in the modern world of metals. We do not believe in standing still, waiting for the results of social and economic developments before going forward. Progress is best effected by continually undertaking to change conditions for the better.

You can actually see the world being newly shaped around you, if you will only pause a moment to consider it. Where are the automobiles of five years ago? — the ocean liners of wartime? — talking machines? — oil lamps? — They are not yet obsolete by any means. But you can see them and literally thousands of other products being swept away by the onrush of new inventions built of the new alloys of steel.

It is almost impossible to calculate the amount of business that must be done in the field of replacements. The deterioration of old-fashioned metals is far more rapid than any layman supposes. Standardization and stability are only theories in industry. The old order forever changes — and for the new there is always a newer world to be built.

The new organization of Republic Steel equips it with the necessary properties and facilities for balanced operations.

By every evidence, America is once more moving in a cycle of greater achievement, greater production. The outlook for the whole steel industry is greatly improved, particularly so in the case of Republic Steel. Republic's operations are well above average for the industry. And so are Corrigan-McKinney's. The consolidation of these properties, and the acquisition of Truscon Steel, will equip Republic Steel still further to advance its position as a leader in the steel industry.

It has been impossible for us to keep in personal touch with all our stockholders. If you are one of those whom we have not been able to reach — and wish to do your part in the great work before us — no matter how small your holdings may be — send in your proxy!

U. S. INDUSTRY REVERSES TREND TO MOVE FASTER

Production Is Up Despite Seasonal Influence.

Washington, Jan. 27. — (AP) — A "sharp" reversal in normal trends during December and the first three weeks in January which brought an abrupt increase in factory employment and industrial production was reported today by the federal reserve board.

"Output of basic industrial products increased in December, when it usually declines," the report said, "and the federal reserve board's index, which makes allowance for the usual seasonal variations, increased from 74 per cent of the 1923-'25 average in November to 85 per cent in December.

"Activity at steel mills increased, contrary to the usual seasonal tendency, and output at automobile factories rose rapidly."

Textile Mills Gain.

Woolen and silk mills increased their activities during the month, while at cotton mills and tobacco factories the "declines were less than the usual seasonal amount," the report said. The output of petroleum increased somewhat in December and the first half of January.

Factory employment increased between the middle of November and the middle of December, "contrary to seasonal tendency," the board said, and was accompanied by a "considerable growth" in factory pay rolls.

Substantial rises were also reported for the automobile, textile, shoe, and tire industries, but in the meat packing industry there was a further decline from recent high levels. Employment in retail trade showed an increase largely of a seasonal character.

Commodity Prices Rise.

The report said the general level of wholesale commodity prices advanced considerably during the latter part of December and the early part of January, "reflecting chiefly marked increases in the prices of farm products and foods."

"Wholesale prices generally are nine per cent higher than a year ago, the board said, "reflecting an increase of 30 per cent for farm products, an increase of 24 per cent for foods and little change for other commodities."

In addition, the report said that the retail prices of foods "increased considerably in the latter part of December, following three months of gradual decline."

BIG N. Y. UTILITY SUBMITS PLAN TO REDUCE RATES

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—An aggregate cut of $10,000,000 in electric rates in New York City has been offered in a proposal submitted to the public service commission by the Consolidated Gas system. The proposal, which was disclosed by the commission today, is predicated upon a merger of all electric, gas, and steam units of the Consolidated system into a single billion dollar corporation with its rate structures based on the so-called Washington plan.

Unification of the separate companies into one corporation and the abolition of submetering and the resale of electricity are made conditions of the proposal. The company's offer is not in the form of an application for permission to establish new schedules, but is to serve as the basis for further negotiations between the commission and the Consolidated group, in an effort to bring about submission of a formal application.

In its proposal the Consolidated offers to eliminate about $85,000,000 from the fixed capital accounts of the companies constituting the Consolidated system. It offers also to establish, as of Dec. 31, 1934, an aggregate rate base of $1,119,000,000 for its electric, gas, and steam business in New York City and Westchester county, and asks for an initial return of 7 per cent. The electric, gas, and steam businesses are to be conducted as separate departments of the unified corporation and each department is to have its own rate base and its own initial 7 per cent return on that base.

I. R. T. COMPANY REVENUES SHOW SMALL DECLINE

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The report of the receiver of the Interborough Rapid Transit company for the first six months of its fiscal year, July 1 to Dec. 31, 1934, shows gross operating revenue $67,736 lower than in the 1933 period at $21,153,431, but income from operation $237,810 lower at $7,862,815 because of an increase of $100,816 in taxes and $69,258 in expenses.

A balance of $1,549,607 is reported for the six months, comparing with $1,575,497 the year before, before deducting rentals on Manhattan railway modified guarantee stock. On Dec. 31 there was an unearned balance of $664,954 on the basis of preferentials, which may be collected out of future subway earnings, comparing with an unearned balance of $966,-855 on Nov. 30, 1934, and one of $749,517 at the end of 1933.

WARNS SOARING U. S. DEBT MAY DEFEAT REVIVAL

N. Y. Bank Sees Individual Initiative Discouraged

The public debt of the United States is reaching a point where further large increases may, by discouraging individual initiative, defeat the purpose for which the debt is created—stimulation of recovery. This view is expressed by the Guaranty Trust company in its monthly summary of business conditions.

The government's success in floating securities indicates its credit is sound and probably our debt could be expanded without impairing the confidence of investors, although there is room for the view that we are approaching the psychological limit, the bank says.

"Estimates of the government's financial requirements for 1935-36 raise the question of how far public debt may safely be expanded and the extent to which huge outlays are justified by the measure of recovery the expenditure promotes," the survey continues.

Recites British Situation.

"It is usually pointed out that while the public debt of the United Kingdom is larger than our own is expected to be in 1936 great progress toward recovery has been made in that country, with the inference a large debt is not necessarily an obstacle to revival.

"Fundamental differences exist between the two countries. Our government believes the recovery road lies in public expenditures which place purchasing power in the hands of consumers. England operates on the principle that business confidence inspired by a balanced budget will bring an expansion in economic activity that will reduce unemployment and stimulate trade. As a result, it has balanced its budget for the last two fiscal years in total."

While admitting taxes in the United Kingdom are extremely high, the review says British business men know what to expect in financial policies when making plans for the future.

British Debt Stabilized.

While the British national debt is large it has existed for several years and the country has weathered one of the worst depressions in history without material debt increases. Securities representing these obligations have had a sufficient time to be digested by the permanent investing public and institutions.

"The situation in this country is the opposite," the bank declares. "Our budget is out of balance, people are wondering if the huge amount of government bonds outstanding can be prevented from serving as the basis for credit inflation, and question whether private enterprise can absorb those now employed by government funds when a continuation of such spending is no longer possible. Can we meet payments on current debt without resorting to further currency debasement or a level of taxation that will cripple private business and discourage individual initiative?

Compares Per Capita Debt.

"Although the total debt of the United Kingdom is smaller than our currently contemplated total, it is much larger on a per capita basis. Outstanding differences in the financial situations of the two nations that should discourage reckoning our safe debt level in per capita debt of the United Kingdom follow:

"The British government is paying expenses out of income, while approximately half of our expenditures during the next fiscal year will be paid from anticipated taxes of future years. The British budget is balanced: our budget shows a large deficit and the administration has given no assurance when it will be balanced. Carrying charges of the British debt have been declining. A large and increasing portion of United States government securities are in short term obligations held by banks; it is yet to be determined who will be their ultimate holders and the part they will play, perhaps involuntarily, in the future credit structure of the nation."

URGES U. S. BUY BUILDINGS OF CLOSED BANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—A bill providing for the purchase by the federal government of buildings housing closed banks that would be suitable for postoffices will be reintroduced in the house today by Representative Leo E. Allen [Rep., Ill.].

Allen declared that enactment of the legislation would release nearly 25 million dollars in frozen assets. Purchase of the properties would be contingent on the approval in each case of the postmaster general, according to the bill.

"Passage of this bill," said Allen, "will facilitate payment of dividends to depositors because most bank buildings are unsuitable for general business and would continue to be idle." The congressman said that he would appear before the house committee on postoffices to plead for his measure.

B. & O. Gives Order to Air Condition 50 Cars

The York Ice Machinery company has received an order for the air conditioning of fifty additional cars of various types from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. The contract calls for completion of the work at an early date and involves an outlay of $50,000.

RAILROAD LINE ABANDONMENT SETS NEW MARK

1,995 Miles Are Given Up in Last Year.

A record amount of railroad mileage was abandoned in this country last year when 1,995 miles of track were given up, Railway Age reports in its annual statistical issue, to be published today.

"In view of the acceleration of the decline in railway mileage which has occurred within recent years it seems possible the American people may in time achieve their apparent desire to abolish all railway mileage and service," the publication asserts.

"Construction of line continued in 1934 in a state of almost complete paralysis. The new mileage placed in operation was 76 miles, of which the Dotsero cutoff of the Denver and Rio Grande Western represented 50 per cent. There was almost no construction of second or other additional trackage.

1,995 Miles Abandoned.

"The total mileage of line abandoned in 1933 was 1,876 miles, and in 1934 it was 1,995 miles, the largest mileage ever abandoned in any year in the history of the United States. The largest single abandonment was that of the Missouri Pacific between Fort Scott, Kas., and Lomax, 91 miles. The Chicago and Illinois Valley abandoned its entire mileage of 75 miles. The Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic came third with an abandonment of 74 miles between Superior, Wis., and Marengo Junction.

"Seventy-five different railways abandoned 183 different pieces of line in 35 different states. The mileage of railway line in the United States reached its maximum in 1916, when it was 254,251. It is now less than 244,000 miles."

Reviewing the results of railroad operation during 1934, the paper says in the first half of the year both gross earnings and operating expenses were larger than in the first half of 1933, but owing principally to advances in prices, operating expenses were gaining so rapidly on gross earnings that as early as May net operating income became less than in 1933.

Earnings Turn Lower.

In the second half of the year gross earnings became less than in 1933, while operating expenses increased, due partly to the increase in wages. Net operating income for the year was less than in 1933, although substantially ahead of 1932.

During the year the railroads increased their purchases. This was partly due to $200,000,000 of PWA loans and to the increased earnings in the first half of the year. The roads ordered 183 locomotives in 1934, compared with 42 in 1933. They ordered 24,609 freight cars, compared with 1,685 in 1933. The number of passenger cars ordered was 387, compared with 6 in 1933.

Purchases of equipment, materials, and supplies from all manufacturers in 1934 was about as large as in either 1932 or 1933, but less than half as large as in pre-depression years.

U. S. CONDUCTING WORLD SURVEY TO HELP COTTON

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—A world-wide survey designed to investigate every possibility for the sale of America's surplus cotton has been undertaken by the state department at the direction of President Roosevelt, Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state, has immediate charge of the attempt to get rid of some of the heaped up store of the staple.

Some of the proposals under consideration and some moves already made include:

Secretary Hull has instructed the American embassy in London to "sound out" Great Britain on plans for an international agreement on cotton production, which would be similar to the international wheat limitation pact. Great Britain, in this instance, represents not only its great manufacturing interests, but India and Egypt, two of the great cotton producing countries.

Although a proposed 500,000 bale deal with Germany failed, other plans for the sale of raw cotton abroad are being considered. The trade agreements committee, assisting in the negotiation of new reciprocal trade agreements with 16 countries, is endeavoring to help cotton exportation through the pacts.

RESERVE BOARD PLANS $1,000,000 HOME IN CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The federal reserve board has completed plans for construction of a building which will cost well over $1,000,000 to house its six members, two ex-officio members, and the staf. The building will be erected on Constitution avenue between the post office and the National Academy of Sciences, and across the avenue from the Navy building.

The construction committee, headed by Adolph C. Miller, board member, will not make any announcement about the building until late next week, Mr. Miller said today, but it was learned from other authoritative sources that blueprints containing plans for the structure have been carefully studied by the committee and the board and that contractors have been privately prepared to advice.

Since Secretary Morgenthau assumed office the treasury staf has been greatly expanded, and the reserve board was forced several months ago to leave the quarters in the Treasury building which it occupied for years to take a suite of offices in a centrally located building here.

Chicago Ford Plant Lifts Output to 500 Cars Daily

Production at the Chicago branch of the Ford Motor Car company has been increased to 500 cars a day, it was announced yesterday. This is the largest number turned out at the local plant since the introduction of the model A car. Dealer orders in this territory for the new models now are about 10,000, according to Ford officials here. Employment at the plant has risen to 3,500.

900 MILLION BILL IS NEXT IN HOUSE; BATTLE ON BONUS

Postal Service Wants 724 Million.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—With the decks cleared of New Deal legislation for the moment the house of representatives will start consideration this week of the treasury and postoffice departments bill with appropriations of more than 900 millions of dollars for the next fiscal year.

Under the proposed bill the appropriation of 724 millions for the postal service is an increase of 27 millions over last year and the treasury department shows an increase of 14 millions. Restoration of pay cuts accounts for the bulk of the increase.

House leaders are planning now to take a vote on the measure Tuesday or Wednesday. Another vote will be taken on the two year extension of the Reconstruction Finance corporation by Thursday.

Split in Bonus Forces.

In the meantime the situation on the bonus has resolved itself into a splitting of forces over methodology and legislation for immediate payment of the veterans' adjustment service certificates has been sidetracked.

Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], author of the printing press bonus bill, is hot under the collar because the Legion leaders have presented another measure.

The Patman bill, first on the house calendar for the session, provides for an issuance of greenbacks backed up by the veterans' certificates. The other bill, supported by National Commander Frank Belgrano of the American Legion and introduced by Representative Fred Vinson [Dem., Ky.], would have the bonus paid through an issuance of bonds maturing in 1945, the date when the certificates originally were to be redeemed.

Called Bankers' Bill.

"The Legion bill is a bankers' bonus bill," remarked Patman, "and doesn't represent the feelings of the rank and file of the veterans."

On the other hand, Vinson, said to be close to the administration, is a member of the ways and means committee to which two score bonus bills have been referred, and is expected to have more weight in saying the kind of bonus measure that will be reported out of the committee than Patman.

Before the committee takes up the bonus fight it will have to dispose of the President's 100 million dollar social security program. The ways and means chairman, Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], has announced that witnesses other than administration representatives will be called to testify on the social security bill beginning next Wednesday.

American Machine Calls Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

American Machine and Foundry company will redeem on April 1 all of its 15 year 6 per cent secured sinking fund gold bonds, due April 1, 1939, of which issue $411,000 principal remains outstanding. The bonds will become payable at the redemption price of 102 and interest.

Commercial Solvents.

Investors' Guide: Please send me a report on Commercial Solvents.—H. W.

Answer: Commercial Solvents corporation's products reach a diversified list of industries. Earnings consequently generally fluctuate with general business activity.

Butanol is manufactured by a patented process [the patent will expire in 1936]. It is used primarily in lackers, and is regarded as a premium solvent. It is also used in manufacture of rayon, artificial lether, drug and chemical products. Acetone finds its uses chiefly in manufacture of artificial silk, photographic films and steel. Methanol goes into formaldehyde; grain alcohol finds its large market among distillers for cutting and blending whiskies and industrial alcohol is widely used as an antifreeze solution.

For the first nine months of 1934 net income equaled 70 cents a share against 49 cents a share for the corresponding 1933 period. Net income for 1933 was $2,328,000, or 83 cents a share, against net of $1,232,000, or 51 cents a share for 1932. Net for 1931 equaled 84 cents a share, against $1.07 a share for 1930.

During the period under review the corporation carried its lands and buildings at $1, which eliminated depreciation charges.

Current position at the close of 1933 was strong. It was still further strengthened in December, 1934, when the company sold its interest in one subsidiary for $7,420,000.

Capitalization consists solely of 2,635,978 shares of no par stock on which semi-annual dividends of 30 cents a share are currently being paid. The stock deserves a fairly good rating.

Pennsylvania State Water.

Investors' Guide: Any information you can give us on Pennsylvania State Water corporation first 5½s will be appreciated.—C. G. G.

Answer: Pennsylvania State Water company is a holding company, controled by Community Water Service company. It furnishes water to a population of 211,000 in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland.

Operating revenues totaled $579,000 in the first half of 1934, against $557,000 in the corresponding 1933 period, but charges were earned 1.48 times, against 1.51 times in the first six months of 1933.

Operating revenues in 1933 totaled $1,143,000, against $1,158,000 in 1932 and $1,210,000 in 1931. Charges were earned 1.49 times in 1933, against 1.54 times in 1932 and 1.63 times in 1931.

Current assets on Dec. 31, 1933, totaled $433,000 and current liabilities were $245,000.

The $6,559,000 first lien 5½s, due March 1, 1952 are a business man's risk.

REORGANIZATION OF MOP ASSAILED BY BOND GROUP

Charges Officials Unfit to Carry Out Plan.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—On the eve of an announcement of a plan of reorganization for the Missouri Pacific railroad, largest unit in the Van Sweringen railroad group, a committee for bondholders of the company headed by Charles A. Beard, former professor of politics at Columbia university, issued today a statement charging that the officials promoting the plan were disqualified for the work.

Delay in the announcement of the plan is ascribed in Wall street to a three-fold problem which confronts its proponents. The primary object of the plan is to lighten the topheavy load of funded debt which encumbers the Missouri Pacific.

Reorganization Effects.

A drastic reorganization of the Missouri Pacific would wipe out control of the company held by the Alleghany corporation, top company in the $2,000,000,000 Van Sweringen holding structure. The elimination of this equity in turn would affect adversely the status of a $40,000,000 loan extended by a J. P. Morgan & Co. group to O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen and secured by the majority part of the Alleghany corporation's common stock. Another complication is that the Missouri Pacific holds a claim for certain terminal transactions against the Alleghany corporation, which is being reorganized.

Partners in both J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are active in the Missouri Pacific reorganization plan, although they take the position that they are acting as bondholrers' representatives and not as members of their respective firms.

Stock Market Operations.

"The detailed history of the Missouri Pacific in the last eighteen years," the Beard committee said in part, "bears out the conclusion that its bankruptcy is no business made bankruptcy, no depression made bankruptcy, but a financiers' and promoters' bankruptcy. It was the bankers who created the last reorganization of the Missouri Pacific railroad company in 1917. They put it to work, not simply operating a railroad, but conducting stock market operations, out of which the bankers made millions in stock exchange commissions, promoters' commissions and flotation commissions.

"It was the bankers who put their approval on an inflated capitalization of $100,000,000, if not more, and then sold to the investing public hundreds of millions of securities resting on that grossly inflated structure. It was promoters, supported in their financial operations by bankers, who, on a personal investment of shoestring proportions, captured control of a two billion dollar railway empire. It was promoters, similarly financed, under whose control the books of the Missouri Pacific railroad company and its subsidiaries were conducted in a manner contrary to the public interest and sound economy.

"It is not strange, therefore, that a high grade railroad property, operating in a developing section of the country, and doing, for depression times, a good business with a net return above its operating expenses, is confronted with the paradox of bankruptcy."

Two Chicagoans Elected Fruit Jobbers' Officers

C. R. Godding and William L. Wagner, both of Chicago, have been elected treasurer and secretary, respectively, of the Western Fruit-Jobbers' association at the annual convention in San Francisco, Cal. Wagner was reëlected to his office. G. A. Marsh, St. Louis, Mo., was elected president. R. H. Dietz, Chicago, was elected to the advisory board.

LETTERS

Letters of not more than 200 words, addressed to the Financial Editor, will be printed in these columns from time to time. Communications must be signed.

Here's the Record.

New York, Jan. 22—Supposing you to be interested in the accuracy of what you print I refer to the matter of actual payment of dividends on General Candy class A common stock. In today's TRIBUNE you report no dividends on this stock when as a matter of common knowledge a payment of 50 cents per share has been made. How about the TRIBUNE getting itself up to date? At least it is easy enough to do so on this particular item, now that it is pointed out to you. Let's have today's news in today's paper. A. J. ALLMAN.

Editor's Note: No payments have been made on this stock this year. The disbursement referred to totaled 50 cents, paid on account of accumulation, on Dec. 1, last. Chicago Stock exchange tables list only payments on accumulations during the current year. Total payments on back dividends last year were 75 cents a share, and not 50 cents as the reader asserted.

MANY APPAREL SHOWS WILL BE HELD HERE SOON

Samuel W. Rayburn, president of the Associated Dry Goods corporation, will be the principal speaker when the Interstate Merchants' council holds its semi-annual meeting at the Hotel Sherman starting Feb. 4, the Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday.

The council, whose membership numbers 12,000 retailers in 40 states and Canada, will hold its spring style show at the same time. Wares of 1,200 Chicago manufacturers and distributors will be on display for the visiting merchants.

Other shows arranged for retailers in Chicago follow: Spring market opening, Feb. 4-9; Interstate Merchants' council, Feb. 4-6; ready to wear show, Merchandise Mart, Jan. 28-Feb. 9; style show, French Casino, Jan. 29-30; wash frock, childrens' and infants' wear show, Merchandise Mart, Jan. 28-Feb. 9; Morrison hotel style show, Jan. 28-Feb. 8; Chicago curtain and drapery show, Palmer house, Jan. 28-Feb. 2; gift show, Merchandise Mart, Feb. 4-16; glassware, china, and pottery show, Merchandise Mart, Feb. 4-16; fabric style show, Congress hotel, Jan. 28-29; merchandise fair, Palmer house, Feb. 4-9; eastern manufacturers and importers' show, Palmer house, Feb. 4-9.

FEDERAL TRADE GROUP ASSAILS HOLDING UNITS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Either outright suppression or straitjacket regulation of public utility holding companies was recommended today by the federal trade commission.

"The evils of the holding company may be so inherent that they can be eradicated only by eradicating the system itself," the commission reported to congress in the final section of its utility study. Summing up a conclusion from its seven year investigation, the commission said: "There appears to be no plausible justification for the super holding company."

The commission said the acts and abuses by holding companies were "too various" to recite in detail, but would require a special appendix.

Sharp Decline in Orders Reported by Lumber Mills

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—A sharp decline in new business of 1,047 mills for the week ended Jan. 19 as compared with the previous week was shown today in a report of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association. New business totaled 174,735,000 feet, compared with 215,201,000 feet at 1,101 mills during the previous six day period. Declines in production and shipments were also noted, the Jan. 19 figures being shipments 151,906,000 feet and production 125,043,000 feet. For the previous week shipments totaled 157,278,000 feet and production 137,978,000 feet.

FRANCO-GERMAN TRADE ENTENTE BELIEVED NEAR

Regarded Strong Factor in Recovery.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 27.—The possibility of a general Franco-German economic entente—a powerful factor in European business recoverery—is occupying business circles in France.

The complexity of problems raised by the return of the Saar territory to Germany is regarded as a promising factor as it is becoming increasingly evident that no satisfactory solution of these problems can be found unless there is an economic rapprochement between these two countries.

There are three elements in the economic aspect of the Saar problem. First is the knotty question of remuneration for mines which has already been settled in principle. Meantime the French and Germans are discussing at Basel the conversion of French francs into German marks and restitution to the Bank of France for French bank notes retired from circulation.

Payment on Mines.

The bank notes to be retired from circulation are estimated at 300,000,000 to 400,000,000 francs—$20,000,000 to $27,000,000. Ninety-five per cent of this amount will be considered as on account for payment to the French for the Saar mines given them under the Versailles treaty. This percentage will be paid into a blocked account in the world bank at Basel, which will credit France.

It is expected that upward of $40,000,000 for the sale of the mines to Germany beyond the $20,000,000 to $27,000,000 in French francs retired from circulation will be covered by deliveries of coal for the next five years at the rate of 1,500,000 tons annually.

The second problem is the "dumping" into France of goods from the Saar up to date of the official return to Germany [set for March 1]. French business circles fear that France will be flooded with Saar products by merchants hoping to profit by the customs régime.

Fear Heavy Inflow.

It is particularly feared that machinery, glassware, and ceramics will come into France in inordinate quantities. It is also feared that German products will arrive in France via the Saar border unless the French customs personnel is reinforced.

The third problem is the effect on the economy of Alsace-Lorraine. Until the return to Germany the Saar had been one of the best markets for agricultural products. The Alsatians are greatly alarmed at the possibility of high tarif barriers on farm products.

TEST OF LEGALITY OF TVA TO START IN SOUTH TODAY

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Constitutionality of the electrification program of the Tennessee Valley authority tonight was the subject of study of two groups of attorneys in preparation for tomorrow's test before Judge W. I. Grubb in United States District court.

The question was raised in a petition of a group of preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power company seeking an injunction based on alleged unconstitutionality of the TVA electric program, on which arguments will be heard after testimony is offered.

The suit made defendants of the TVA, the Alabama Power company, and fourteen north Alabama municipalities, after the federal body and the utility had entered into a contract for the sale of distribution systems in the towns and cities involved, transmission lines connecting them and the site of Joe Wheeler dam.

PACKERS EMPLOY MOST SINCE 1923; PAY ROLLS CLIMB

Use of Meat Expands; Farmers Get More.

Employment by the packing industry last year was the largest since 1923, payrolls climbed 33 per cent and both employment and payrolls doubled yearly gains achieved by manufacturing industries as a whole, according to the Institute of American Meat Packers.

Average monthly employment rose to 103.7 measured by the bureau of labor statistics' index of 100 for the 1923-25 average. Employment in all other manufacturing industries on the same basis scored 78.7. Payrolls of the packing industry climbed to 78.7 in 1933 and to 90.05 last year, while general industrial levels held at 48.5 and 61.9 respectively.

Federal Program Is Factor.

Heaviest increases were registered in the summer and fall, when the government's live stock purchasing and canning programs reached their height.

"Long before the drouth arrived with its emergencies farmers were marketing more cattle and consumers were eating more beef than in the eight preceding years," the institute comments. "Employment for every month was at least one-sixth higher than in 1933 and payrolls were one-third higher.

"The American public ate more than 20 billion pounds of meat last year, compared with 18 billions in 1933. Per capita consumption totaled 68 pounds of pork and beef, 11 pounds of veal and 6 of lamb—a total of 153 pounds, the highest figure in 27 years.

Use 50,000,000 Pounds Daily.

"Daily meat consumption amounted to 50 million pounds or about two-fifth pounds per person."

The institute says that the gain in consumer purchasing power last year permitted the industry to pay the farmer for his meat animals nearly as much in the first ten months as in all of 1933. Average cattle prices at local farm markets in December, cited by the department of agriculture, were 24 per cent higher than for the previous December, while hog prices at local markets had increased 76 per cent.

E. A. Filene Elected Head of Credit Union National

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Edward A. Filene, Boston philanthropist, was elected president of the Credit Union National association at its annual convention here today. Filene explained the purpose of the movement was to provide wage earners an opportunity to participate as stockholders and enable them to secure small, short period loans. Roy F. Bergengren, managing director, outlined the growth of the organization in the last fifteen years to a membership of 1,000,000 and resources close to 100 million dollars.

TO ALERT MEN WHO DON'T ANSWER ADS

Yet want to start 1935 with a clean, honest position that will insure them a fair return for their work. I sincerely believe you will be glad you investigated this opportunity.

This company has placed on the market a revolutionary electrical unit [introduced in Chicago 9 weeks ago] and the cash commissions of our representatives are really amazing—a good living is here for a worker—and a fortune is in the cards for good men. Proof of this is evidenced by the fact that we paid two men, Small and Hall, the first four weeks with this product [December, 1934], $879.05 and $962, respectively. New men can immediately make big money if they are industrious, as demonstrated by J. Terry, who has earned in his first 14 days with us $350 [up to Thursday, Jan. 24.]

If you meet our requirements of NEAT APPEARANCE, INDUSTRIOUS nature, 25 to 50 years of age, we will set you up in a steady business of your own neighborhood WITHOUT ONE CENT INVESTMENT on your part. You won't get rich—BUT YOU SHOULD NET FROM $38 to $70 A WEEK.

By this time next week one of your friends may have the franchise to operate, so don't put this off. INVESTIGATE this PLAN—IT COSTS YOU NOTHING BUT YOUR TIME and it may be just what you have been looking for.

APPLY FOR INTERVIEW MONDAY ONLY. 11 A. M. or 3 P. M.
